59 Run 120,000,000 Birth Control Again The Woman Tempted Me Look What They Did

—By Arthur Brisbane—

JAMES W. GERARD, former ambassador to Germany, says "59 men rule the United States." The remaining 120,000,000 odd will be interested to know that no public official, not even the President of the United States or any member of his cabinet except Secretary Mellon, appears in the list of "59 that rule the nation."

It seems impossible, but perhaps it isn't. Sometimes men seem to rule that really do not rule.

Mr. Gerard says "all these men are too busy to run for political office." The really important man, of course, doesn't run when he can send a boy to run for him.

However, the marvellous 59 don't seem to be doing very much running of the nation just at present. They are letting the good old U. S. A. machine coast down hill, while each asks the other 58: "What do you think of the prospects?"

The modern churchmen's conference at Oxford is told that birth control is necessary because "unwanted children, whether in or out of marriage, are undesirable productions, misfortunes alike to themselves and their parents."

Birth control must regulate the family hereafter, one preacher said, also "too often marriages are wrecked early either by the stupidity of the man or the false modesty of the woman."

The history of marriage begins with the statement, "the woman tempted me and I did eat." That excuse has been used since, quite frequently.

Ludendorff, the German general, asking for a divorce, says his wife "deluded him" into attacking the Jews and Masons, which he should not have done, and caused him to adopt unorthodox religious practices. Among other things, Ludendorff had accused Jewish airplane and automobile makers of causing wrecks on German railroads, to make rail travel unpopular.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is back in politics, with Mr. Raskob, head of the Democratic party, close behind him. Mr. Smith, who was beaten by Mr. Hoover, after he, Mr. Smith, had got the biggest Democratic vote ever cast, a vote as big as that of President Coolidge, is going out to campaign for congressional and other Democratic candidates.

This text will be put in more eloquent language: "Look what the Republicans did to you."

Unless something cheerful happens to prosperity, soon, voters in the coming election will probably give fairly accurate figures concerning men out of work now.

A cable from London says the Russian government plans a "world wide uprising of Negroes," beginning with propaganda among colored men in the United States. "Black hands" are to overthrow "capitalistic government." It is an interesting fairy tale. If Russians able to understand industrial conditions will come to the United States, they will learn that "capitalistic government" looks upon the colored man as one of its best friends, extremely useful when labor is scarce, to keep white workers from being "too uppity."

The Hon. George Dallas, M. P., tells Chautauqua listeners that he sees poverty ahead for Great Britain and a "black winter." He blames the Allies.

Winston Churchill, intelligent grandson of an able American stockbroker, who recently visited this country, finds many things wrong with England and wants MacDonald and his Labor government to get out.

Churchill says the "wretched Socialists" must go, to restore the world's confidence in Britain.

He and the Hon. George may be mistaken.

Some read with surprise the statement that organized crime in the United States, including bootlegging, takes $\frac{1}{8}$ each year an amount running into billions, far in excess of the total revenues of the United States government.

It is no exaggeration. The getrich-quick rascals, racketeers, gangsters, bootleggers, collect, squander and distribute in bribes a revenue greater than that of Uncle Sam.

One little item in the organized racketeering shows that in New York, the "milk gang" levy on milk dealers amounts to $1,155,000 a week, and that is only one of a thousand "rackets."

Charles Mrzena, who calls himself "Bishop of the Czechoslovak Orthodox Catholic Church," is convicted of bootlegging. Prohibition lets clergymen of all denominations have wine for sacramental use.

SACCO HEADS TO DEFY GAS BOMBS

Kay Says They'll Meet Tonight in Spite of Police Guns; Rabbi Wise Arrives

"We are going ahead with our meeting on the Common tonight in spite of tear bombs, riot guns and tear-gas rifles."

This was the declaration of Norman Kay, district organizer for the International Labor Defense, today, upon learning that police were ready to take extreme measures if necessary to prevent the scheduled Sacco-Vanzitti demonstration.

While this organization was preparing to defy the police, noted men and women listed as speakers for tonight's conclave of the Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial Committee at the Old South Meeting House were arriving in Boston.

RABBI WISE ARRIVES

Among these were Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, who came, he said, in spite of the serious illness of his son, who is at Lake Placid with a nervous breakdown.

Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poet, who is to be a speaker, was discovered to be in seclusion at the old Longfellow home in Brattle st., Cambridge, where she and her husband, Eugene Boissevain, are guests of Prof. Henry Dana and Mrs. Joseph Thorpe, only surviving daughter of Longfellow.

Through Gardner Jackson of the memorial committee, Dist. Atty. Foley today assured Miss Millay that a charge against her arising out of the death watch picketing in front of the State House three years ago today, the eve of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, had been nolle prossed.

WARRANT FOR HER

A default warrant was issued against Miss Millay in November, 1927, because she failed to appear in Superior Court on the charge.

At noon the district attorney said she faced arrest if she appeared, but later he discovered the charge had been nol prossed in May, 1928.

Miss Millay, Pulitzer prize winner and author of the words of the American opera, "The King's Henchmen," promised to be at the Old South Meeting House at 8:30.

Armed with tear bombs and the new tear gas rifles, police will be prepared for trouble at the hour set for the Boston Common meeting of the International Labor Defense, 8 p. m.

ARMED POLICE READY

A detail of 125 men has been assigned to the meeting by Acting Supt. Thomas F. Goode, and reserves will be held in readiness at downtown police stations with the riot-smashing weapons.

These preparations followed receipt of information by the police that an attempt would be made to hold the meeting, notwithstanding that Mayor Curley twice refused to grant a permit for the assembly at the Parkman bandstand.

FOUL TIP KILLS PROVIDENCE BOY

Providence, Aug. 22 (AP)—Francis P. Sheridan, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix P. Sheridan, 81 Rugby st., was killed today when he was struck by a foul tip while playing ball in Thurbers ave.

MRS. O'DONNELL STILL LEADS AIR DERBY

600-Pound Boy Dies in Everett

Henry D'Antonio, 17, known as "Everett's Fat Boy," and who weighed 600 pounds, died today in Massachusetts General Hospital.

The son of Mrs. Mary D'Antonio of 19 Heath st., Everett, he was taken to the hospital yesterday in the Everett police ambulance, suffering from dropsy.

According to his sister, Mrs. Mary Sarna, Henry was fat at birth, and grew steadily fatter with the years. Three or four years ago he attained to 300 pounds, and then began to put on flesh in earnest, until death resulted. Funeral services will be held Sunday from St. Anthony's Church, Everett.

Storm Moving North, May Not Hit Boston

With a possibility that the disturbance might blow out to sea before reaching New England, storm warnings were ordered displayed today from Morehead City, N. C., to Nantucket. The Washington weather bureau said a disturbance 150 miles southeast of Caps Hatteras was moving rapidly northward.

The local bureau said, however, the disturbance might go out to sea before reaching this section.

Amherst Coach to Wed Girl Ice Star

Philadelphia, Aug. 22 (AP)—Announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Davenport, one of Philadelphia's six all-American field hockey players, and Albert Lumley, track instructor at Amherst College, was made today by the young woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Davenport, of Collingdale. The wedding will take place September 13.

Hoover's Secretary on First Vacation

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover, was on his way to the Rolling Rock Country Club in Pennsylvania today for his first extended vacation since "the chief" was inaugurated over 17 months ago. Mr. Akerson will spend 10 days at the club as the guest of Secretary Mellon.

Msgr. Atlmeyer Dies at Atlantic City

RECEIVER FOR WARNER BROS. DEMANDED

Boston Man in Petition Says That Excessive Prices Were Paid for Theaters Bought

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 22 (AP)—A petition asking for the appointment of a receiver for Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and an accounting, was filed today with the clerk of the court of chancery here.

Ira N. Nelson, a Boston business man, who said he is a stockholder in the corporation, is the plaintiff in the suit, which is also directed against Renwar, Inc., a holding company of Warner Brothers Pictures. The officers and directors are named as defendants, although no names are specified.

The petition charges mismanagement on the part of the officers, and alleges "excessive prices have been paid for theaters and real estate."

Renwar, Inc., the petition cites, bought up the theaters and theater sites and sold them to Warner Brothers.

Eugene Savery of this city is local attorney for the petitioner. He is associated with Nathan Fink, Boston lawyer. The court of chancery is not scheduled to convene until December.

Ira I. Nelson is proprietor of a plumbing business at 290 Stuart st. and lives at 122 Riverway. He said today that he was acting in behalf of other stockholders of Warner Brothers as well as himself in the court action he has initiated through his attorney, Nathan Fink of Boston.

Warner Bros. Says Charges Unfounded

New York, Aug. 22 (AP)—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., said today that charges contained in the suit for a receivership filed in Wilmington, De., by Ira I. Nelson of Boston, were unfounded and proper answer and adequate proof disproving them will be made at the earliest moment.

Nelson charged mismanagement by the directors and asked for an accounting and appointment of a receiver.

Records of the company show Nelson has 300 shares of stock registered in his name.

Waterman Ruled Off Ballot for Primary

John B. Waterman of Fall River was ruled out of the Republican primaries for state senator in the second Bristol district today by the State Ballot Law Commission, acting on a protest by Charles Cole. Waterman had 55 signatures, exactly the required number, on his nomination papers, but Cole's claim that some of the signers were not on the voting lists was upheld. This leaves the Republican field clear for former Senator Walter E. McLane.

Hindenburg Brings Down Chamois Buck

Dietramszell, Germany, Aug. 22 (AP)—President Von Hindenburg, who is noted as one of the great hunters in Germany, today was proud of a new achievement. He killed a large chamois buck which expert hunters pronounced one of the finest specimens ever shot in this part of the Bavarian Alps.

Boy Air Record Holder Hops Again

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 22 (AP)—Eddie Schneider, 18-year-old pilot, left at 10:55 E. D. T. today for Wichita, Kan., on the second lap of his attempt to lower the junior west-east flight record of 28 hours and 55 minutes, established by the late Frank Goldsborough.

MAYOR RUSSELL

WILLIAM R. McMENIMEN

MISS LOUISE KELLY

$100,000 Jewelry Stolen With Car

New York, Aug. 22 (AP)—Theft of $100,000 worth of jewelry by two men who entered an automobile where the valuables reposed and compelled the chauffeur to pilot them away with it, was reported to Brooklyn police today by Bert Kaufman, jewelry salesman. Joseph Flynn, the chauffeur, said in a remote section of Queens the men threw him from the car, and sped away.

Find Andree, 2 Men Dead in Ice 33 Years

London, Aug. 22 (INS)—The icy grip of the Arctic loosed a 33-year hold today and gave up the bodies of three daring adventurers, lost in an ill-started attempt to fly across the North Pole in 1897.

A Central News dispatch from Oslo reported that a group of Norwegian hunters, penetrating the uncharted wastes of Franz Josef land in search of game, stumbled across the tattered remains of Salomon August Andree, long lost Swedish engineer, and two companions who left Spitzbergen in 1897 in an attempt to cross the pole in a free balloon.

The bodies, identified by shreds of clothing preserved by the frigid air of the Arctic, as well as documents and diaries which withstood the ravages of time and the elements, were located in the shambles of a temporary camp apparently established by the adventurers after their balloon made a forced descent hundreds if miles from the nearest outpost of civilization.

Boston Man Missed by Only 40 Miles Finding Andree

New York, Aug. 22—An aging man who knows the white paths of the Arctic as well as he knows New York, sat in his shop in Warren st. today and traced on a worn map the narrow patch of ice by which he missed finding the body of August Andree, Swedish balloonist-explorer, 28 years ago.

He is Anthony Fiala, and was told Andree's body and that of two companions had been found.

"In 1903-05, when I took the Ziegler expedition to the Arctic, we stopped at the northern tip of Rudolph Island," he said. "There we picked up two men—Russell W. Porter of Springfield, Mass., a scientist, and Anton Vedon of Boston—in search for Andree, his companions and the balloon.

"They started out on dog sleds for White Island, 40 miles away. Forty miles isn't far in the Arctic, but it's a long way when the ice is like hillocks of jagged glass, and the ice was so rough that the two men had to turn and come back.

"Had they gone to the White Islands they undoubtedly would have found the bodies—especially since Andree had a camp."

Hoffman and Heifetz to Play at Auer Rites

New York, Aug. 22 (INS)—Chopin's famous Funeral March, played by two of the world's most renowned musicians, Josef Hoffman and Jascha Heifetz, will be a part of the funeral services for Prof. Leopold Auer, noted violin teacher. His body was brought here yesterday from Dresden, where he died.

SHAKE HANDS TO WIND UP THEIR BIG FIST FLOP

Cambridge Battle Between the Mayor and Street Head Goes Three Rounds

Much after the fashion of so many professional fistic fiascos, the encounter between Mayor Richard M. Russell, of Cambridge (in this corner) and Street Superintendent William R. McMenimen (in this), developed today into one of those things popularly known as "one of those things."

They shook hands.

In other words, the ballyhooless battle of the century which saw the mayor landing a stiff right to McMenimen's mouth at Cambridge City Hall yesterday became a "bust" and a "dud."

Scheduled to a finish, it went but three rounds, the hatchet being buried in the third.

In the first round, Mayor Russell had the newspaper decision by virtue of a right hook.

THIRD AND FINAL ROUND

McMenimen took the second by a wide margin, wholly verbal, by flaying the mayor, threatening arrest and shouting "slander."

The third and final was such as have the paying customers at professional fistics shouting "pink tea" and "kisses."

The Russell-McMenimen battle ended like, oh, so many others that have fallen flat as a pancake and pallid as vanilla ice cream—like the Sharkey-Phainting Phil affair, the Dempsey-Schmeling go and the great Carnera-Godfrey foul—and just as unsatisfactory to those who had been led to believe something vicious might happen.

This morning, after the fight, Mayor Russell said he would take "official action" against McMenimen because he couldn't think of tolerating such actions from a subordinate.

TALK OF WARRANT

The street superintendent said he would probably seek a warrant for the mayor's arrest on an assault and battery charge and accused him of using all the profanity used and of taking a second swipe at him while he was being held.

And then . . . McMenimen went to City Hall, accompanied by City Councilor Timothy F. Donovan and they went to the mayor's office and the handshaking took place.

McMenimen would say afterwards

GIVES HIS VERSION OF WHAT HAPPENED IN FIST FIGHT

only that both regretted what had occurred. Mayor Russell said he had nothing to say.

Both had been on the receiving end of a barrage of telephone calls seeking their signatures for contracts for a 10-round go at the Boston Garden, but the offers were withdrawn. Cambridge, which had been leaning forward in a ringside seat, agape and wondering what would follow, leaned right back again and sighed a deep sigh.

PEACE STOPS RUMORS.

Further footcuffs, the arrest of the mayor or attempted removal of McMenimen, were expected until the peace.

Miss Louise Kelly, the mayor's secretary, was the only witness to the whole of the first round in the mayor's office at Cambridge City Hall yesterday. She said she had nothing to say.

Ralph W. Robart, former councillor and once candidate for mayor, and Joseph Crowley, the mayor's temporary chauffeur, witnessed part of the first round. Crowley won't talk, but Robart issued a statement corroborating Mayor Russell's version of the affair.

WHAT THE MAYOR SAYS:

The Mayor issued the following brief statement:

"McMenimen came to my office and asked a question concerning the operation of his department.

"I was just replying when he cut in and called me a vile name. Naturally, I was aroused, inasmuch as my secretary was present and I couldn't tolerate such language in her presence.

"I told him he had better leave and he replied with another series of epithets that ended with his announcement that he would leave when he was damned good and ready. I went to the door, opened it and told him to leave. It was then he made a lunge at me and I struck him in self-defense."

PLANNING ACTION.

"I don't know whether the blow took effect, because office attaches, attracted by the argument, had arrived by then and were remonstrating with both of us.

"I haven't decided just what course I will take with him, but I am considering official action, because I couldn't think of tolerating such actions from a subordinate."

McMenimen, after reading Russell's statement and one issued by Robart, issued the following:

"I am going to tell you just what happened, no more and no less in exact detail.

"Mayor Russell has made trouble for me in my office ever since the day of his inauguration. He has insulted me at least three times since then and each time, after an apology, I have forgotten it.

MAYOR WAS AFFABLE

"On Wednesday night after his address at the Commander Hotel before delegates to the Knights of Columbus convention, when you will remember, he called upon Masonic bodies and other fraternal organizations to join the Knights to banish slander from politics, I saw him after his talk.

"Much to my surprise he addressed me in an affable manner, calling me by my first name. I was taken back for a moment, as he had always addressed me as 'Mr. McMenimen,' and having in mind the three insults I actually believed that he meant what he said to the Knights of Columbus about slander, and thought he had really seen his mistake.

"Yesterday morning I had an appointment with Jeremiah Downey of the Industrial Association of Cambridge. When I met him he said:

TOLD WHAT RUSSELL SAID

"'We got the surprise of our lives yesterday. You know how the association feels towards you. The Mayor was here and Albert Murray was praising your work, and Mayor Russell said he was surprised at you approving a bill for more paving yardage than had been laid in the city.'

"I was considerably upset to think that the mayor had again slandered me. I went to his office and said:

"'I just came from Mr. Downey's office and he told me that you had said that I approved a bill for city paving that you did not think was right. Did you say that or not?'

"The mayor flushed and appeared to be agitated. He struck his fist on his desk and said:

"'I did not.'

DID SAY SOMETHING

"I said, 'That is strange. I don't think Mr. Downey would say a thing like that if it wasn't so.'

"Russell, still raising his voice, said, 'Well, I did say something about saving $500 for the city on paving work.'

"I said, 'When was there any bill I had approved that City Engineer Louis N. Hastings had not first given his approval for? You know that he has first to approve all these bills and so does the city auditor.'

"The mayor said, 'I will not talk with you any longer.'

"I said, 'Well, you will talk with me whether you like to or not and let that sink deep into your brain. You were up before the Knights of Columbus talking about slander among public officials and at the same time you were out slandering me and while you were calling me by my first name. I call that being two-faced. What do you think of that?'

"With that Russell jumped off his chair, threw a paper cutter onto his desk and in a rage, with his finger pointed towards the door said, 'Get out of here and be damn quick about getting out.'

"I said, 'I will get out of here all right, but before I do I am telling you, Mr. Mayor, you are going to stop this kind of talk about me and you may as well get that through your head now because I don't mean maybe.'

STUNNED WITH SURPRISE

"Without a single word the mayor folded his fists and pushed his right hand with all his strength behind it flush into my mouth. With that Miss Kelly screamed. I was so stunned for a minute, not because of the blow because I think I was quick enough to take it going away, but because the mayor of Cambridge and the type of man that Russell is supposed to be had hit me, that I didn't know what to do.

"Just then Robart and Crowley came rushing through the door and held me. They kept telling me to keep quiet. I was trying to get away from them all the time, and while these two held me, Russell took another swing at me, but Robart knocked his arm down.

"At no time did I make any effort to strike the Mayor. If Robart says that I was about to hang one on the Mayor's chin, he's wrong.

"I said, 'I won't hit you, Mr. Mayor. If I did I would kill you. I have too much respect for your office—more than you have. You punched me on the mouth because you are a piker. You'll not get away with it, though, because the people of Cambridge won't stand for anything like that.'

"I started toward the door and the mayor said, 'Come here, Mac, I want to talk with you.'

"I said, 'I wouldn't waste any more time talking to the likes of you.'

"The mayor's statement about me being profane in the presence of Miss Kelley is untrue. He used all the profane language.

THOUGHT OF HIS FAMILY

"Only two weeks ago I met his wife and children, and it was the sudden thought of them that flashed through my mind that probably prevented me from doing a job on him. I am certain that he lost his temper and started in on him. I would have knocked him into every corner of his office.

"If the blow that he struck me was the best he had he ought to be more careful of his opponents he picks out to do battle with.

"I have not definitely made up my mind what action I will take, but I am considering going to the East Cambridge district court and asking Judge Robbins to grant a warrant charging him with assault. I am going to consult with my advisers first.

WHAT ROBART SAYS

Robart issued the following statement:

"McMenimen came into the outer office of the mayor while I was there and I showed him in. After he entered, in about two minutes, I could hear raised voices and profanity.

"Crowley opened the door and I followed him into the office. The mayor was standing at his desk with McMenimen beside it.

"From a conversation I had with the mayor afterward, I learned that McMenimen came in to discuss a departmental matter and something he had heard the mayor had said. McMenimen asked if he had said it and before the mayor had a chance to answer the street superintendent said, 'You're a two faced...'

HEARD PROFANITY.

"That was when I appeared and I heard the mayor say, 'That is no kind of language to use here. Leave this office at once.'

"McMenimen said he would when he got * * * good and ready.

"The mayor started over to the door and McMenimen followed and made a swing as him which the mayor succeeded in blocking. I grabbed McMenimen and started reasoning with him. He made verbal insinuations that were mingled with profanity."

McMenimen is an appointee of ex-Mayor Edward W. Quinn, defeated by Russell in the big upset of last year's election.

Since assuming office, Russell, a Harvard graduate, war veteran and son of a three-time governor of Massachusetts, has been at odds with the city council which passed bills over his vetoes, refereed his Tercentenary committee to the committee on sewerage and refused to confirm six separate individuals he has named to replace City Treasurer Loban.

Condemned Slayers Saw Way to Freedom

Atlanta, Aug. 22 (AP)—Fred D. Fair, condemned slayer of a policeman, and Sam F. Aiken, under sentence of death for the killing of his wife and her alleged paramour, sawed their way to freedom last night from a Fulton tower cell in which they had spent the greater part of recent months together reading aloud and discussing the Bible.

Officers said the pair sawed out two cell bars, slipped down a 15-foot rope made of blankets, crossed a courtyard and climbed a 25-foot outer wall with a ladder.

Searles Castle Sold in $2,000,000 Deal

Methuen, Aug. 22—A $2,000,000 real estate deal, the largest single transaction of its kind in years in this town, turned over today to Lillian W. Andrew of 51 Pleasant st, much of the property developed by the late Edward F. Searles, eccentric Methuen multimillionaire.

Included in the deal is Stanton-Harcourt, known all over the countryside as "The Castle" and located on a hill overlooking Canobie Lake. It was constructed by Searles at a cost of approximately $1,350,000.

Serlo Hall in Broadway, with its famous Serlo organ and accompanying art treasures, was also included in the transaction, as well as property in Great Barrington, Nashua, N. H., Salem, N. H., and Windham, N. H.

Find 2 Dead, 4 Dying on Wrecked Vessel

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 22 (AP)—Two men were taken dead from the sea and four others were rescued in a dying condition from an unidentified ship, whose hulk, burned to the water's edge, lay eight miles off the village of Miminnigast, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence today.

Golf King Here

BOBBY JONES IN BOSTON FIRM

On business bound and preserving a determined silence, Bobby Jones, king of golfers, slipped into Boston today, stopped briefly at the Ritz Carlton Hotel and then was whisked away to Cohasset.

At Cohasset, for the time, he will be guest of George Willard Smith, president of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., for which concern, it is believed, the peerless mashie man will become southern attorney.

In the afternoon, Bobby was scheduled to attend the Cohasset Horse Show with President Smith, other officials of the company and friends on the South Shore.

His party members declared he would play no golf anywhere today.

Bobby was met when he alighted from the 6:25 a. m., daylight time, train in Boston from New York by Maj. Joseph Lee, Robert Moore and Frank Partridge, all of the insurance company.

The lion of the links made a futile attempt to avoid the crowd and newspapermen, and then refused to talk for publication.

18 Cases of "Fine" Whiskey Stolen at Bunker Hill

Stolen—Eighteen cases of prescription whiskey, and a truck.

This announcement went out over the police teletype system today and caused considerable excitement in hitherto quiet stations.

The fact that the liquor, of pre-war quality, was taken from the foot of Bunker Hill, added to the interest.

It was stolen with the truck during the absence of the driver. The truck owned by A. F. Wheelock Co., 2 Southside, Faneuil Hall Market, was parked in front of 14 Monument st. The liquor was intended for retail druggists.

Lindy to Tour So. America

New York, Aug. 22 (US)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will make his first extensive flight this fall since his good-will tour of Central America and the West Indies. He will visit the principal cities of South America. He will fly alone, it is reported.

Here to Speak on Sacco

COMING FROM NEW YORK today, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise found Boston all aflutter over the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting tonight which he is scheduled to address. Police declare the meeting shall not be held. The Sacco sympathizers say it shall and announce they'll face gas bombs and guns to meet.

GERARD ADDS 5 TO LIST OF 59 U. S. 'RULERS'

Mitchell, Frew, Giannini, Green and Woll Are Named by Ex-Ambassador

New York, Aug. 22 (AP)—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, has added five names to his list of 59 "men who rule the United States."

The additions, telephoned to the New York Times from Newport, R. I., where Mr. Gerard is the guest of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, are:

Sidney Z. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the Electric Bond & Share Co., and a large owner of Public Utilities.

Walter Edwin Frew, chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company.

Amadeo P. Giannini, founder of the Bank of Italy and of the Trans-American Corporation, the world's largest holding company of bank securities.

William Green and Matthew Woll, president and vice-president respectively of the American Federation of Labor.

In a pamphlet endorsing the crusade of Lord Beaverbrook and Viscount Rothermere for empire free trade and a high British tariff, published in London several days ago, Mr. Gerard wrote of "forty men who rule the United States," and suggested such men aided by a high British tariff could mend England's fortunes in 10 years. Asked by the New York Times to name the 40 men, Mr. Gerard gave out a list of 59.

GERMAN FLIER HEADS FOR U. S.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 22 (AP)—Capt. Ernst Lerner, a young German aviator, today was presumably flying toward the United States.

Von Gronau took off from the harbor here at 6:35 o'clock (2:35 a. m., E. S. T.), in a westerly direction and less than two hours later radioed his position as 65.50 north and 28.20 west, about midway between Iceland and Greenland.

The same message said landing arrangements had been made in both Greenland and Canada "thanks to the good assistance of Iceland." His plane was loaded with 750 gallons of gasoline.

The whole flight was somewhat of a mystery, for he indicated before he left today he was heading back toward Germany. When he landed Wednesday it was at first announced that he was going to the United States.

ZUTA'S LETTERS NAME HIGH OFFICIALS

Slain Gangster's Strong Boxes Bare Kidnap Plot and Link With Political Chiefs

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP)—The lids of Jack Zuta's strong boxes were torn from their hinges today and hitherto unknown contents were scattered far and wide.

Reams of additional papers and records were made public by the investigators, some relating to public officials, some to gangland activities.

Atty. Ben Laube of Gary, Ind., said today he was the writer of a letter mentioning Florida officials and mailed to Frank Gross of Gary from Orlando, Fla., and signed "Ben"—found in the possession of Zuta.

"How the letter got there, I don't know," Laube said. "I never heard of Jack Zuta until the newspapers told of his death."

KIDNAP PLOT BARED.

Another document, described by the investigators as a police confession, told of the attempts of "Mops" Volpa and Joe Genaro, notorious Chicago gangsters, to kidnap and hold for $50,000 ransom a man named "Jack."

Helen Delmar, a New York night club hostess, made the confession. She said Genaro brought her from New York to serve as a lure. A tip-off to the police caused the arrest of the girl and the ransome plot was thwarted.

Another batch of correspondence, from Louis La Cava, one-time Zuta ally and later a Capone gunman, was described by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, as showing Zuta's power in Chicago.

La Cava was sought as a suspect in the sensational murder of Asst. State's Atty. William McSwiggin several years ago. One letter from La Cava, Roche disclosed, asked Zuta to "fix it" for him.

CHECKS TO POLITICIANS

Police records show that La Cava was arrested in June, 1926, and given a check by the slain vice monger.

Police records also show that he was discharged as a suspect by Municipal Judge Joseph V. Scanlan, who has previously been named in the Zuta inquiry as the recipient of a check from the slain gangster.

A $500 check, drawn in 1922 and signed by 'Jack Zuta," was made payable to P. W. Rohnberg, formerly a deputy coroner and now a Republican ward committeeman.

Another check for $2000 was issued by Zuta in 1927 to Simon Herr, law partner of former Judge Emmanuel Eller, who also was given a check by the slain vice monger.

Evalu From Salem Arrives at Azores

Ponta Delgada, Azores, Aug. 22 (AP)—The American sailing yacht Evalu, which 41 days ago started from Salem with its owner, Henry Blanco, and his wife and daughter as the only passengers, has arrived here.

Blanco, who navigated the craft all the way, said storms were encountered which delayed him. The Evalu will depart soon for Madeira and Spain.

Millbury Banker Faces Mental Test

Fitchburg, Aug. 22 (AP)—Ernest L. Smith, former treasurer of the Millbury Savings Bank, was before Judge Hammond in Superior Court here today charged with 25 counts of larceny from the bank and with six counts of violating the banking laws.

He pleaded not guilty and was held in $20,000 for a later hearing. After hearing testimony by Dr. William A. Bryan, superintendent of the Worcester state hospital for the insane, Judge Hammond committed Smith to that institution for 10 days' observation.

4 Safe Robberies Bared in Newton

Discovery of a safe robbery in the Riverside Sand & Gravel Co. office, 399 Grove st., Newton Lower Falls, early today, revealed three similar breaks in the last week. In today's $125 was taken after the combination had been knocked from the safe. The others were: Woodland Sand & Gravel Co., Washington st.; C. H. Spring Co., Washington st., and Woodland railroad station.

Two Earth Shocks Terrify Italians

Rome, Aug. 22 (INS)—The tip-end of the Italian "boot" rumbled today under moderate shocks of two earthquakes, causing inhabitants of several towns and cities to rush in terror from their houses. Reggio, Calabria, Roccella, Jonica, Catanzaro City and Badolato felt the shocks. There were no casualties or damage.

Child Sleeps in Car as Search Goes On

Belfast, Me., Aug. 22—His parents frantic with fright, while the police and Boy Scouts searched, Junior, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Foss, formerly of Corrico, was found fast asleep in his daddy's car in the garage at their home in Spring st.

PEOPLE

Who Interest You and What They Are Doing

Pope Pius Receives Son of Former President

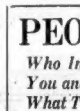
Vatican City, Aug. 22—Pope Pius XI received Charles Taft, 2d, of Cincinnati, son of the late former President and chief justice, in a private audience yesterday. Msgr. Spellman of Boston acted as interpreter.



Charles Taft, 2d

His Holiness expressed pleasure at meeting the son of the ex-President. The Pope recalled a visit made by Taft when he was a special emissary of the United States to the Holy See in 1902 in the matter of the purchase of Friars Land in the Philippines and other questions growing out of the annexation of the island.

Young Taft is a former Yale football star and is a noted Ohio attorney. As prosecuting attorney for Hamilton County, Ohio, he directed the state's case in the famous George Remus murder trial.

Kellogg Nominated to World Court Seat

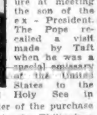
Geneva, Aug. 22—Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, was nominated by the American delegation of the League of Nations for judge of the World Court. The nomination was announced yesterday, and was for the full term of nine years.



Frank B. Kellogg

In League of Nations circles today it was considered almost certain that the famous co-author of the Kellogg-Briand treaty will be elected. The nomination will be voted on when the league meets at an assembly session early next month.

Others nominated by the American group were: Minoru Ichiro Adachi, former Japanese ambassador to France; Signor Dionisio Anzilotti of Italy, and Max Huber of Switzerland, a member of the present bench, who has announced that he would not accept re-election.

Billie Dove Refuses to Discuss Engagement Rumor

New York, Aug. 22—Billie Dove, beautiful film star, refused to confirm or deny reports that she was engaged to wed Howard Hughes, millionaire film producer, as she sailed for Europe yesterday. Hughes, whose income in $35,000 a day, could not be reached for a statement concerning the report.

Billie Dove

Hughes spent $2,000,000 to produce "Hell's Angels," an air thriller, depicting the Royal Air Force. The 25-year-old millionaire's connection with the film was an avocation.

Miss Dove was granted a divorce from Irvin Willat, picture director, last July. Willat did not contest the suit, in which Miss Dove charged that he knocked her down several times in the presence of guests. They were married in October, 1923, and had no children.

Europa to Catapult Planes from Deck

Bremerhaven, Germany, Aug. 22 (AP)—The steamship Europa, outfitted for New York today with a new catapult similar to that on the Bremen for launching airplanes. Just before the Europa's departure the plane, christened Bremen, made a flight with a heavy load of postal material.

GODFREY CABOT LAUGHS AT FLYING AS 'GAME ONLY FOR YOUNG'

Stork Brings Princess

IN GLOOMY GLAMIS CASTLE last night the Duchess of York presented the British nation with a baby princess. The duchess is shown with her first born, Elizabeth, now four years old.

Young Princess Sees Royal Baby Sister

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 22 (AP)—This was a day of great festivity for the good people of Glamis and of great rejoicing for all Britons, honoring the new daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, fourth in line of the British Royal Family, born last night.

A bedside bulletin issued this forenoon by the attending physicians, Sir Henry Simson, F. Neon Reynolds and David Miles, said mother and child were "doing fine," which all the Scots know as the best possible news.

King George and Queen Mary were planning an early visit to see the new grandchild, their fourth. Thus, from the highest in the empire to the lowliest villager, attention centered upon the great gray heap of ancient stone which is the seat of the Strathmores, wherein a British royal birth had not occurred in 300 years.

PRINCESS SEES SISTER

Tiny Princess Elizabeth, recovering from the surprise of her life, was taken this forenoon into the Duchess' quarters in the castle and allowed to see her baby sister. Elizabeth, who has a big red Chinese chow, canary and a pony named Jessie, which the King gave her for a birthday present, put them all definitely out of her mind in favor of this new mite, which had come to be her new playmate's. Elizabeth is past four.

There will be a double birthday to celebrate in the royal family hereafter. While the new daughter was being greeted in Glamis Castle, the second son of Princess Mary, the Honorable Gerald David Lascelles, celebrated his sixth birthday. Both he and his brother, the Viscount Lascelles, a year older, have been entered on the waiting list for Eton. The elder brother will begin his studies there in 1930 and the younger a year later.

BEACON BLAZES TONIGHT

Hunters Hill, a mighty crag near Glamis, will be the focal point of tonight's climax of the joyful demonstration of his village when the great pile of faggots, kept dry by tarpaulins for a fortnight of expectation, will be uncovered and lighted. This would have been done last night, soon after the birth at 9:22 p. m., had not a terrific gale made it seem unsafe. Today is calm. The still air is cold and stimulating, an ideal condition for the ancient Scottish rite of lighting beacons which, although they will carry no news, will warm the hearts of their beholders.

Lotti, French Ace, to Wed Paris Girl

Paris, Aug. 22 (AP)—With his two companions in his transatlantic flight as witnesses, Armand Lotti next Tuesday will wed Simone Sarrade, daughter of E. Sarrade of Paris, a contractor and former international rugby player.

Lotti flew from Old Orchard, Me., to Spain with Jean Assolant and Rene Le Fevre.

Walcott to Preside at G. O. P. Convention

Hartford, Aug. 22 (AP)—United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott, junior senator from Connecticut, today accepted the invitation extended to him by State Chairman J. Henry Roraback, to serve as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention, which will be held here Sept. 15 and 16.

ATTENDS AIR MEET AT CHICAGO

Many Other "Grayheads" Are There, Porter Adams of Boston Points Out

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP)—The common belief that aviation was a young man's field was laughed at today by 64-year-old Godfrey L. Cabot of Boston, millionaire member of the distinguished Cabot family.

He learned to pilot an airplane at the age of 50 and does not yet drive an auto.

Cabot was among the first arrivals to attend the annual convention of the National Aeronautic Association of U. S. A., an organization he headed a few years back.

LEADS IN LOAD STUNT

The noted manufacturer did not stop at getting his pilot's license. He began experimenting and was the first aviator to pick up a burden in full flight. He practiced this by swooping down in a seaplane on the bay of Boston and picking up supplies.

He said he had been interested in aviation for many years. "away back, when—well, I won't say," he smiled.

When the World War came Cabot decided to go into aviation seriously. He was commissioned a lieutenant in the Navy Reserve Flying Corps. During 1917 he was in charge of the Marblehead aviation camp. In his seaplane, "The Lark," he patrolled Boston harbor.

MANY GRAY HEADS THERE

A glance over the opening session tended to substantiate his contention that aviation was no just a young man's sport. Gray heads predominated. Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who presided as president, has gray hair.

In fact, from Porter Adams of Boston, past president, it was learned the average age of members was between 40 to 45 years, and the majority of them know how to pilot a plane themselves, he said.

WELCOME TAGS FOR TOURISTS

Mayor James M. Curley today wrote Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman, suggesting that visiting motorists who violate traffic laws innocently be given a "Welcome Visitor" tag instead of the customary warning.

"The indications are," the mayor wrote, "that between now and October 15, upward of 3,000,000 persons will visit Boston, and I am extremely desirous that every courtesy be extended to them."

CLUE TO SLAYER OF O'BRIEN

A mysterious witness whose identity was made a carefully guarded secret was produced today by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Edmund R. Dewing of Norfolk County at an inquest behind closed doors in Brookline court oz. the slaying of Patrolman Joseph P. O'Brien.

Dewing said the testimony of this witness led him to believe it may not have been Paul Hurley who fired the fatal bullets.

Hurley, a fugitive since the night of the shooting, which occurred on Aug. 3 on Ivy st., is charged with the murder as is Thomas J. Healey, who is being held at Dedham jail.

Dewing expressed the belief Hurley would soon surrender and said if he does not do so, the authorities have clues which should lead to his early capture.

'Niagara' May Return to Scenes of Victory

Put-In-Bay, O., Aug. 22 (AP)—The frigate "Niagara," veteran of 118 years on Lake Erie, may sail back to the scene of her triumph with Commodore Perry's fleet over the British in the war of 1812.

The Perry victory memorial commission, holding its 20th annual session here, decided to raise a fund of $75,000 to recondition and bring the weather-worn old warship back to Put-In-Bay in honor of Perry's victory. The ship has been on exhibition at Erie, Pa., since 1913, when it was raised from the waters where she sank in battle.

Girl Clerk Dies Penniless; Mates Send Body Home

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—The body of Marjorie Anderson, who died here penniless, was on a last long journey home to California today—provided for by a subscription among her fellow workers at the Census Bureau.

Marjorie Anderson left her home in Santa Rosa, Cal., to aid in the compiling of census returns. Wednesday night she died of pleurisy.

Learning that her slary had been consumed for living expenses, and there was no money for doctor, hospital or funeral expenses, a committee of her co-workers immediately took charge. The doctor cancelled his bill. The hospital did likewise, and the slim purses of other census clerks provided the rest, even to an escort for the body to the west coast.

Woods Combed for Aged Gardner Man

Gardner, Aug. 22—Scores of men, aided by Boy Scouts, conducted a search in the woods near here late yesterday for Eza Sutela, 63-year-old Narrows rd. resident, who has been missing since Sunday.

Salamanca Will Be Bolivian President

Lapaz, Bolivia, Aug. 22 (AP)—Daniel Salamanca, Ismael Montes and Bautista Saavedra have been named candidates for president, first vice-president and second vice-president, respectively, subject to coming elections. Since they are unopposed their election is assured. Dr. Salamanca is an internationally known financial authority.

Appeals Six Months Lottery Sentence

George F. Picket, of Norfolk st., Dorchester, in Municipal court today was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $25 for aiding up and promoting a lottery. Picket, who appealed and was held in $500 bail, was arrested following a raid in Portland st., when 2,000,000 lottery tickets were seized.

Malcolm E. Knox, Gaylord st., Dorchester, and William McElroy, Shirley st., Winthrop, and Byron G. Morgan, of Melrose, were fined $25 each.

Seeks Removal of Fence at Beach

Owen Gallegher, South Boston attorney, filed a petition in the Supreme Court today against Park Commissioner William P. Long for a mandamus compelling Long to remove a fence on land adjacent to the Boston Yacht Club. Gallegher alleges that the fence prevents free use of the beach. The petition will be heard before Judge William T. Waite on Wednesday.

Brookline Girl Wed to Salem Man

Miss Barbara Strout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Strout of Brookline, was married today in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Salem, to Arthur Lincoln Pattee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Pattee of 58 Ocean ave., Salem. The Rev. Charles W. G. Lyon, rector of the church, officiated. He was assisted by the Rev. Frederick L. Barry of Brooklyn, N. Y.

2 Boys of 10 Rob Brockton Lad of 8

Brockton, Aug. 22—The precocious class in robbery functioned 70 cents worth today when 8-year-old Wells S. David was robbed of that sum by two 10-year-old boys, Wells, with Earl Snow, 9, of Elm st., was on his way to purchase groceries for his grandmother, Mrs. Ethel David, when the two older boys committed the theft. Police arrested the suspects.

'MA' THROUGH WITH AIMEE 'FOREVER'

Has Only Love for Daughter Who Slugged Her, She Says, but She Wants No Temple

Los Angeles, Aug. 22—"They needn't trouble themselves about asking me to stay away from Angelus Temple. I wonldn't go back to that place if they'd give it to me!"

This was Mrs. Minnie Kennedy's defiance to Angelus Temple leaders, uttered at Brentwood Sanitarium, where she is recovering from a broken nose, which she says was smashed by the fist of Aimee Semple McPherson, her daughter.

ALL THROUGH, SHE SAYS

Told that she might be visited by a committee from the temple, bringing a formal request that she would cease to take any hand in temple affairs, Mrs. Kennedy smiled grimly.

"They'll talk to a closed door," she said, "I haven't anything to say to them.

"If they know what's good for them, they'll get rid of Mae Waldron and the rest of that crowd. As for me, I'm through. I went back nine months ago because Aimee asked me to help clean up the mess. I did, and now look at it—worse than ever."

For her daughter, Mrs. Kennedy repeated that she had nothing but love and the kindest feelings.

HOPES FOR CLEANUP

"So she says she wishes I would stop talking," she said. "Good! I'm glad she feels that way. But she knows perfectly well that I didn't start this. I never said one word until it was forced on me. And I'm not talking about her."

She laughed at Miss Waldron's statement that her nose isn't broken.

"Of course! I'm getting over an operation," she said. "I'm not ashamed of it. My nose was still sore from that work when Aimee struck me and broke it. I had my facial operation before Aimee had her last one; I was the "experiment" to see how it worked. But my nose is broke."

Mrs. Kennedy expressed the hope that affairs at the temple would be "cleaned up," even though she is firm in her determination never to go back.

Birth Control Debate Is Scored by Bishop

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 22 (AP)—Bishop Thomas Gailor of the Episcopal diocese of Tennessee today termed the Lambeth conference debate on birth control "nauseating."

Returning here from London, where he attended the conference which attracted much attention by its consideration of birth control, Bishop Gailor said:

"The debate on the matter was nauseating to me. Birth control is a matter for the medical authorities and the individual consciences of men and women.

"Most of the bishops probably preferred that nothing be said about it; that it be left for to the individual conscience. But there was a strong party, largely English colonial bishops, who wanted the resolution adopted, and it finally was."

Jersey Jail Riot May Bring Liberty to 50

Camden, N. J., Aug. 22 (AP)—Sheriff E. Frank Pine took steps today to reduce the number of prisoners in the Camden County jail, the scene yesterday of a disturbance participated in by 80 prisoners.

He proposed to obtain the immediate release of about 50 short-term prisoners and thus relieve the crowded condition at the jail, the cause, it was said, of the disturbance.

Guards quieted the shouting and screaming prisoners, after removing George Davis, alleged ringleader, and several other prisoners, and placing them in solitary confinement.

Sentence Two for Carrying Weapons

Two Lynn youths, arrested after attempts had been made to hold up two couples in High Rock, that city, in Lynn court today were sentenced to six months each for carrying concealed weapons. The defendants, who were not identified as the holdup men, are Venson LeBarron, 21, Liberty st., and Joseph Messina, 19, of Acorn st. Both were carrying guns when captured.

Coates, Slapped by Wife, Wins Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., Aug. 22 (AP)—This little wife went to market—and when she got there her husband's head was bare because he was tipping his hat to a lady. She promptly slapped his face.

That was Arthur Wesley Coates' version of the marketing act in a complaint which won him a divorce from Laura Lucille Coates yesterday. The couple, who lived at Torrington, Ct., were married in 1919 at Wheeling, W. Va.

When Nerves Are Tight

THIS EXCITING race in the trials to determine which yacht will defend the America's cup against the Shamrock V, saw Weetamoe, left, and Enterprise, fighting for a lead. Enterprise crossed the line one minute and six seconds ahead.

Cup Trial Held Up; Yankee Seeks Enterprise Race

By TOM HORGAN

Newport, R. I., Aug. 22 (AP)—Trials for the selection of the yacht to defend the America's Cup were temporarily halted today because of heavy wind and sea.

Wind and sea today were identical with those of yesterday when rugged going gave the craft a severe test under adverse conditions.

Sailed by Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, Yankee set a new yacht racing record for a 30-mile triangular course and it was believed she could go out today and repeat her victories over Whirlwind, the Thorne-Hammond contender.

Apparently the selection committee also felt that Enterprise, sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, could continue to lead Weetamoe, the Morgan-Nichols candidate. In highly boisterous weather the former craft defeated the latter yesterday and the day before yesterday, breaking the time record set by the racing sloop Columbia in 1901.

The reason for the committee's failure to match Enterprise and Yankee in today's breeze was not explained. Supporters of the Yankee, the only contender not from New York, hold that the fast ship is at her best in a heavy sea and a stiff breeze. The Boston contingent were obviously disappointed, although the brief breathing spell gave opportunity to repair sails torn in yesterday's race.

The lull in the defense camp came on the first day of Sir Thomas Lipton in port with his fifth challenger Shamrock V. The British ship swung gently at anchor in Brenton's Cove, close beside the four prospective defenders.

Rain Ends Drouth in Chatham, Opt., Area

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 22 (AP)—Rain fell over the Chatham district last night for the first time in 31 days, ending a drouth which had parched pasture lands and ruined a large acreage of beans. The rain was of great benefit to late fall crops.

Officials Break Up Plans for Arab Strike

Jerusalem, Aug. 22 (AP)—The government today confiscated proclamations issued by the Arab executive calling a strike for tomorrow, the anniversary of the outbreak of last years rioting. The strike was to be a protest against commutation of the death sentence of the Jew Orfali in connection with the riots.

10 Die in Mine Blast

Sialino, U. S. S. R., Aug. 22—Ten miners were killed by an explosion in one of the coal mines of the Don Basin, near here.

PUSH GARRETT HUNT IN MAINE

Portland, Me., Aug. 22—With Johnny Wilson eliminated, search for Oliver B. Garrett—and "his crowd"—was redoubled here today in the investigation of the handcuff murder of Patrolman Michael T. Connolly last week.

That the fugitive liquor raider is in Maine and was seen around the haunts of rum runners in Portland is a certainty, according to County Prosecutor Ralph M. Ingalls, in charge of the investigation of Connolly's death.

The killing of the officer has been determined as the move of a rum-running gang that mistook him for another patrolman who was active in the war on their activities.

A checkup on several waterfront characters who have not been seen since the morning the slain officer was found on the beach, was ordered today by Ingalls.

Wilson, ex-middleweight boxing champion, was eliminated yesterday after he gave himself up to Boston police and stood up under a questioning by Inspector James Claflin of Boston and Inspector Maguire of Portland.

He explained his whereabouts on the day of Connolly's death to the satisfaction of police, they announced. It was his second questioning in a murder case, the other taking place a year ago when police questioned him regarding the murder of Frankie Marlow, New York gangster and former manager of Wilson.

To further the hunt for Connolly's slayer, Ralph O. Brooks, chairman of the city council announced today that he would seek the offer of a $1000 reward at the council meeting Monday.

Dies Worth Millions, Still a Lumber Jack

Manistee, Mich., Aug. 22 (AP)—Death came early today to Charles F. Ruggles, the last of the Michigan lumber barons, and found him in a plain little room where he had lived for years, preparing his own meals, scrubbing the floors and spending hours over kettles in which he made candy for distribution ot children at Christmas time.

Ruggles, at 84, died a multi-millionaire, but there was little difference in his mode of life during his last days from that of his youth, when he saw and seized the opportunities in northern Michigan's virgin forests. When his contemporaries in the industry went to the cities years ago and built fine homes, he remained behind, living as he always had lived, wearing moccasins and a lumberjack shirt, with no necktie beneath his long white beard.

When lumbering passed out in Michigan, Ruggles turned to salt manufacturing and until last Saturday, when he was stricken ill, was active every work day. He bought into the lumber industry in other states—Minnesota, the Carolinas, Florida, California, and much of the huge estate he left behind is represented in these holdings.

Ruggles was born in Bangor, Me., March 3, 1846. His parents took him to Oshkosh, Wis., where he worked in a match factory as a youth. The family moved to Manistee because the youth was suffering from phosphorous poisoning from matches, and a physician recommended outdoor life. This led him to become interested in lumber, and to amassing a fortune.

POLICE RAIDERS ARE CURBED

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—Policemen were warned by Superintendent Pratt of the Washington force today that illegal liquor raids on homes in future will result in prosecution for the offending officers.

The action resulted from complaints of assistant U. S. Atty. Hart that of the last 1000 liquor cases submitted for prosecution by police, 200 had to be thrown out for lack of evidence or because the latter had been obtained illegally.

Two policemen yesterday were reprimanded for searching a house without warrants and other officers were warned not to repeat similar searches.

Out of the Fog of Confusing Claims . . . and Deceitful Price Comparisons . . . Comes This Important Message That Clarifies the "TIRE SITUATION." Read It Carefully.

ALLSTATE

"FIRST LINE" TIRES

Cost No More

Than Other Manufacturers' "Second Line" Tires

It's a Fact . . . . . that every leading tire manufacturer produces two grades of tires . . . namely, a "First Line" and a "Second Line" tire. Sears, Roebuck and Co. likewise has two grades—namely, the famous ALLSTATE—the "first line," and DEARBORN, SR.—the "second line."

It's a Fact . . . . . that tire manufacturers make comparisons with the ALLSTATE by invariably using their "second line" prices for this purpose. Some have even copied ALLSTATE identical prices for their "second line" tires in this misleading comparison.

It's a Fact . . . . . that this impression of equality with ALLSTATE is unfounded—and calculated to make it appear that other tires of equal quality can be bought as low as Sears, Roebuck's famous ALLSTATE—a recognized "First Line" Tire.

It's a Fact . . . . . that ALLSTATE Tires sell for about one-fourth less than other tires in the same class. With the ALLSTATE you yourself are the judge of the performance they should deliver.

It's a Fact . . . . . that our unlimited guarantee is direct between you and Sears, Roebuck & Co., well known as the world's largest store, that prices of ALLSTATE ("First Line") tires are about the same as prices of "Second Line" tires of other manufacture. Consider this carefully, please.

It's a Fact . . . . . that the same amount of money buys "First Line" quality in ALLSTATE as against "Second Line" quality in other leading brands.

It's a Fact . . . . . that ALLSTATE Tires are first in replacement sales—that's because users are satisfied that they are receiving the utmost for their money.

It's a Fact . . . . . that Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s tire sales have increased 871% during the last six years, while the tire industry as a whole was increased only 35%. Please re-read this statement.

It's a Fact . . . . . that Sears, Roebuck and Co.—the world's largest store—is able to offer the greatest values because of tremendous volume and economical methods of distribution.

It's a Fact . . . . . that the DEARBORN, SR.—our "Second Line" tire—gives everything in mileage, in service and in satisfaction that any other "Second Line" tire offers. Yet they cost very MUCH less.

ALLSTATE TIRES

Are Supreme as "First Line" Tires AT ABOUT ¼ LESS COST!

Remember, please, that "First Line" and "Second Line" Tires are designated by different TRADE NAMES. And it's highly important that you remember this—for judging on the basis of a manufacturer's name alone is far away from the point now in consideration.

FORTUNE FOUND IN BEGGAR'S HAUNT

Newark, N. J., Aug. 22 (AP)—Discovery that a small furnished room in a boarding house held a large quantity of jewelry, clothing and money led police to believe the room was the headquarters for 15 years of a "master beggar."

The room was rented in 1915 by Mrs. Henrietta Schofield to James Wilson. He insisted that she never allow anyone in the room and that she keep out. Since then Wilson has returned every six weeks, to remain in the room for two days.

The room was opened last night. Within its six-by-eight-foot space were discovered 35 watches, nine bracelets, 100 rings, wrist watches, 21 coin containers holding $265, five locked suit cases and five trunks.

On lines strung across the room were 50 suits of clothes and many overcoats, trousers and vests. Seventy-five pairs of shoes and 60 hats were scattered on the floor.

Detectives started search for a panhandler, pointing out the arms and legs of some of the suits were sewed up, as if worn by crippled mendicants.

Says New Fire Law Should Be Adopted

Forest fire protection is a live issue in Plymouth County, and the fire patrol law should be accepted by the county commissioners, according to Harris A. Reynolds, secretary of the Massachusetts Forestry Association. Secretary Reynolds said there is a strong feeling the county commissioners were derelict in failing to accept the law by which county forest fire patrols might be established.

DO-X GETTING READY FOR U. S. HOP

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service Special Cable

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 22—Although Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the DO-X, the 12-motored plane which is the world's largest, has yet to announce definitely whether the plane would make its projected transatlantic flight to New York, preparation for the epochal crossing continue today as if there were no doubts.

The new Curtiss Conqueror motor and a set of oil coolers arrived and are being mounted. Dr. Dornier gave out the names of the 11 men and one woman scheduled to make the flight. According to the tentative list they are:

Maurice Dornier, representing his brother, Dr. Dornier.

Commander, Capt. Friederich Christian Christiansen; Pilots, Capt. Horst Merz of the German Lufthansa and Lieut. C. H. Schilhauer, Ex-U. S. navy.

Navigation officer, Herr Niemann of the Hamburg-American Line.

Electricion, Herr Schuster; steward, Herr Zimmich; mechanicians, Herren Lang, Jaeger, Bauths, Schmidt and Brombeis; wireless operator, Herr Kiel.

Passengers—Lady Grace Drummond Hay and Karl von Wiegand, both of whom will be correspondents.

Including myself there will be three Americans, the others being Lieut. Schilhauer and Engineer Brewton.

The usual order of things is somewhat reversed this time. Two of the passengers will be experienced ocean and air "veterans," each having already flown the Atlantic three times, and once around the world with the Graf Zeppelin, while none of the officers or crew has that experience.

RUTH HANNA'S DRY STAND IS IN DOUBT

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22 (AP)—The prohibition stand of Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial candidate, was still in doubt today as her party opened its state convention.

After a caucus of party leaders with Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, which did not end until after 3 a. m., Frederick A. Smith, personal representative of Mrs. McCormick, hotel newspaper advance copies of Mrs. McCormick's address to the convention would not be given out until after the report on resolutions.

It was disclosed yesterday that the Cook County (Chicago) delegation, under the leadership of Bernard W. Snow, committee chairman, and George F. Harding, county treasurer, had tangled with Gov. Emmerson and other downstate leaders over a dry plank.

The Chicago delegates, it was learned, sought an anti-prohibition plank equally as "wet" as the one adopted by the Democrats two days ago, which favors repeal of all prohibition legislation.

It would undermine the cause, was predicted, to shake the stand of the Cook County delegates.

WARNS WOMEN OF POLITICAL TRICKSTERS

Gaspar G. Bacon, president of the Senate, yesterday warned more than 500 members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts against irresponsible office seekers who resort to all kinds of political trickery to win their campaign. The meeting was held at the Bacon estate in Jamaica Plain in observance of the last Tercentenary event of the Women's Republican Club.

"This type of politician will buoy the people with false hopes advocating policies which he knows either to be ridiculous or destructive, but which may sound plausible enough and, by increasing discontent and ill-will, which is too prevalent in the world today, he will ultimately engender the very economic depression which we seek to avoid.

"He is a manufacturer of bad will who conjures imaginary grievances by exaggerating the evils and distress of the world. He fans the flames of envy, hatred and malice, and obstructs the wheels of progress and prosperity."

Maine Joins American Stocks Fraud Drive

The State of Maine has joined Massachusetts in probing the sale of fraudulent stocks. Several major enterprises are under scrutiny in the Pine Tree State, and secret indictments are understood to have been returned by the Androscoggin grand jury at its last sitting in Auburn.

An investigation was conducted by County Atty. Fred H. Lancaster into the sale of stock of Page & Shaw Company. Witnesses were summoned from Boston, among them a representative of Boston Better Business Bureau.

Androscoggin residents, who invested more than $60,000, are complainants. Their cases were studied by County Atty. Lancaster and the evidence was submitted to the grand jury.

SECRET DECISION

County Atty. Lancaster today declined to reveal what action the grand jury had taken.

He said other stock enterprises which figure in the Massachusetts investigation are to be considered at the September term of the Androscoggin grand jury.

The operations of Page & Shaw stock salesmen and other stock promotions are under investigation in several counties in Massachusetts also and will be presented to grand juries next month.

COMPLAINTS POUR IN

The sixth week of the campaign against stock swindlers being waged by the stock fraud bureau of the Boston Evening American, finds the volume of mail from victims mounting.

There is a letter from an invalid woman who paid out her savings, and another from the daughter of an aged man who was induced to part with gilt-edge securities in exchange for worthless paper. The letters speak for themselves. Here are a few selected at random. The first is from a Hampton, N. H., woman.

"I enclose stock left me by my husband and would like very much to have you look into it for me. Both stocks were to be a nest egg for me. I think the —— —— has paid off some of its stockholders, but I have never been able to collect anything."

WANT MONEY BACK

Here is a Methuen woman's complaint:

"I and my husband jointly have bought $1500 stock from the Holland Tea, Coffee & Cocoa Co. through three salesmen—Donahue, Duke and Jassen.

"They said the company was planning to unite with another coffee company and that we would more than double our money.

"Still we were afraid to go deep and they finished up by saying the Hollands would be glad to buy it back any time, so we gave them the chance but have never heard from them since last April.

"We bought our stock at different times as they kept on coming and selling to us. We cannot afford such a loss and hope to regain some of it.

A Nahant woman sent the following letter:

"In December, 1924, a salesman induced my father —— —— to sell telephone stock and buy stock in the —— —— —— —— The amount involved was about $12,500, consisting of 160 shares preferred and 148 shares of common.

"The common has paid 7 per cent but preferred has not paid a cent. At the time, the salesman told my father that he believed the stock would gay as high as 25 per cent.

"At the time he sold the stock to my father, my father's mind was not sound.

Are You a Victim?

If you have been victimized by stock swindlers, the Boston Evening American, co-operating with Government, State and County officials, will be glad to advise you what is best to be done. Write to the Boston Evening American Stock Fraud Bureau, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, giving all the circumstances. Such information will be held confidential.

The Weather

Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably with rain Saturday; fresh to strong northeast winds.

For Southern New England—Cloudy, continued cool, followed by rain tonight and Saturday; strong northeast winds reaching gale forces on the coast late tonight or early Saturday.

For Northern New England—Partly cloudy tonight; Saturday morning cloudiness, followed by rain on the coast; not much change in temperature, increasing northeast winds.

For Eastern New York—Cloudy, continued cool, followed by rain Saturday and in extreme south portion tonight; strong northeast winds.

OCEAN FORECAST

Steamers departing today for European ports will have strong northeast winds, probably reaching gale force at times off the coast, and overcast weather, followed by rain to the Grand Banks.

Legion Auxiliary Motor Corps for Convention

By NANCY BREWSTER

A large motor corps to handle the influx of visitors and delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary national convention, when it meets in the Hub in October, has been organized by the Massachusetts department, under the leadership of Mrs. Edmund Dewing of Wellesley.

Thirty-eight members of the Bay State auxiliary have volunteered their automobiles and themselves to drive them, that the hundreds of auxiliaries may not only be transported to and from Symphony Hall, convention headquarters, but to places of historic and state interest.

TO BEGIN EARLY

Many of Boston's social leaders will be members of this corps, convention officials through their secretary, Miss Margaret Wade, announce. The groups will begin their piloting two days before the opening of the convention, continuing after the sessions on as many days as it seems necessary. The point being, to conduct every woman on such a sightseeing expedition.

The women drivers will be fully equipped with historical information, and in addition they will distribute informative pamphlets as convention souvenirs.

Assisting Mrs. Dewing as vice-chairmen are Mrs. Marie G. Favreau of Agawam and Mrs. Mary Floyd of Manchester-by-the-Sea.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

The commites includes: Mrs. E. Barnicoat, Rockland; Miss Bernice Beals, Lawrence; Miss Annie Blakemore, Newt: Centre; Mrs. Laymond Clark, Humarock; Miss Carmel R. Cleary, Belmont; Mrs. Winifred Cunningham, Arlington; Mrs. Katherine De Garesar, Cochituate; Mrs. Elizabeth Daly, Arlington; Mrs. H. Claire Fisher, West Roxbury; Mrs. Ralph Gray, Shelburne Falls; Mrs. Agnes M. Hennrikus, Newton Centre.

Schuehle, Wellesley; Mrs. D. B. Coleman, Wellesley; Mrs. L. L. Buchanan, Franklin; Mrs. Harry Leathers, Melrose, and Mrs. H. C. Hart, Wellesley.

Clubwomen Urged to Take Interest in Foreign Relations

Local chairmen of departments of international relations are to be urged to follow the suggestions of Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, international relations chairman in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, when arranging club programs.

"That when the President asks for the ratification of the Pan-American treaty of arbitration, we give our unqualified support to the securing of this ratification in as short a time as possible."

Mrs. Hooper will also ask the American clubwomen to support the government "to secure international reduction of expenditures for war, and national measures preparatory to such international reduction."

She further recommends "that we support our government in the official participation of the United States in economic and humanitarian conferences and commissions designed to promote international harmony and support treaties to this end."

State Federation Groups Select New Leaders for Year

With the new change of administration in the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs and the new presidency of Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, affiliated clubs have also had new elections.

Mrs. Horace R. Gale of Natick, as district director of the 12th district, will have several new club heads to whom she will sound the Federation policy. They are: Mrs. Albert E. Crocker, Ashland Home Study Club; Mrs. Ernest F. Drew, Auburndale Review Club; Mrs. B. J. Whittemore, Framingham Woman's Club; Mrs. Eugene Creighton, Community House Woman's Club of Hopedale; Mrs. H. B. Lewis, Quinshipaug Woman's Club of Milford; Mrs. Ida M. Daniels, Natick Woman's Club; Mrs. John C. Davis, Needham Monday Club; Mrs. William F. Leach, Needham New Century Club; Mrs. Samuel N. ## Luxurious Gowns for Afternoon

By ANN ARDEN

Model from L. P. Hollander

A SEASON of gaiety demands it, and the new lines lend themselves best to such rich and beautiful fabrics as velvet, satin, and lame. In fabric, the new mode plays a full hand, and every card a trump. Marvellously luxurious in appearance, yet supple and graceful, are the new lame fabrics. As you might expect, these lovely lames are very important for evening clothes, but what may surprise you is that such a formal fabric is high fashion for afternoon frocks, too.

THE FROCK pictured is of brown and yellow silk crepe embroidered in tiny gold leaf design, with a red center.

THE SKIRT and lower bodice portion are of brown, the skirt having three circular inserts at center front and three shallower at back.

THE DEEP yoke is pointed front and back, and has a draped cowl neckline. The sleeves end at the elbow in puffs and small bows. The colors are repeated in a brown and yellow flower on shoulder. The hat is of velvet.

MILLINERY adapts itself to the modern "romantic" era. Like every other fashion, the hat must suit the occasion for which it is worn and must blend, harmoniously with the rest of the costume. Velvet in combination with felt, or by itself, is an excellent choice by reason of its softness and adaptability to the lines of the small hat. So many hats are exploiting the asymmetric line—that dashing new trick of pushing one side up, and wearing the other side down, and close to the cheek.

IF YOU have been wondering whether to buy that charming carnelian necklace or to invest in amber you will be interested to hear that dark stones are predicted for the fall and winter jewelry mode. With dark colors so important in fabrics, in furs and frocks, it is natural that they should be repeated in the necklaces and bracelets that are worn with the ensemble.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs, or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WHDH.

Roxbury Women Will Engage in Varied Activities in Fall

Miss Mary E. Hunneman will direct the activities of the Roxbury Women in Council as new president of this club, one of the oldest in Massachusetts. Organized in 1885 and affiliated with the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs in 1897, close to 200 women are of its membership.

Although the women follow departmental activities along the lines of art, community service, education, co-operation with war veterans' legislation, literature, music, junior membership, American home, drama, mothercraft and publicity, outside interests such as local charities, foreign funds and child welfare work consume their energies.

If you have constipation, read this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 300 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill.:

"I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally in desperation, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable—in fact the next day long-hoped-for relief became a happy reality."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is now improved in texture and taste. As good to eat as it is healthful. Two tablespoons daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, use ALL-BRAN with each meal. ALL-BRAN also supplies needed iron to the system.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WARN AUTOISTS ON CAR TESTS

With one-third of the first inspection period completed and with more than one-third of Massachusetts motor cars checked up and displaying the yellow stickers, Registrar of Motor Vehicles George S. Parker stated today that the New England Save-a-Life campaign gives promise of being most successful.

The spirit in which the motoring public has co-operated in the campaign indicates, in the registrar's opinion, an earnest desire to do everything possible to reduce the toll of deaths on the highways.

But the registrar took occasion to warn those motorists who have not had their cars inspected, to do so promptly.

Indicted Banker May Face Mental Test

Worcester, Aug. 22—Ernest L. Smith, former treasurer of the Millbury Savings Bank, may be sent to a hospital for mental examination, Dist. Atty. Edwin J. Norman said today. Smith is under indictment in Superior Court at Fitchburg.

He was due to appear in district court today to answer to a charge of larceny of approximately $13,000 but failed to appear. The charge was filed when Judge Riley was informed of the indictment.

Musicians Threaten Washington Tieup

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—Difficulties between managers, musicians and motion picture machine operators today threatened to deprive motion picture theaters here of stage shows and union employes. Persistent refusal of managers to permit the musicians' union to fix the number of men in orchestras has halted negotiations for new contracts.

Americans Win Easily on "Talkies" in France

(This is the second of three articles reviewing the talking film situation on the Continent and the changing aspects of the world market as they affect American production.)

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.

Paris, Aug. 22—American enterprise today is leading the way here in the production of sound pictures for the French and other European markets.

Reluctance of French film producers to recognize the inevitability of the talking picture is blamed for the fact that the American invader already has a running start in the French field.

His principal competitor, moreover, is likely to be a French firm with German sponsorship, which is also making a great effort to develop the local market.

Jean Sapene, wealthy French newspaper publisher and film magnate, known as the arch-enemy of American film producers, blazed the trail of error for his compatriots who pooh-poohed the talking film.)

M. Sapene's efforts on this tack failed, principally because of the resistance offered by the French exhibitors, who demanded American pictures in order to fill their theatres. Then, as America turned enthusiastically to the sound picture, it looked as though Sapene's chance at last had come.

M. Sapene and his associates crowded the spotlight. The sound picture, they said, was an American passing fancy; it would never replace the silent screen. French producers would make the films to sell in the French market and in the world's non-English-speaking countries.

The exhibitors were desperate. A larger percentage of French pictures were being shown than ever before, but they could not draw crowds. Old American pictures were dug out and reshown, and even English talkies had a vogue.

It became apparent that M. Sapene and his friends were mistaken. The French public, like the Americans and the rest of the world, wanted talking films. Early and fragmentary sound pictures drew thousands. English language pictures with French dialogue printed on the film were used in a desperate effort to satisfy popular demand for sound.

Finally, there began to appear French versions of successful American capital under American direction, but with French casts. The French producers blinked their eyes, but what they saw then was even more startling.

An American company had set up foreign language production right in Paris, and was already getting a fast pace.

CHINESE LOOT CITY, KILL 500

Shanghai, Aug. 22 (AP)—A carnival of looting and killing in Hanchengchen, western Honan province, was reported in press dispatches today saying brigands had slain 500 persons, looted 300 shops and abducted 800 persons to hold for ransom.

The dispatches said the brigands, numbering more than 2000, fell upon the virtually defenseless city two weeks ago, reduced it practically to ruins and left yesterday with their captives.

Feeder of Many Presidents Wins Hoover's Smile

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—Edward S. Fasg, who says he has fed every president since Grant, with the exception of Wilson and Harding, today added to his treasury of memories a sympathetic nod of recognition from President Hoover.

The white haired hotel steward called at the White House yesterday and won a broad smile from the chief executive by recalling the president's concern over food for Herbert, Jr., one day about 20 years ago in San Jose, Cal.

Leaving the executive mansion, Fasg commented on the famous men he had served.

McKinley was the easiest to please, the most delicate about his eating; Roosevelt was the hardest to feed. Coolidge nibbled, a light eater, a very light eater.

"Taft ate more than any other man I ever fed, and was frank and jovial about it."

Execute Hoarders

Marmalades and Jams Simple

By MARTHA LEE

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 37,000

Too busy to put up any jams and marmalade? I know that belated vacations and pre-school preparations do keep one on the jump right about now, but if you don't take advantage of the late fruits that can be made into such delicious jams and marmalades, you're going to be a mighty sorry person about Dec. 1.

Is there anything more delicious for winter breakfast than fragrant coffee, crisp toast and homemade jams and marmalades? Do let me egg you on to make at least a few jars of conserve, marmalade or jam. You'll be mighty proud when the handsome little jars are stacked on your pantry shelves and you'll enjoy a real thrill of economy, too, when you figure how little these home-made preserves cost you—especially if you're an old hand at your own or generous friends.

Martha Lee

Jams and conserves are very simple to make, but don't try to make over two or three quarts at one time. And instead of adding sugar to the fruit at the beginning, add it to the fruit when the cooking is partly done, and be careful not to over-cook any kind of preserves. Over-cooking means loss of flavor, and a darker color. Jams and marmalades should be cooked quickly with frequent stirring to prevent burning, until the mixture has a clear, glossy appearance, and they should be put up in pint or half-pint, sealed jars, to prevent mould, drying out and crystallization.

GRAPE MARMALADE

5 Lbs. blue grapes
2 Medium sized oranges
1 Lb. raisins
4 Lbs. sugar
½ Lb. walnut meats coarsely cut.

Pick over grapes. Wash and separate skins from pulp. Put the skins in a saucepan with water to cover and boil until tender. Heat the pulp five minutes and run through a sieve to remove seeds. Wash oranges and put them and the raisins through the coarse knife of the food chopper. Add one pint water and boil rapidly for one-half hour or until the orange is tender, add sugar heated and boil to marmalade consistency. Add nutmeats just before removing from heat. Seal in sterilized jars.

PEACH CONSERVE

18 Cling peaches
2 Large oranges
1 Cup sugar for each cup of fruit.
½ Lb. cut-up walnut meats.

Remove skin from the peaches and slice them. Wash the oranges and put them through the food grinder (skin and all), but remove any seeds. Measure and add an equal amount of sugar. Let stand several hours. Boil rapidly until thick and clear. Just before removing from heat, add nut meats. Seal in sterilized jars.

PEACH JAM

1 Cup peach juice
2 Lbs. sugar
4 Lbs. peaches (skins and pits removed).
½ Stick cinamon
1 Tbsp. whole cloves (level).
1 Inch long piece ginger root
1 Tsp. whole allspice (level).

Put the peach juice in a preserving kettle. Add sugar and bring slowly to a boil. Chop the peaches fine and add them to the syrup and add spices tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Boil rapidly until the mixture jellies. Remove spices. Seal in sterilized jars.

GRAPE JAM

Housewives who can grape juice will find it economical to press the grapes very lightly. This gives a superior quality of juice and the crushed grapes will make an excellent jam. Heat them gently with a little water and rub through ice colander. Measure the pulp and add its bulk in white sugar and boil down to the proper thickness. One-half the measure of apple pulp added to this recipe improves the flavor, the texture and prevents crystals forming. Cook only a small quantity at a time.

Refreshing in Summer

A Cooling Drink All the Way From Cape Cod

DIFFERENT DRINK FROM CAPE COD

For a refreshing summer drink, as good to the taste as it is for you, we recommend this "Oriental Tea," sent in by Mrs. R. C. Marsters, R. F. D., East Sandwich, Mass. We all know that we cannot absorb too much fruit during the hot weather and the fruit juices combined with the hot tea are refreshing as well as nourishing and helpful.

ORIENTAL TEA

2 lemons
8 whole cloves
½ cup sugar
2 cups freshly made hot Salada tea
3 cups California orange juice
2 cups grape juice

Slice the lemons through rind and pulp. Put with cloves and sugar in pitcher and pour hot tea over them. Cover and set aside until thoroughly chilled. Add orange juice and grape juice. Fill glasses one-third with ice. Pour in the Oriental tea. Serve with Sunshine Surprise Assortment Cookies.

China Likes Ice Cream

Only within five years have the Chinese become ice cream conscious. Ice cream made its debut in China in 1925, when an American opened a small restaurant and imported from Seattle a few tubs of America's famous dessert. In a single day his entire stock was sold out and within a few months every boat from Seattle carried a large cargo of ice cream.

Today there are more than a dozen ice cream plants in Shanghai. Chinese diet formerly was lacking in milk and milk products, so that the milk solids and butter fats contained in ice cream are a real help to our Oriental friends in maintaining a better balanced diet.

America's enthusiastic approval of ice cream is shown by staid statistics that tell us that 6,000,000,000 pounds of milk are used every year in the United States in the manufacture of commercial ice cream. Back in the days when everybody kept a cow and mother churned the butter, baked the bread and did the canning and preserving, we made ice cream on the back porch in the home freezer, but just as butter making has passed from the home to the factory, so has the manufacture of ice cream, to a great extent. Bear in mind that frequent serving of ice cream at the family table is one of the easiest ways of getting milk into the diet. Ice cream is no longer looked upon as a confection or a luxury but has a definitely established place in the food habits of all our people, and is recognized by physicians and dietitians as a wholesome, nourishing food.

The Daily Dollar

This unusual recipe is sent in by Mrs. Alice Provost, 54A Peck st., Attleboro, Mass.:

FRIED CUCUMBERS

Peel cucumbers, and slice crosswise in slices about one-half an inch thick. Soak in ice water for an hour and then wipe dry with a cloth.

Sprinkle each slice with salt and pepper, then roll in flour or corn meal, and fry in a little butter, browning on both sides. Or the slices may be dipped in the yolk of an egg, and rolled in cracker crumbs if you prefer. Fry about 15 minutes.

Honey Egg Milk Shake

Honey egg milk shake is wholesome and satisfying for the kiddies. Beat two eggs and pour into a shaker or covered jar. Add three cups of very cold milk, six tablespoons of honey and some chopped ice. Shake well. Serve three.

Your Market Basket

With canning days upon us, an abundance of tomatoes, corn and other pickling materials sounds like "good news."

Outdoor grown tomatoes are plentiful and good, selling from four to six cents a pound. Sweet corn is still plentiful and selling at "popular prices," around 20 and 30 cents a dozen.

Nearly all of Boston's corn is Massachusetts grown. My [illegible] vegetable, summer squash, is present in large quantities, selling for 3 to 5 cents a pound, and there are a few Turban and Italian green squash.

Pickling stand-bys—cucumbers, onions and hot peppers—begin to make their appearance, while the berry list is limited now to a few blackberries, blueberries and raspberries. Native apples, Williams, Astrachan and Gravenstein, plentiful and that means apple pies, baked apples and sauce and jelly.

Lamb is still low in price but liver pries jump up and down the food scale with beef liver at 22 to 39 cents and calves' liver at 59 to 85 cents a pound.

'Good Housekeeping' Will Select Greatest Women

New York, Aug. 21—Concrete recognition of the leading roles which women now play in many phases of American life is to be made through a project announced by Good Housekeeping magazine in its current issue. The magazine will enlist the aid of millions of readers and a board of five eminent judges in selecting the 12 greatest living American women.

The procedure by which the selections will be made will occupy four months, following which the magazine will commission a distinguished artist to paint a portrait of each of the selected 12, thus founding "The Gallery of Great American Women."

The board of judges which will make the final selections after nominating ballots have been received for four months is composed of Otto H. Kahn, Dr. Henry van Dyke, Newton D. Baker, Booth Tarkington and Bruce Barton.

Any individual, man or woman, reader or non-reader of the magazine, will be eligible to cast one nominating ballot, naming the 12 women who have, in her, or his, opinion, made the greatest contributions to American life.

The magazine will award 177 prizes totalling $5000 for the best 200-word letters accompanying the nominating ballots and giving the best reasons for the first selection on the nominator's list. The first prize of $500 will be followed by others rapping downward to 100 prizes of $10 each. The letter competition will close December 20.

Paint Modernizes

The old brass bed that looks so hopeless can become cheerful and gay by covering it with two coats of flat cream paint, letting dry thoroughly between each painting. Then cover with a good coat of walnut stain and finish with a coat of clear shellac. It is a big improvement and goes beautifully with the rest of the furniture.

Pies With Berry Tops

Pies can be made summery, dressed in summer frocks of delicious berries and fruit. Make a crisp, rich pastry, fill it half full with creamy custard and then top with cold berries. Add some whipped cream and —what a pie!

APPLE MARAMALADE

4 Lbs. peeled and cored apples
4 Lemons, grated rind and juice
1 Oz. dried ginger root, sliced
4 Lbs. sugar.
1 Pint water.

Chop the apples and mix with lemon rind and juice and ginger. Boil sugar and water in a saucepan for two minutes. Add apple mixture and boil until thick and clear. Seal hot in sterilized jars. Faithfully yours.

New Orleans Shrimp

Melt two tablespoons of butter, add one cup of shrimp cut fine and cook for three minutes. Add one cup of hot boiled rice, three-quarters of a cup of heavy cream, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-half cup of tomato sauce. Simmer for five or ten minutes and serve garnished with points of hot buttered toast.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 177

To light your way. At least it did light the way of folk away back in the 15th century, for this Arabian lamp was the work of Egyptians of that time. It is of silver over brass and the valued property of Dr. W. Murray, 189 Forrest st., Malden, who has owned it for 20 years. The article was picked up in the Orient by a Mrs. West, of Beacon Hill. It was seen for a long time in the Asiatic department, at the Museum of Fine Arts, where it was classed as a temporary loan from Mr. Murray.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 8 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

Color Secret of Charm, Martha Lee Declares

Famous beauty and clothes authorities say that dainty and becoming colors that bring out your own best natural coloring are a greater aid to personality and charm than dollars spent at the "cosmeticians." Men like to see girls dainty and fresh, bright and flowery, and about the only impression they can ever get of what you have on is "color." It was blue, or pink, or sort of "canary colored."

But to be effective, colors must be true. Just a hint of fading, and the power to charm is dimmed. Just a suspicion that all is not absolutely fresh and dainty, and the alluring spell is broken. So take due thought and care to the snaps you use for washing your dainty summer frocks.

Ordinary soaps steal away a tiny bit of color pigment at every washing, but our pet soap, in either cake or flake form, cannot harm anything that water itself will not hurt. (I'll be glad to send the name on request.)

Here are two dress secrets as told by one of our leading authorities on the subject: First—Select the lovely colors which are most becoming to you. Second—Keep them lovely and vibrant as long as you wear them. And it's so simple to do with the airy, delicate soap flakes that hold the secret to perfect daintiness.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

The record of automobile deaths in Massachusetts for the first two weeks of the present month is 38, with more than 2000 persons injured. There is danger that we may repeat the record of last August, which was the worst of the entire year.

In commenting upon these killings the registrar of motor vehicles has said:

"Among the cases involving motorists we find a strange exhibition of desperate folly—high speed on curves, racing, a reckless disregard for human life which every day raises our death rate."

The press comments that have come to the Massachusetts Safety Council likewise stress the presence on the highway of a type of driver who ought not to be allowed to operate. One editorial writer offers a suggestion that has prompted this letter:

"It would be well if people in general got the habit of taking the registration number of cars that are driven in a reckless or outlaw manner, so that evidence may be accumulated against the wilful violation of traffic regulation."

This matter of reporting serious violations has been studied by the Massachusetts Safety Council through its Safe Roads Federation, and our staff is now prepared to index all the reports that are sent to our headquarters at 6 Beacon st., Boston. Except in cases of serious violation, the preliminary reports are not sent to the registrar of motor vehicles, for his office is overburdened with detail at this season of the year; but when the record against a bad driver begins to grow, the information is presented.

The council urges the co-operation of the general public, especially of motorists, in reporting these serious violations of the rules of safe driving. Minor infractions we do not want. Even the best of us commit them upon occasion, and without intent.

LEWIS E. MacBRAYNE,
General Manager, Massachusetts Safety Council.

Urge New Industries Be Held Tax Exempt

Editor Boston American:

New England is fast becoming an industrial center. Not many years ago it was called an agricultural section of this country. According to the last census from Washington, made public this week, farms have decreased from 159,489 in 1920 to 125,701 this year.

Industries of all kinds are invading New England. Cities and towns should give them tax exemption for a term of years. Business is likely to increase in the coming spring. There are great opportunities for power in this part of the world. It has never been fully developed. New England if for a time will be able to compete with every section of this country in the profits of industry.

MALCOLM M. MATTOCKS.

Praises Labor for Forcing Men to Greatest Effort

Editor Boston American:

Last week a picture and an article appeared of the hand of labor and the thinker and their relation to each other. If we are to believe what you say is true, then labor does not think at all. Although from those hands have come a large share of the material for thought.

We need the long men, and labor will need more from former to greater effort in the direction of their thoughts for the sustenance of all.

So it would seem that labor can put on a thinking cap and gown, and wear it as gracefully as the greatest thinkers of the time.

This probably is due to the fact that all thought has its origin in the atmosphere, which is no respecter of persons. You will find in putting this cap on that 2000 years ago there were some very fine thinkers, who had no schools to speak of. At least, they were no; arrayed as they are now, but those thinkers have given the generations past and present much food for thought.

One of them was a carpenter, who begged his conveyance and food while he told the multitude the great things they could do, and that multitude has been around to see that it was done.

People do not believe that today. They would rather kiss a pastor rest or a metal rod than kiss the wrinkled brow of honest labor. Sincerely

ISABELLA W. FOULLIE.

Editor Boston American:

The article in the American by George W. Hinman, Jr., on France's prosperity is rich. Why don't the French pay their debts to the U. S. A.? The Mellon-Belanger agreement was a good racket for some. Do you get me?

Governor's Pew at King's Chapel Interests Visitors

Editor Boston American:

Tourists from all parts of this country have centered their interest in the Governor's pew in Kings Chapel, School st.

This is the only church in the United States that sets apart such a pew for governors to pray in.

This Boston pew is highly upholstered in Colonial style with kneeling cushions to match in color. These kneeling cushions are just as good today as they were 50 years ago. They have been little used and show no sign of wear.

A would be governor from Delaware asked the privilege of trying this pew which courtesy was extended to him. He said he envied the governor of Massachusetts in having such a comfortable pew to pray in.

Child Turned the Laugh on Mother

Editor Boston American:

During the Recreation Hour of a summer school in Greater Boston this joke was passed around which I thought would appeal to your many readers.

A woman had been inoculated with typhoid serum before taking her annual vacation from Cambridge. After it, she was obliged to remain in bed and declined to see anybody for a time.

It happened that an intimate friend a short distance down the street, called. Her little daughter was sent down stairs to explain.

"Mammy is in bed," the daughter said.

"In bed?"

"Yes! she was intoxicated yesterday and has had a bad headache from it."

ANTI-PROHIBITIONIST.

Tells How to Cure the Nation's Ills

Editor Boston American:

Prohibition is, I dare say, the chief cause for the present conditions of this country. I do not mean to say that prohibition should be done away with, but it should be modified.

Light wines and beer would mean bigger wheat fields. This would place more men and women at work. This would start another industry, that of manufacturing, packing, shipping and selling, which would tend to partially relieve the present conditions of this country. There would not be so much money leaving this country of ours for this purpose.

Do not misunderstand this article, it was not written by a wet, on the contrary it was written by a dry.

Prohibition is the chief cause of our penitentiaries and asylums being over crowded.

I do not know of anyone that will tell you that prohibition has benefited this country in any way. If you know of anyone that does you will probably find one of three things, namely, that it would hurt their business to say anything different; that they are receiving a slice of the graft that goes with it, or that they have visions of becoming a politician. It is very evident in our own country that prohibition is an absolute failure, if it were not a failure then why doesn't it work?

Why doesn't the prohibition officers run around with a motto sewed on their coats reading something like this: "Pay me or the judge," this would save them the trouble of telling the bootlegger that they were on the job.

Immigrants are permitted to come into the United States and take positions at a cheaper rate of wages than the American people can afford to thereby filling up all of these positions. Clamp down on immigration.

Less importation and more exportation will help solve the great needs of this country. N. H.

NEW ENGLAND STEAMSHIP LINES

THE PORT OF BOSTON IN REVIEW

By CARL MORRISON

The State is "showing the way" to the city in the matter of police speed boats.

The new launch arrived by the Charles river basin dock on the Metropolitan parade ground is worthy of the steam day of its service in rescuing a capsized Tech oarsman.

Richard V. Bennett, captain of the varsity crew, was picked up in an exhausted condition by officers of the T. Quinn and William J. Quinn. The police boat made a quick job and the two men were commanded by Capt. Albert Chapman.

The boat is capable of 35 miles an hour and can go over usual water. It is of the type Police Commissioner Eugene Hultin wants for the harbor instead of the Sixty-two ten foot launches now under construction.

As was exclusively in the Boston American the commissioner opposed the building of the boat too cumbersome for harbor work but the contract had already been signed by the port of police committee.

SAIL VIA BOSTON

Mayor Curley is being entertained in the harbor for an hour this noon by officials of the land and sea ports of the Commonwealth by way of the port of Boston. Several officials from other state ports, including New York, are on the boat. The mayor of Waltham, England, arrives in Boston by way of the Hub port.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS

The Maritime Association reports a possibility that Boston, one of the leading U. S. ports in cattle shipments, may win back some of its lost trade. About 25 head of cattle are being shipped from Montreal to England at $75 a head. Montreal received a fresh supply of cattle shipments on the Canadian National Railways from the Canadian West.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

Max is probably the youngest ship broker in Boston, but a veteran in experience. Although only 32 years old he has been in the business more than a dozen years and has made an outstanding record. His firm has developed the chartering of coal-carrying barges to the point that practically all of this work is handled by them.

Harris is an enthusiastic harbor booster. He favors the widening of Cape Cod Canal and feels that the port authority is on the right track in bringing about a reorganization of Commonwealth Pier methods. In his opinion, the great need of the port is a closer cooperation of organizations and individuals interested in harbor development.

He is a member of the Maritime Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Propeller Club. He is a graduate of Northeastern University. He is a bachelor, swims and hobbies are golfing and has a year old son.

NEW BUS SERVICE

The Rawding Bus Co. has reported to the Foreign Commerce Club on the transportation experiment made last Sunday, when two buses were at Commonwealth Pier and buses were in special runs over the city all day. Rawding has assured J. H. Haines, chairman of the club committee which has the idea of Sunday transportation needs, that he will be glad to cooperate any Saturday afternoon or Sunday whenever he is asked.

BUSINESS OPENING

The foreign and domestic commerce office in the Customs House knows of an excellent opportunity for interesting New England export trade in the port of Boston.

An American firm of [illegible] wants to get in export work and to a certain extent in spun fibre. An American is here ready to obtain agencies for additional New England products. His selling organization in Barcelona has been operating successfully for several years and he wants to take on such products as tools, electrical machinery and electrical household appliances.

LEGION WINS SHOOT

The Milton Post of the American Legion defeated the Coast Guard recruiting office in a pistol shoot at the Customs House range. The score was 447 to 327.

The individual standing of the contestants was George Hartigan 75, Clifton A. Parker, 71, Arthur Kingsley, 57, William Doherty, 67, Harvey Hampton, 27, Patrick Coyne, 50.

Records of the winners were: W. Lawrence Powell, 47; R. A. Hinds 84; W. C. Gustafson, 88; C. D. Merrill, 93; R. R. Robertson 73; Norton Wigglesworth, 62.

AT HALF MAST

Cathie's Romantic Dream Is Washed Away by Flood of Tears

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige, elder daughter in a fatherless home secures her first position in the office of Alfred A. Farnsworth, successful engineer. In the office she meets Gordon Moore and is instantly attracted to him and he to her. He easily persuades her to spend the rest of the day "celebrating" her securing a position with Farnsworth, and his securing a contract for an important engineering project. At the end of an innocent and delightful day of lunching and sightseeing with him, Cathie finds herself deposited at her door and nonchalantly bidden good-bye.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 3

SHE RUSHED down the narrow cement walk, brushing past the calla lilies and geraniums, bruising a shoulder against the unyielding wooden gate that separated the front garden from the weeds and clotheslines and garbage cans of "the back yard."

The loose white china knob of the back door turned uselessly under her fingers. The packages began to slip, one by one, under her arms. She pressed her body tight against the door to hold them, and sobbed uncontrollably when the little paper bag of magic nuts went slithering down to the ground. Somehow it seemed such a tragedy that she couldn't open the door and get in.

Admonishes Self

At last the knob caught and the door opened, and she could run and fling herself, still hatted and coated, upon the wide, lumpy bed in the back bedroom, and give herself up to the luxury of a good cry.

"Sap" she told herself furiously. "Sap! Crying over nothing. What do you care? What's he to you? Nothing! Nothing at all! And you've got a grand job, haven't you? And you've had a wonderful day, and had lunch at the Mark Hopkins . . . Isn't that enough for you? What do you want, anyway? Did you expect him to drop on one knee in the taxicab and propose to you? Is that it? Can't you have a good time for one day without bawling your eyes out because that's the end of it? What a fine sport you turned out to be, Cathie Paige! What do you want, the moon? What do you suppose a man like that wants with a nobody like you? His friends would laugh at him . . . they'd make fun of you . . . snub you . . . Oh, stop crying! Stop crying . . . haven't you any sense at all?"

And finally she stopped crying and just lay there, red-eyed and weary. Not caring for her wrinkling blouse, for her sister's mussed suit, not really listening for the sound of her mother's key in the lock, not caring that she'd come right out to the bedroom and find her crying . . . not caring for anything except that Gordon Moore was gone.

Washes Tears Away

But after a while she got up and washed her tear-streaked face under the cold water faucet, and hung up Ruth's suit and put on a starched, faded blue smock she found in the closet.

The potatoes and string beans were bubbling on the back of the stove, and the hamburger was beginning to hiss in its pan when the family—the two sisters and one brother and the mother that Cathie had told Moore about—arrived.

Mary, the mother, came first. Came with her arms full of bundles, panting a little, her broad, tranquil face stamped with fatigue.

"Oh, ma! You've been out working again!" Cathie cried reproachfully, rushing to take the bundles, quick to notice the musty brown paper, one that she knew contained a rolled-up apron and an old, soft pair of shoes.

Ever since she had been old enough to know anything at all, Cathie had known what that hard little roll with the crumpled paper wrapping meant. It meant that ma had been out working by the day. It meant a fierce, protesting love for ma, and a kind of secret, writhing shame—not that you're really ashamed of honest work . . . poor ma did the only thing she knew how when she was left with four babies and hardly enough to pay for the funeral and the lot in Holy Cross . . . but you hated it just the same. . . .

Mrs. Paige dropped into a kitchen chair and let Cathie take her old black hat and coat.

"It's the heat," she said, brushing the damp hair off her forehead. "The heat that gets me. Mrs. Ternan's kitchen is on the south side, it gets all the sun. I was doing up her ironing while she ran down to the sales. So on the way home I stopped myself. I got Eddie two real good shirts, he had to have them. One is a kind of pink color. I hope he don't think it's sissified—you know how he is—but it was a regular two-fifty value, so I . . . Open the package, Cathie, and look. I don't know as I'll be able to take it back on account of it being a special. And then I stopped at the delicatessen and got some ham for the children's lunch and . . . look out for the little carton, that's a few olives. Don't let the brine drip on that other one. That's stockings. They looked very good and only a dollar. So I got one for you and one for Ruth. Maybe I should have bought her two. I didn't make a very good job picking up the run on her other good pair. I got gunmetal for you, but if you'd rather have sun-tan I can change them. Now say so if you want, it won't be the least bit of trouble!"

Gladsome News

Cathie's eyes filled. She poked at the sizzling hamburger "You shouldn't have got any at all!" she mumbled, and then, remembering, she turned, her face all alight. "But that's the end of working! I got a job! Starting tomorrow! Twenty a week and a chance for advancement—at Vaughan and Farnsworth—the biggest engineering firm in town!"

"Twenty a week and a chance for . . . well! That's fine, dearie. Come, kiss ma again! I'm that proud of you! And twenty a week to start! Only this morning I said to Mrs. Hennessy, 'Any girl that can get a diploma from a business school in four months instead of eight,' I said, 'is smart enough to get a job, no matter how scarce they are,' I said, and what's more, I said . . . sh! I think that's Ruth on the steps. Put my things away quick! There's no need in her seeing—"

Cathie put the apron and old shoes in their regular hiding place, under some newspapers in a bin on the back porch. Ruth was excitable, and liked to think that her earnings as a school teacher at the Clifford Howe grammar school kept making her unhappy telling her that they didn't.

Thoughts of Him

The cool air felt good. Cathie leaned against the screen door, letting it cool her flushed cheeks Telling ma about the job had brought the other thing back.

"I'll never see him again.' Never, as long as I live," she whispered tragically, but she did not mean it had no hope. If he had business with Vaughan and Farnworth, and she worked for Vaughan and Farnsworth, wasn't it pretty likely that they'd meet again, after all?

"Cathie!" Ruth's shrill voice penetrated the closed door from the kitchen. "Cathie aren't you going to help get supper?"

Cathie came back to the kitchen dreamily. Ruth had a big blue apron on already, taking charge of everything as if she had strung the beans and done everything else herself. "Cathie, hurry! Time to mash the potatoes!"

Called Helpless

Not a word about the job, though ma had told her all about it. Not a sign to show she was glad. It was just too much. Cathie couldn't bear it. "I guess I know enough to mash the potatoes. I do it every night, don't I?" she cried irritably

"Well if that's the way a job

Wants Supreme Court to Rule on Eligibility of Sullivan for Place on Ballot

Blocked by the state ballot law commission, Atty. William R. Scharton today went to the Supreme Court in his fight to prevent the name of his rival, Atty. Harold W. Sullivan, being placed on the ballot as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney-general.

Scharton filed a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the ballot law commission to refrain from placing the name of Sullivan on the ballot

ASKS EARLY HEARING

He also brought a bill in equity asking that the commission be enjoined from placing Sullivan's name on the ballot and be required to proceed forthwith on a hearing of his protest, which was denied because of late filing.

Scharton explained that the reason for the late filing of the protest was because he did not learn until August 18 of Sullivan's admission to the New York bar, when he gave a Brooklyn address

In his petition for a writ of mandamus, Scharton set forth that Sullivan had not complied with the requirement of the law in that he had not inhabited the Commonwealth for a five-year period previous to the coming election.

He said the ballot law commission had declined to hear his protest because it was filed after the time for filing protests had closed.

ASKS COURT ORDER

He claims that the commission has the power to hear objections, and asks the court to command Frederic W. Cook, Secretary of State, to refrain from placing Sullivan's name on the ballot. Both matters will come before Judge William C. Wait in Supreme Court on Wednesday next

To Wed on Boat So Bride May Enter U.S.

A Scottish romance will result in the marriage of Alan Nicoll, of 61 Newell rd., Auburndale and Miss Helen C Irving of Dundee, Scotland, next Sunday on board the S. S. Cedric at Boston.

Miss Irving is due to arrive on the Cedric and on account of the immigration laws, the ceremony must be performed before she may land. Nicoll filed marriage intentions at Newton city hall yesterday and obtained a waiver of the five-day law.

Gloria Sends Greeting to Girl Entrants

A personal message from Gloria Swanson to the entrants in the Typical New England Girl contest was received by the Typical New England Girl Editor of the Boston Evening American today.

The telegram sent from Culver City, Cal., where the movie star is engaged at work in her latest picture, assures the successful winner of all the comforts and advantages that a trip to Paris can offer

"I am happy that the Boston Evening American is to be represented at Paris when the various American girls go there as my guests this fall and I want the winner to feel that she is to travel quite informally and without any thought in mind other than enjoying the trip. Everything possible will be done to make it congenial for her," it reads

With this promise from the spirit behind the quest and the Boston Evening American the search continues until midnight, September 15, to find that delightful and charming somebody, who is to wear the laurels of New England as its typical specimen of womanhood

MUSIC STUDENT ENTERS

A revelation of what the New England girl of today can do the following letter from Miss Mary V. Faulkenham of 541 Commonwealth ave., Boston, is of interest

"I am very much interested in the opportunity which this contest offers, and I wish to become a candidate. In order to state myself clearly, I am taking the liberty to enclose this letter. Although I was born in Massachusetts, my home has always been in Maine. In 1926 after completing my high school education in Portland, I came to Boston to study voice culture.

"Since that date I have given

DRY LAW CUTS DRUNKENNESS, SAYS CARVER

Harvard Professor Declares Saloon Certain to Return if Prohibition Is Repealed

Prohibition has resulted in less drunkenness since the World War than before, it was declared today by Prof. Thomas Nixon Carver, chairman of the chair of history, government and economics at Harvard.

Prof Carver, in a communication to the Boston Evening American, commented on the three substitutes for prohibition proposed by Congressman A. Piatt Andrews of, Gloucester.

The Congressman's three proposed substitutes were to take the profit out of the drink trade, to impose heavy penalties for excessive drunkenness and for ostracism of the drunkard

CUT DOWN PROFITS

In his comments, Prof Carver said

"The dispensary system takes some but not all of the profits out of the drink trade. It takes the profit out of the retail trade in drink, but not out of the manufacture and the wholesale trade.

"The saloon was the most efficient agency for pushing the sale of the product. That is why the manufacturers stood by the saloon until prohibition killed it.

"That same reason will lead them to restore the saloon as soon as they get a chance.

DRINKING ON DECREASE

"The dispensary system means the entry of the government into business. Some people would like to have the government go more and more into business, but why choose the most disreputable of all businesses as a beginning."

"In this machine age it is not alone the heavy drinker who is a menace. It is the one who has just enough liquor in him to foster undue confidence in his ability to drive a five-foot car through a four and half foot opening, or to pass another car before he meets a car coming from the opposite direction

"Heavy penalties for excessive drinking fall to touch the vital problem.

"As to ostracizing the drunkard, that has never been effective in this country. Every honest statistical study of the subject that has ever been made shows that there was more drunkenness before our entry upon the World War than there has been since"

Loser in Love Rivalry Is Taken Into Custody

Love in a boarding house turned out badly for one paying Romeo today when he went into care of police, but not quite so badly for a second lodger, despite bichloride of mercury, burns suffered when his rival is alleged to have made an attempt to kill him

It was all for love of the landlady, declare the police

Joseph Buono, 25, is the burned but more successful lover, he having obtained the edge in the esteem of the landlady in Cortes st., South End

Under arrest as a suspicious person but with almost a certainty of a formal charge being lodged against him is a fellow lodger of Buono.

According to the story told police, the man under arrest was the favored one with the comely landlady up to six months ago when Buono became a lodger in the house. Then the rivalry began

A few days ago Buono was awakened by a pain and discovered that his face was blurred and that there was a peculiar odor from his pillow

He went to a physician and then to a hospital, where examination disclosed that he had been burned by a powder form of bichloride of mercury.

Buono had the pillow slip tested by a State chemist and received a report of bichloride of mercury. There he found a bottle in his room with the label of a druggist

The druggist identified the bottle as one which had contained the mercury compound, purchased by the rival lodger

The lodger was then taken into custody

GUTHRIE BACKS BISHOP IN RACE

Endorsement of the candidacy of First Asst. Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop of Wayland for district attorney of Middlesex county, has been given by Col. Percy A. Guthrie

Col. Guthrie gives his support to Mr. Bishop's candidacy in a letter which, among other things says:

"I feel that everyone interested in the administration of justice in Middlesex county should put forth every effort in his behalf. I will certainly do what I can, and your committee may command my services at any time.

"I have watched his development through these years as a trial lawyer. His marshalling of facts, his knowledge of all branches of criminal law, his firm grasp of legal procedure, together with his dignity, his pleasing personality, and his forceful eloquence have made him an opponent to be feared and respected in the crossing of legal swords.

CONVENTION OF K. C. WINDS UP WITH BALL

3000 Attend Fete in Back Bay Hotel After 1930 Adjournmept

The 48th convention of the Knights of Columbus, the greatest in the history of the order, closed in a blaze of glory last night, when 3000 members and women visitors gathered at the Copley-Plaza in a triumphant ball.

State and city officials attended the ball and bade farewell to the visitors whom the State and the city took to their hearts.

"Beyond question this was the greatest gathering in the history of the Knights of Columbus," Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., declared. "The organization owes a debt of gratitude to the people of Massachusetts and the people of Boston for the hospitality they have shown to us."

MANY BIDS FOR 1931

Many bids for the 1931 convention were received yesterday. Among these was one from President Machado of Cuba who sent a cable to the convention inviting it to meet in Havana next year

Other invitations were received from San Francisco, Cal., Atlantic City, New Orleans, Excelsior Springs, Mo., Columbus, Ohio, Detroit, Mich., New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia Pa., Memphis, Tenn., and Victoria, British Columbia. Mayor Rolph of San Francisco sent a personal telegram.

TACKLE UNEMPLOYMENT

Unemployment consideration occupied the delegates in the closing hours of the convention

The good of the order committee recommended to the supreme council that each subordinate council, numbering 2500 in all, appoint an employment committee, the members of which would be charged with the responsibility of finding positions for at least the members of their council and in this way mitigate the present situation. The plan was accepted unanimously.

The committee also reported that Good Friday is now being generally observed in many states and recommended that every council of the Knights of Columbus work to bring about a complete national observance of the day by having it set aside as a day of prayer and devotion

It was also recommended that special exercises commemorating the birth of George Washington be held at each state council meeting during the observance of the bicentenary of Washington's birth.

CANDIDATES OF BOTH PARTIES SWAP VERBAL PUNCHES AT HULL

CUMMINGS AGAIN BRANDS ELY TOOL OF POWER TRUST

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Verbal fireworks furnished by the three Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, featured the first rally of candidates from both parties for major political office in the municipal building at Hull.

John J. Cummings started the ball rolling by accusing Joseph B Ely of Westfield of being the attorney of the power trust. He demanded Ely's withdrawal from the race.

Ely declared he had become a candidate at the solicitation of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, an admission that was denied by Fitzgerald with the request that the "untrue" statement be not repeated.

More than 1000 persons attended the free-for-all, and the addresses were broadcast, each speaker being limited to five minutes.

TIMED BY LIGHT

As a timekeeper, a regulation electric traffic signal was installed in the balcony of the hall. Each speaker started on green, took his warning on the yellow and stopped on red.

One of the outstanding events was the first appearance on the stump by former Governor Eugene N. Foss, dry candidate for the Democratic United State senator nomination.

First declaring that as Hull goes so goes the State, the "Old Boy" revealed that he had not intended to appear before the "milk e" He asserted that prohibition was no the most important issue of the campaign, the question of unemployment being uppermost.

TARIFF THE TROUBLE

New England is continued to de pendent upon it great industries

"When the wheels stop we suffer," he said. "I've been preaching for 30 years that the tariff is at the root of our troubles. We've overpaid the farmer and we are getting what was coming to us. Control is now in the Middle West and they are getting back at us."

"But I have a recipe and I will produce it later on."

Congressman Charles F. Gifford from Barnstable, the next speaker to be introduced by the presiding officer, Michael E Hennessey, well known political writer, hoped the defection of Hull in the Democratic two years ago when it went for Governor Smith would not be repeated. He defended the record of the Republican administration, saying that every promise made had been kept, with the exception of Muscle Shoals.

Ex-Mayor William E. Weeks of Everett, representing William H Butler, candidate of the G. O. P nomination for U. S Senator. He lauded Butler's record and declared that the issue is not as much "what we will drink but what we will eat."

PROHIBITION PARAMOUNT

Eben S. Draper, Butler's opponent, declared that the most important question from the national angle is that of prohibition because of the crime wave that has followed its trail

"That is why I am for repeal," he said.

Marcus A. Coolidge, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, dwelt on unemployment, which he said is nation-wide

"Something is wrong in our economic structure when the richest nation in the world confesses that nearly 4,000,000 workers are now and have been for months out of employment," he said.

Another great issue, he said, was the one stressed by Gov. Roosevelt of New York, namely the "growing menace found in the great concentration of capital through combinations and monopolies."

O'CONNELL ABSENT

"They threaten to impose upon the government a control and influence more powerful that the government itself," he charged. "Courageous leaders in Congress are trying to find a way by legal means to dam the torrent which is pouring down upon us. The Democratic party will find that way."

Former Congressman Joseph F O'Connell and former Dist. Atty Thomas C. O Brien, were unable to be present. O'Connell was represented by his brother, James, who said the candidate was in Chicago battling in the interests of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment at the meeting of the American Bar Association.

O'Brien was in the western part of the state building up his fences

Cummings was the first of the Democratic candidates for governor to speak

He quoted former Governor Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, as saying that the principal issue upon which the presidential campaign in 1932 will be waged is that of the power trust

SAYS NATION WATCHING

Upon the success or failure, he asserted, of the party in this state may depend th fortunes of fellow Democrats in many other out of state elections

"It is a critical period, one that calls for plain speaking on the part of every candidate for office. The people are calling upon the Democratic party of Massachusetts for relief and victory is within our grasp."

He referred to the defeat of R Loring Young, Republican candidate for senator, by David I. Walsh, upon the power issue by 125,000 votes. Young he said, is a director of the New England Power Company. Cummings connected Young nd Ely with the law firm of Ropes, Gray, Boyden and Perkins, who he said are the power trust attorneys for New England

"In spite of the defeat of Mr. Young, we now find this trust attempting to force its way into the Democratic party by bringing about the nomination of Mr. Ely for governor."

At another part of his speech, Cummings turned to Ely and said:

DEMANDS ELY QUIT

"Mr. Ely, you have no right in this contest, I challenge you in behalf of our party on the ground that your professional associations have disqualified you from waging a fight against this trust, which has been proven guilty of subsidizing the press, corrupting legislation and prostituting our educators."

There was a demonstration from the crowd as the traffic signals waved Cummings off

Ely apparently unruffled by the Cummings tirade, said that the gathering had all the appearance of an old-fashioned town meeting, a situation in which he felt at home

He wondered, he said, with a smile, if it was designed that he be subjected between the two Jacks" Fitzgerald and Cummings He stated that he is a practicing attorney, not a lobbyist and "Wears no man's collar but his own"

"I was invited to enter the campaign by my good friend as my right" (he indicated Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald), and by 5000 Democrats outside."

He declared he was out to build up in Massachusetts a constructive, progressive, reliable state-wide Democratic party

"ABSURD," SAID JOHN F.

Fitzgerald, the final speaker, stated that the outset of his remarks that he never invited Ely into the governorship contest. He characterized the utterances of Ely as "absurd."

"I ask Mr. Ely not to make that absurd statement again," he said.

He pointed out that he could not enter the senatorial contest because two Boston men were already in that race

Fitzgerald then devoted his attention to the campaign against slander recently put in motion by the Knights of Columbus, which received impetus from Mayor Russell of Cambridge.

"Silence and contempt seem no longer to be the way to combat this modern method of blackening the character of a man who aspires to public office," he declared.

He reminded his hearers of the 'dastardly" attacks which were made on Governor Smith in the last campaign and hoped that this would be the end.

"But the present primary campaign has developed into a situation of which the Boston Evening American has taken notice editorially," he said.

QUOTES EDITORIAL

"And one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor promptly signalized the event by directing a particularly savage attack upon myself."

He then quoted this extract from the editorial

"In passing it can be said that those familiar with our civic history realize that Mr. Fitzgerald's second administration as mayor of Boston, to which allusion was made, was without doubt disabled and most progressive which the city has known up to the present. Bigger, better and busier Boston became a slogan of international renown and the commercial life of the city fairly glimmed.

"It could be further said, if it were necessary, that when the defamations of the day became chronic, Mr. Fitzgerald permitted a committee of his substantial and unrelenting political opponents to examine the city government from top to bottom and they reported they found his management alert, capable and honest."

PRIOR TAKES OVER ELKS' HOTEL

Name Changed to Bradford in Honor of Colonial Governor

The Elks' Hotel on Tremont st., makes its bow to Boston as the Bradford Hotel today under the direction of L. C. Prior, proprietor of the Lenox and Brunswick

The change was announced by the new firm, who have been seeking to clear up the financial condition of the hotel and to solve the problem created by the Elks' order that Boston Lodge vacate the building.

"The change of name, the introduction of Mr. Prior into the management and removal of the Boston lodge from the property constitute the first steps in a plan for reorganization of the financial structure of the property," said Michael J Flaherty, speaking for the other receivers, Joseph O Proctor, Jr., and Ernest W. Allen.

"Next it was explained, will come the representative of the creditors who for some time will continue their domain over the hotel

One of the first moves Prior announced was he to convert the lodge room on the first floor into a dining room. The fifth floor ballroom will be used for hotel purposes.

In choosing the new name for the hotel it was decided to pay tribute to Governor W. W. Bradford of the Commonwealth, "the interests which will, as far as possible, be maintained in the name of Bradford in honor of the famous early governor."

SPLENDID BACKGROUND

Years of tradition and heritage have made her the fine, noble upstanding young woman that she is. For such a girl has the TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND GIRL quest been staged.

Run to continue with others.

Hopeful of victory is Miss Lee Brewer of 17 Washington st. Medford, a brunette maiden five feet and seven and three-fourth inches weighing 132 pounds.

Miss Agnes Donovan of 28 Dwight st. Springfield is another entrant. She is a brunette interested in dancing. But it's shopping more particularly in the glorious Paris, the sea voyage aboard the ultra-modern French liners, Ile de France and Paris, and the week in the ocean-the-Atlantic capital, with all its appeal and glamor

"I have never been outside of my home town and have never seen any place like Paris," Miss Donovan writes.

And so haven't many, many fine girls in New England—never been to Paris, never witnessed old-world fascinations; never enjoyed the broadening influence of travel

The educational experiment is justifying itself

ALL FILM STARS TO ATTEND OPENING OF MARY PICKFORD'S GOLF COURSE

WILL RANK WITH FIRST NIGHTS FOR CROWDS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Will somebody please page Emily Price Post and ask her what is de rigeur for the opening of a golf course. Mary Pickford in line with many other film people, has put her money into a course at the corner of La Cienega and Wilshire boulevards. The formal opening is set for August 29 and all of the movie folk are planning to be present.

Mary herself will make a personal appearance and, of course, Douglas Fairbanks. Wouldn't it be a laugh to see evening clothes on a golf course? Our Malibu wood openings are always attended up that it is going to be difficult for the girls to wear sport clothes. At that I'll wager there will be pink, blue and lavender and yellow sport clothes enough to be worn at the most pretentious affair.

IT MUST BE RATHER trying for young Douglas Montgomery to have to change his name. He is the lad who made his debut with the Pasadena Community Players and later went to New York and scored a tremendous hit with the theater guild. He has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer after many offers from other screen producers. One condition of his signing was contingent upon his changing his name. What with Robert Montgomery going over like a house afire M. G. M. naturally could not have two Montgomerys in the family. It is almost like starting all over again for young Douglas Montgomery but then, if he is as good as everyone says he will probably make the new name just as well known as the old one.

A CERTAIN pessimistic soul who takes his movies as a necessary evil, insists that Edward Everett Horton came near stealing "Holiday." While Mr. Horton gave a beautiful comedy performance, as he always does, I cannot agree that his part was big enough to be dangerous. Yet it was sufficiently good for other producers to realize what a dependable actor Mr. Horton is. He has been signed for the most important role in "Reaching for the Moon" outside of that of Rebe Daniels and Douglas Fairbanks who will be co-starred. The production was held up for a month pending some changes in the scenario.

Ina Claire

THE EXODUS to New York is on. Ina Claire is on the train speeding to the big town to lend her presence to "The Royal Family" at the Paramount studios. Rod La Rocque is also on his way. Rod will meet Vilma Banky in New York and together they will visit rehearsals for their play which has been visiting her family in Hungary and she is due to reach New York September 4. At the same time Anita Loos and John Emerson will get back to town to superintend rehearsals of their play which stars Vilma and Rod. Harney Glazer gets out of Manhattan September 1 with Colleen Moore's play all written for her. Certainly sounds like a gay time in the old town this fall.

WHAT AN AUDIENCE there is for bandits' wild West thrillers and for that melodrama. Tiffany is about to make Ken Maynard a star star. Rex Lease has the lead in "Border Legion" and has been signed as the leading lady. Dorothy does get around, we must say. She's over there and everywhere, being one of those girls who seems to fit into nearly any picture. Thomas Santschi, Walter Miller, Boris Karloff are other members of the cast, with Richard Thorpe directing. Wonder when King Vidor's "Billy, the Kid" will be released. I am told it is a fine picture.

COOK FILM IS HELD OVER

When Joe Cook star of Columbia's "Rain or Shine" which began its second week at Keith's tomorrow went out to Hollywood to start on this first picture of his, his impressions of that city seemed too favorable. He has no intention of leaving out there however. If he was his first visit to California in 15 years. He used to play there with a tank-ing show.

Cook, who first appeared in a Morosco Show when he was 14 years old, has done every kind of acting known, breaking into vaudeville as an amateur night performer and later appearing in the "Vanities" and other notable Broadway successes.

He married and has three children and lives at Lake Hopatcong, N. J. He says how he gave his two Junior six oranges through the window one day but kept one while the boy had scarlet fever and the next day when he looked in, young Joe was getting at it better than he could after years of experience.

His favorite hobbies are fishing, golfing and cooking. He says he is not superstitious as he ran in the opposite direction. He walked under a ladder once and never found a $5 bill on the sidewalk.

Screen Shorts

Two pictures have gone into production at the Fox studios and seven are now in the cutting rooms. "Lightnin'," which stars Will Rogers and "Stolen Thunder" have been placed in work while the following are now being made ready for release: "The Big Trail," "Are You There" The Sea Wolf" "Men On Call" "Liliom," "Soup to Nuts," "Tonight and You."

Charles Rogers' next has been slated under the co-direction of Lloyd Corrigan and Joseph McLeon. Picture has been tentatively titled "Molinoff."

Barbara Weeks has been added to the cast of "Under John's Bed," which Alan Dwan is directing for Warner Bros.

toward a million. Winter Hall of the Stock Actors is out at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in "The Passion Flower." William Le Baron is on his way to New York. He will probably bring back new plays, new talent and new ideas. And so the movie go-rounds go on and on.

THE DUNCAN SISTERS are due back in town. Vivian is on her honeymoon with Nils Asther, and Rosetta is due to look after her sister when she married. The two sisters are booked for a series of ten performances and don't know just what the text will be but imagine something on the order of the act they did on the stage. Willie Bernstein who will produce them will undoubtedly have the girls sing and dance and since there seems to be a great demand for these short revivers we shall probably see the famous sister team at many of the theaters throughout the country.

Vivian Duncan

A Few Reasons Why 'The Second Little Show' Is a Hit

PRINCIPALS OF REVUE SKETCHED FROM LIFE BY FRED LEWIS

REPEATING THE RICE CASE of its predecessor, the Wilbur next week, its third at this popular playhouse, "The Second Little Show" is remaining at house.

SNAPPY REVUE SCORES ON MET BILL

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

AULD LANG SYNE these days of bath tub fling in the movies. Like chickens, old friends come home to roost among us. Among the familiar faces just now presenting themselves in "Manslaughter," well remembered for the way Leatrice Joy and Thomas Meighan did its top roles on the silent silver sheet. At the Metropolitan, for the new week's change of fare, we are introduced to the old story. Yet it is metamorphosed a good deal, and of course voice is added. Further, in starry chairs now, alas! vacant in film and, we find more recent folk; for instance, Claudette Colbert, well remembered for her excellent work with Chevalier and in "Young Man of Manhattan"; and Fredric March, who has some good deeds to his credit before the throated cameras.

TO GIVE THE NEEDED pull to the bill, the Metropolitan, has another snappy and colorful Publix Revue. It is entitled "Harem Hokum," and it is filled with fun and much cleverness. For instance, there is Harry Moore, a master at his art, one of the most nimble-fingered gentlemen we have ever seen. He works in colored paper, and his feats are astonishing. They're worth anybody's seeing. So def is this man and so unusual his bag of paper tricks, that we doubted it could be bona fide. We suspected foul play somewhere. Watson and no with Sherlock Holmes intentions, we went backstage. And lo and behold! Mr. Moore proved his manipulations were absolutely honest. He's a wonder with his fingers and his papers.

THOSE THREE NEGROES in the revue furnish one of the finest dancing acts seen in months. They stopped the show dead several times. And praise must be given the producers for the settings for the whole production.

IT IS GOOD THAT the mission station is so entertaining for "Manslaughter" falls short of an silent forebear. Its best feature is its photography, and at several points, as in the courtroom scene, the director has expertly used impressionistic touches to convey his idea and save a waste of time on lawyer and witness humdrum. The auto tragedy is also nicely camera'd.

The photodrama fails to hold up every interval, and several times takes on a farcical mood. Its ending is particularly weak. Miss Colbert acts well in general. Mr. March is sometimes at his worst. Natalie Moorhead and Richard Tucker, without a great deal to do, are convincing.

STRONG CAST IN 'SINS'

Sam Wood proves himself a director of no small discernment in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Sins of the Children." Taking a story of simple family life where children get into all sorts of scrapes and constantly come to the harassed parents to get them out of their difficulties, Wood has molded the narrative into a picture of powerful emotional projection.

Leila Hyams

Miss which is now at Loews State.

A splendid cast was chosen for this production. Louis Mann, the veteran stage actor, makes his first appearance on the talking screen. There is a feeling of kindly sincerity which makes you take the old man to heart. The work of the children is uniformly excellent. Leila Hyams as Kim proving herself to be much more than merely a pretty young woman; Elliott Nugent playing Johnny with a youthful impetuosity, and Robert Montgomery portraying Nick with just the right touch of devilmischief.

Fine work is also done by Frances X. Bushman, Jr., Mary Doran, Robert McWade, Henry Armetta, Lee Kohlmar, Jean Wood and a clever group of child actors.

Movie Clock

Feature photoplays in the picture theaters and their starting times today are as follows:

ORPHEUM—"Raffles"; a. m., 9:15; p. m., 12:15, 3:15, 6:15, 9:30.

FLYING BAND HEADLINERS

The musical aviators of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, who recently started a 20-week RKO vaudeville tour, and who come to Boston tomorrow as the headline attraction on the stage, qualify as among the unique instrumentalists of today. All of them are graduates of the flying school. They travel from city to city in a huge Condor plane. The orchestra accomplishes its entire theatrical tour in this manner. Special scenery, costumes and lighting effects have been provided for this musical offering.

In one sequence is depicted the flight of seven minature airships through the air. This is entitled "The March of the Dawn Patrol."

"Sunny"

Marilyn Miller's second starring vehicle, "Sunny" has been completed by First National. The star will go to New York to appear in a Ziegfeld show with Fred and Adele Astaire.

MR. BOSTON
By JACK CONWAY

Henry Lamar was punching away at a bag when Mr. Boston stepped into Jim Toland's gym. They call Lamar the Gene Tunney of the heavyweight division on account of the fact he clicks with the socially prominent and because his boxing style is similar to that of the former champion.

"I wish you newspapery boys would stop writing about my social ties and just say I'm a heavyweight boxer who wants to become a champion," said Lamar.

Jack Conway

"It is true, though, isn't it that one of your ancestors occupied a seat on the Supreme Court of the United States and that you have attended some of the most exclusive parties tossed in Washington?" pressed Mr Boston.

"Yes," replied Lamar, easily, "but I'm not making money as a result of family connections or social standing. I'm a fighter, I want to be a rough, tough fellow who will crash to the heavyweight championship. I want to knock a lot of other fellows cold."

Mr. Boston looked at Lamar as the latter spoke. Standing six feet in height, weighing 190 pounds, and unmarked despite some 40 professional fights and 100 amateur bouts, Lamar made an impressive appearance.

"I don't think you'll ever be a savage fighter like Dempsey," volunteered Mr. Boston. "Your early environment makes such a thing impossible. Dempsey came up off the rods to punch his way to the championship. His school was the school of hard knocks, his pals homeless creatures like himself. He had to fight before he ever entered the ring to snatch a living from life. Dempsey was a hungry fighter, and hungry fighters always fight best. Napoleon always liked his soldiers to go into battle with empty stomachs. They were then mean and vicious.

"Fighters and soldiers, Henry, do best when ill tempered, when they figure the whole world is against them and they want to crush somebody just to even things up in their own minds.

Lamar Has Grown Heavier, Like Tunney

"If you become a champion, Henry, you will be like Tunney type. Perhaps even more so than Gene as you were born into your social sphere. Tunney climbed from Tenth ave. in New York into the drawing rooms of Fifth ave. He had to learn a new language, new manners. You come by such things naturally.

"You box somewhat like Tunney. You use your left hand well and pick spots for your right. You keep the other fellow off balance. You beat down your man gradually instead of tearing him to pieces like the hungry Dempsey did as he battered his way to the front."

"I would rather fight like Dempsey than like Tunney," interrupted Lamar. "As I have put on weight, I have become more vicious. I have been hitting harder, while I don't tire. I feel that I'm now ready for any heavyweight in the world. It is four years since I turned pro and I have picked up a lot of experience in that time. I have had some 40 fights and Maloney is the only man who ever licked me. I would like to get Jim into the ring with me again as I feel I could knock him out."

"Now you talk like Dempsey," said Mr. Boston. "Jack was always telling the gang about somebody he was going to knock out. I remember the day at Saratoga he told me he was going to stiffen Louis Firpo inside of four rounds. I argued with him. It would be better to box Firpo for a few rounds, beat him down slowly and then chill him. He got steamed up and told me he was going to fight his own fight and knock Firpo cold. A great fighter was Dempsey.

Dempsey Possessed With the Killer Instinct

"Nature made Dempsey that way, Henry. You have not got the killer instinct of Dempsey. Perhaps the fact he had to fight to keep body and soul together was responsible for his desire for action.

"Be satisfied with being another Tunney. Gene did pretty well for himself financially. In three fights he picked up a fortune. He got $990,000 for his first bout with Dempsey in Philadelphia, $989,000 for his jam with the Tiger in Chicago and $500,000 for his title defense against Heeney. Not so bad, eh?"

"But I'd rather be a Dempsey," pressed Lamar. "Watch the way I let my punches fly when I meet Marty Gallagher next Tuesday night."

"I'll be at the ringside," chirped Mr. Boston, "but it isn't in the books for you to adopt Dempsey's style. You will get to the front by following the same system that made Tunney a champion.

"You possess the same mental poise as Tunney. You train carefully, play your battles and like to box. I don't think you ever had to wonder where your next meal was coming from."

Dempsey Ruled by Destructive Forces

"I never did," admitted Lamar.

"One must be hungry occasionally to become real destructive" went on Mr. Boston. "Dempsey knew what it was to miss a meal. I don't think Tunney ever had to concern himself about getting the necessary food to keep going. But he did pretty well in the ring at that even though he didn't set up any knockout record. Try and be a Tunney, Henry."

"Tunney is my hero," insisted Lamar.

"I also once wished I were Dempsey when a man mountain of a brute tried to shove me around getting into a car in the subway," said Mr. Boston, "But nature hasn't given many men the constitution, nerve and urge to fight that made Dempsey famous."

"There's no crime to just wishing," said Lamar as Mr. Boston left him.

Harry Allen Wins on Technical Kayo

Harry Allen of Brockton scored a technical knockout over Jack McCarthy of Roxbury in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round feature bout of Highland A. A.'s show before 5000 spectators at Highland Park, Brockton, last night.

In the six-round semifinal, Leslie Baker of Watertown knocked out Mike Harrington in the first round. Billy Mooney of South Boston defeated Rudy Bower of Jamaica Plain, while Merlin of Roxbury won over Stonewall Jackson of Lynn, Joe Dow of Lawrence beat George La Slate of Brockton and Tony Jarusc of Brocaton defeated Young Paul of New Bedford, all bouts in the preliminary six-rounders.

GRASSE-OGG PLAY TODAY

Worcester, Aug. 22—Wilfred Ogg, Jr., of the Greenhill Golf Club, Worcester, and C. D. A. "Chic" Grasse, Jr., of The Mount Pleasant Club, Lowell, will oppose each other today in the Worcester Country Club's invitation tournament at the Summit links.

These youngsters won their way in the semifinals of the championship division by playing great golf and they will meet to see which will play the winner of the Avery-Nettlebindt semifinal, both Worcester players.

Grasse defeated R. H. Oatley of Springfield easily in their first round match, 6 and 5. In his second round match he met a harder competitor in John Merwin of Concord, the runner-up in the tournament last year, but he finally won, 2 and 1.

Ogg won his first round match from W. C. Hoxie of Sandy Burr as easily as Grasse had beaten Oatley, but he met stiffer opposition in his second round and had to come from behind to defeat Dr. Powell of the Monoosnock C. to get to the semi-finals. Rockwell had Ogg 1 down at the 16th hole, but the Worcester boy won the next two holes at the 17th and won the 18th with a birdie.

Australian Cricket Team Beats England

London Aug 22 (AP)—The Australian cricket team today regained the "ashes" symbolic of cricket supremacy, defeating England by an inning and 39 runs in the final test match played at the Oval ground.

England scored 405 in the first innings but Australia rolled up a total of 605.

THREE OPEN TOURNEYS ON TODAY

By BILL GRIMES

Two open handicap medal play tournaments, South Shore and Bear Hill, started this morning and will continue through tomorrow.

Although Bear Hill and South Shore are situated well outside the city limits, record breaking crowds are expected to attend both tournaments. The Bear Hill Golf Club is located on the Lowell road between Stoneham and Reading, while West Hingham is the home of the South Shore Country Club. The South Shore Country Club reached its high water mark in attendance last year, when 228 teed off for the annual open. As usual the field will be divided into four classes, with gross and net prizes offered in all divisions.

Bill Grimes

Wayne Roberts has purchased a new assortment of prizes for the South Shore open and the committee voted to have gross prizes in all four divisions, a change from last season, when only two nets were donated for the three high handicap divisions.

New Holes to Be Opened at Bear Hill Today

According to Leslie Cottrell, the genial professional, the Bear Hill course is primed for this year's open. For weeks Bear Hill has been getting ready to welcome an army of golfers and there is every reason to believe that this year's field will be well pleased with the recent changes made there. The new holes will be opened for the first time today, and they have greatly improved the course.

In addition to prizes in three divisions, there will be two special awards—one for the best nine and the other to any player who breaks seventy, in case, more than one contestant breaks into the 60's, a play off will be necessary.

As the South Shore and Bear Hill events are the only opens for this week-end, most of the Greater Boston players are planning to take in both tournaments. Although attendance figures in open tournaments have been lower this year than they were a year ago, it is safe to predict that both Bear Hill and South Shore will be better attended today and tomorrow than last season.

Cape Cod Open at Eastward Ho Course

While the regulars are playing at South Shore and Bear Hill the big boys will be battling for the Cape Cod open championship at Eastward Ho. The withdrawal of Francis Ouimet was a disappointment but not a surprise, for the former United States amateur and open champion has remained out of competitive golf other than national championships for some years.

The Cape Cod championship will be decided over the long 36 hole medal play route and if the breezes off Chatham are only normal it will be real test to even the stars and a grind for every participant.

36 Women to Race in $10,000 Marathon

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 22 (AP)—Thirty-six of the best feminine swimmers in the United States and Canada were prepared today for their ten-mile battle with the icy waters of Lake Ontario in the opening event of the Canadian national exhibition.

Many favorites to fight it out for first place were Ruth Tower Corsan of Toronto and Ethel McGlone of New York.

Indications were that the temperature of the water would be in excess of 70 degrees, well above the minimum of 58 degrees specified for the race. In the event of a temperature lower than 58 degrees the race was to be postponed.

Girls in Distance Swim on Sunday

The L Street Swimmings Club of which Michael Tonley is president, will hold an open swim for girls from Warren Bridge, Charlestown, to Pemberton on Sunday.

It will start at 10 a. m. All who intend to swim must be at the start at 9:30 a. m., with boat, pilot and trainer as none will be furnished.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA MEET AT THE NET

Betty Nuthall

Marjorie Morrill

MARJORIE MORRILL, Dedham girl and a member of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill, will attempt today at Forest Hills to sweep aside the most threatening entry in the fight for Helen Wills Moody's abandoned national singles crown. This threat is Miss Betty Nuthall, pretty young British girl, who has been chosen by the experts to succeed to the women's tennis throne. Miss Morrill, however, is playing her best tennis, and should stage a thrilling match. The winner of this semi-final match today will be the favorite to capture the title in the final tomorrow.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Scout Steve O'Rourke has picked up another ball player for the Sox. He sent word to President Bob Quinn this morning that he had signed Jack Lucas, an outfielder of the McCook team of the Nebraska State League.

Lucas is 20 years old and a native of Alton, Ill. He weighs 185, is six feet tall and bats right and throws left. He is batting for .362 and has hit 26 doubles, 16 triples and ten home runs.

Manager Donie Bush of the White Sox frankly admits that he is dissatisfied with the showing of his club this season and that he is willing to trade anybody to strengthen the outfit.

"I bet you won't recognize my team at the start of next season," is the way he puts it.

If Earl Webb keeps hitting the ball the way he has for the past week, he will be well up with the league's leading hitters when the campaign closes. In the last three games he has made five singles and two doubles in 11 times at bat. One more slugger like the big right-fielder and the Sox would be about sure to get out of the basement.

Umpire Campbell was in his usual terrible form in the opener of the Red Sox-White Sox series. In the first four frames he robbed the locals of two runs, once by an atrocious decision at the plate and later by an even worse ruling at third.

Carl Reynolds showed why he is regarded as one of the best outfielders in the league when he raced up Duffy's Cliff after a drive of Bobby Reeves, fell, picked himself up, stumbled and yet managed to clutch the ball.

Bill Cissell looks just as good at third as he did at short and second, which is plenty good. Manager Donie Bush didn't weaken the White Sox a bit when he benched Willie Kamm.

Sonnenberg Clashes With Pinto Tonight

Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will clash with Stanley Pinto in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Mid Hill Arena Hyde Park tonight. Bibber McCoy will take on Frank Tusko in the semi-final.

Fights Last Night

Hampton, Wash.—Maxey Rosenbower, New York, light heavyweight champion, and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash. (10), (knockout).

Sox Must Play .500 Ball to Better 1929 Record

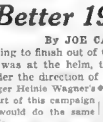
By JOE CASHMAN

While failing to finish out of the cellar during the three years Bill Carrigan was at the helm, the Red Sox showed steady improvement under the direction of the Lewiston squire.

It was Manager Heinie Wagner's hops at the start of this campaign that his club would do the same and finish a little better than his predecessor's 1929 outfit, but it doesn't look now as though it would.



Joe Cashman

The year before Carrigan returned to the Sox, they won 91 games. During their first team experience through with 81 victories, his second turned in 77 triumphs and his third recorded 58 wins.

The Sox today are a much better club this year have won 42 and lost 79 games. They have 83 more games to play. So to better last year's mark, they would have to win one more than half of their remaining games which is a little too much to expect of a club with a .350 percentage.

The Sox got off to a much better start this season than in 1929, but they aren't finishing nearly as strong. During the last two months of last year the natives played better than .500 ball and had the best record of any team in the league, with the exception of the champion Athletics, over that stretch.

This year's team may put on an extended winning streak which will enable it to finish with a better mark than last year, but if it does it will be the first spurt of the year.

Fans Disappointed in Showing of Red Sox

That is, it will be its first winning spurt. It has had two losing ones, and that is why it is so low in the standing.

For the greater part of the campaign the Wagners have played fair baseball, but early in June they dropped 14 games in a row and tossed away 11 straight about a month ago.

The failure of the club to live up to the promise it showed late last season is of course given as disjointing to the fans and they are holding Wagner to blame.

Considering, however, that Heinie has had to get along as he can with what any league [illegible] Mgrs. and Charlie Hafford will won 25 games between them last season it seems as if the pilot has done as well as could be expected with the material that he has had at his disposal.

The trouble with the club is lack of hitters and no manager will be able to do anything with it until several new sluggers have been secured.

President Bob Quinn realizes this and has all his scouts touring the minors looking for rookies who can hit that apple. If he has a few lined up and has hopes of getting more.

If the newcomers are there with the stick the Sox will be stronger next year, if not, the natives will finish in the depths again.

ALLISON AND TILDEN WIN

Newport, R. I. Aug. 22 (AP)—[illegible] defending champion in the Newport Casino invitational tournament, today advanced into the title round when Frank Hunter of Rochelle, N. Y., his doubles partner defaulted in his favor.

Wilmer Allison, Texas member of the American Davis Cup doubles team, became the other finalist by coming from behind to defeat Georges Lott of Chicago, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4. Allison was serving and both failed to keep service unbroken in any of the four sets. Allison however was the more consistent and emerged victorious.

Hunter injured his arm last night during the three-hour battle he and Tilden had to fight with Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, young Californians, to gain a bracket in the semi-finals round of the doubles play.

The veteran New Rochelle pair [illegible] a sensational singles match with Tilden would aggravate his injury and lessen their chances in today's national doubles play at Brookline, Mass.

Hunter's decision disappointed the largest crowd of the week for the majority of the spectators made a journey to the Casino, one of the game's oldest shrines, especially to see Tilden in action.

SEMI-FINALS

W. T. Tilden, 2d, Philadelphia, won by default from Frank Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Hall Gamage Wins

Magnolia, Aug. 22—Play was resumed on the Oceanside courts yesterday, Hall Gamage of Huntington school won in both the singles and doubles.

Samuel and John Richardson, father and son, made their appearances in the doubles and won without effort.

MISS MORRILL IN SINGLES SEMIFINAL TODAY

Forest Hills, N. Y. Aug. 22 (AP)—A girl from England, a baroness from [illegible] and two Americans have advanced to the semi-final round in the women's national championship play at the West Side Tennis Club.

[illegible] of Great Britain, [illegible] Levi of Dedham, formerly of Chicago, Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Merion, Pa., and Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., were the three to come [illegible] Helen Wills Moody's unbeaten ranks of last year.

Miss Nuthall, a favorite in pre-tournament betting, and runner-up to Mrs. Wightman in the Wimbledon championships, defeated Mary Farrell of Kansas City, 6—3, 6—1, 6—4, after a better struggle than the scores indicate. Miss Morrill [illegible] Mrs. Moody's successor, Miss Averydell of San Francisco, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5.

Hearst Tourney Draws Record Number of 454 Entries

TREMENDOUS INTEREST IN EVENT

Important Notice to Entries in Hearst Junior Golf

Due to the enormous entry for the qualifying round in the Hearst Junior Golf Tourney at Wollaston, on Monday, it will be absolutely necessary for every player to be at the starting tee on time. In tomorrow's BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN the starting times will be published. Acquaint yourself with your starting time and DON'T BE LATE, for it will mean that you cannot play. NO EXCEPTIONS CAN OR WILL BE MADE TO THIS RULE.

Hundreds of entries were received too late to be accepted and unless your name is in the list which will be published tomorrow there is no chance of your participating in the second Hearst Junior championship.

If your name is on the list, BE ON TIME. If it is not, do not go to Wollaston harboring the idea that you will be allowed to play, for this will be impossible because of the already overcrowded conditions.

Four hundred and fifty-four entries have been accepted for the second William Randolph Hearst Junior Golf Tournament which will start on Monday morning at 9 a. m. at the Wollaston Golf Club, Montclair.

The committee of selection of the Hearst Junior Golf Tournament has arranged the starting times, taken every entry possible of those who got in on time and everything is now ready for the opening gun.

The starting times and the threesomes will be published in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. Every boy who sends in a entry should get a copy of the paper, note the starting time assigned for him and be on hand at least 15 minutes before that time.

75 STARS ENTERED

In seeding over the list of entries it was noted that at least 75 of the 454 entered are to be ranked, with the best of the junior golf class in New England.

The rest can't exactly be termed "duffers," they simply haven't shown and have no past records. For in the former Hearst, a number of boys, unheard of before, cropped to the front and made names for themselves.

This tournament is not expected to be any exception. There are perhaps 50 "dark horses" in the tournament who are just on the edge of breaking forth and displaying the golf that they have been keeping in store for just such an opportunity as the Boston Evening American offers in its second tournament.

With possibly a hundred or more capable qualifiers in the tournament and only 32 to be chosen out of the greatest battle in the history of golf can be expected on Monday at Wollaston.

The finals of this tournament must be taged no later than next Thursday evening in order to reach the finals by the time only 32 can be qualified and the lads have to get their best golf out of their systems at the very start or be out.

FINALS ON THURSDAY

Three games will start off every five minutes beginning at 9 a. m. and winding up somewhere in the falling shadows of night.

On Tuesday the first and second round matches will go on. Wednesday will see the quarter-finals and semi finals and Thursday morning will find the tournament finishing with the two remaining contestants battling it out for the trophy.

Bill Grimes refuses to name a favorite in this combat. There are so many fine young golfers entered that it would be folly to chose any one as the likely winner.

But there are 454 of them, perhaps the largest number ever gathered in any golf tournament. And what a tournament it will be.

Elgin Catcher Killed by Pitched Ball

Maranville Back in Braves' Lineup

Pittsburgh, Aug 22—A heavy rain caused the Braves and the Pirates to spend a day of idleness yesterday.

The series with the Tribal warriors ending Saturday will mark the last appearances of any eastern team here this season. Manager McKechnie of the Braves stated that he figured upon putting Rabbit Maranville back in the game tomorrow.

MILK SOURS FOR MINIATURE GOLF

MINIATURE GOLF NEW DIVERSION

By JOHN GILLOOLY

Once upon a time an evening spent at bridge, the movies or beside the radio was considered a pleasurable pastime. But now, with every nook and corner in the city and every lot along the countryside adorned with a small bunkered course, these diversions have lost their lure and miniature golf has got a half-nelson on the pleasure-bent public.

The public seems to have gotten the miniature golf bug. Every course in Greater Boston is crowded each p. m. The fans have to be shooed off at the closing time and, in the middle of the evening, these little links are crowded.

Where once the people used to say, "I saw a good show last night," they now tell one another about the scores they made or the number of holes-in-one they chalked up the evening previous.

Even the small boys are being bitten by the new malady. The kids are building courses in their back yards and digging up the family gardens in erecting the links. Ben Cutter, a Stoneham lad, has got one of the best of the home-made miniatures. Pen has used rusty stovepipe, auto rims, pails to serve as water hazards and baking powder tins in the manufacture of his course. And he can't keep the boys in Stoneham away.

Miniature golf seems to be here for quite a stay. The higher-ups in golf are willing to lend a hand for they feel it increases the interest in the game. And the people are getting more interested with each passing day.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

One little slip that persistently interferes with your golf shots is locked in the very narrow margin between holding your head still and holding it not quite still. In putting your head can be absolutely m movable and should be. In the long game the head can not be so rigidly fixed, but the principle applied here just the same since you hold it as still as you can, and especially as just as the club-head strokes the ball away. At that point you must hold your head from going forward. Your putting stroke, with your head absolutely riveted in the one position, reveals the club action you seek in your long shots—in all shots, in fact, throughout your play. Putting this way, you must observe that with the body so fixedly still, your putt is made wholly with the blade and your hands. And that's just the way you want to make all your shots—with the blade and your hands. That's what is meant by keeping your body out.

Notes of the Sandlots

The William J. Mahoney Club will play the Somerville Progressives at Shirley st., Roxbury, tonight, and one of the best games of the season is expected. Jim Donovan, B. C. pitcher, a new man on the Mahoney roster, is likely to hurl for the Roxbury club.

The Knights of Lithuania and the South Boston Baseball Club will play the deciding game of their series at 2.30 Sunday afternoon, at Columbus Park, South Boston.

Frank Rull, with a 6 to 2 victory over the Knights to his credit, will be on the hill for South Boston Baseball Club, and will attempt to make it two straight. Johnny O'Brien will catch Rull. Preskins, former Athenaeum Arts star, will hurl for the Knights of Lithuania with Lucas behind the plate.

The Assumption A. A. claims the semipro title of Greater Boston with a fine record that lists only two setbacks. If any team cares to dispute the claim the Assumptions are willing to play them. Get in touch with Harold Spinney, 280 Everett st., East Boston. Call Back Bay 3096 between 6.30 and 7.30 p. m.

The South Boston Badgers, with 22 victories in 26 games, are willing to take on all comers and are looking for games. The Mayor Curley Club, Hoyt Pals and East Boston Bennetts are preferred. Call A. J. Kennedy, South Boston 4354.

The Massasoits and the St. George Cardinals will play a three game series for the championship of the South End with the first game being played tomorrow afternoon at the Randolph St. grounds.

Lefty Cole and H. Frank will work for the Massasoits while Smoky Gabriel and D. Murray will be the Cardinals battery. Lefty Cole has a no-hit no-run game to his credit this season and several shut-outs. The Massasoits have won nine game in a row.

Barry Wood Plays H. H. Hyde in Final

Squirrel Island, Me., Aug. 22—W. Barry Wood, Jr., of Harvard and H. H. Hyde of New Haven met in the Squirrel Island sing ed final today.

Von Bernuth and Perry L. Kingston, with two legs on the doubles cup, advanced through the quarter-finals of the doubles by defeating Clarence C. Chaffee of New York and Albert Horton, 3d of Williams College, while Hyde and Amos Wilder of New Haven, the second team with two legs on the cup, survived by defeating Julius Appleton and Grayson Upton of Harvard. ## ARMOUR TRAILS IN WESTERN TOURNEY

Orion, Mich., Aug. 22 (US)—A noticeable silencing of the big guns of golf, a variegated display of weather and climatic conditions, and a card of 31—35—69 that gave Harry Hampton of Beverly the lead by a stroke over Clarence Gamber of Detroit, who scored 35—35—70, were the principal offerings as the cast of the Western Golf Association's open championship swept through the first round at Indianwood.

Hampton, out in real chilly and decidedly windy going in early morn, went his way, as Harry very often does, steadily, quietly and with no fuss whatever, producing neither spectacular shots nor lucky ones, to reach the turn in the amazing total of just 31 strokes.

Long before any of the gallery—gathering professionals, save Walter Hagen, had started, Harry's 69 was up there on the board, and Harry had nothing to do, until today.

Hagen, though knocking bits and pieces off 70's in both the qualifying and a practice round, wasn't that sort of golfer yesterday, and his 35—42—77 shoved him well back, as far as these western golfers went, but, after all, only eight strokes off the pace.

If the outlook wasn't pleasant for the Hagen clan, consider the plight of the defending champion, Tommy Armour, whose 40—38—78 left him with close to 50 golfers of various shapes, sizes and races, between him and Hampton.

Following Gamber, the Detroiter came Al Watrous, another Detroiter with 37—34 71 and Bob Shave of Ohio 34—37 71.

Behind Watrous and Shave, came Wild Bill Mehlhorn, 34-38 72, Emerick Kocsis, another Detroiter 37—35—72, and Denny more Shute of Columbus, 36—36—72.

Farrell and Smith Have Cards of 74

Horton Smith and Johnny Farrell, toting the largest galleries of the day, came off the final green, with similar cards of 36—38—74, which were neither very good, nor very, very bad.

Of the celebrities, other than Hagen and Armour, who had their bad moments, there might be listed Jock Hutchinson, 38—42—80, Ward, Hutchinson, 37—41—78, and Tony Manero, 39—38—77.

Beside Smith and Farrell were the Englishman, Thomson, each with 38—36 74, and Laurie Ayton, 35—39—74.

And behind them were an awful lot of golfers, or maybe it should be phrased a lot of awful golfers.

Rosenbloom and Lomski in Draw

Hoquiam, Wash., Aug. 21 (AP)—Maxey Rosenbloom, New York light heavyweight champion, and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, fought eight rounds to a draw here tonight.

The fighters opened cautiously in the first round but Rosenbloom rocked Lomski repeatedly with left hooks to the head in the second and third rounds.

The seventh and eighth rounds were fairly even, with Lomski carrying the battle to the champion Rosenbloom, however, held his opponent off and was never in danger. Rosenbloom's title was not at stake.

Falmouth Winner Over Wareham, 6-4

Falmouth, Aug. 22—Falmouth scored six runs in the first inning to defeat Wareham, 6 to 4, in a Cape league game here yesterday. Whitley's spectacular catch of Fretas' long drive, followed by another from Sheehan featured the game.

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Aug. 22—I rather admire the candor of Mr. Brown Nicholson, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, of Macon, Ga., a good little town any way you take it. I used to train there with the Yanks, and come out in the pink of condition every spring.

Mr. Brown Nicholson has come out as flat-footed as Paolino Uzcudun with the declaration that somebody has got to pungle up a little "scratch" for the football boys, if not be anyone left to die for the football glory of dear old Mercer, the Baptist college in Macon, and practically retain the Red Sox baseball players.

What Mr. Nicholson means and in fact what he says is that unless money is forthcoming to pay the expenses of football players at Mercer, they will keep going to the University of Georgia, and to Georgia Tech, popularly known as "the Golden Tornado."

By the way, is this an insinuation that the expenses of football players are paid at Georgia and Georgia Tech? If so, I have an idea it will cause the hot southern blood of many loyal Georgians to boil, as we say in Brooklyn, quite heavily.

"There's no use beating around the bush," the voracious A. P. quotes Mr. Nicholson as saying. "If we don't pay the expenses of athletes at Mercer, they'll go elsewhere. We've got a good bunch lined up this fall, but we've got to pay their expenses. Think of what the loss of any game would mean turned loose in Macon during the fall, and that's what would happen if Mercer had a real football team."

NICHOLSON CANDID

Of course there will be much tut-tutting of Mr. Nicholson's statement, and perhaps some little pish-pishing. But the gentleman is delightfully candid, albeit a trifle blunt. I think he must be given credit as the first man to make public outcry for the financial support of college football players.

Of course, we all are aware that it has long been the custom in some colleges to make provision for the upkeep of the more adept footballers, but as a rule it is done as quietly as possible.

I would not be so uncouth and vulgar as to suggest that the players at Mercer are receiving more, but I believe I violate no confidence in stating that in certain educational spots, red and round, and a few in his fur pocket, now and then, have been placed at the disposal of young men who had the natural gift of tearing up opposing forwards, or kicking a football high, wide, and handsome.

It is one of those things, you understand, that we know, but do not speak of publicly, if we are ladies and gents. We refrain from discussing it, as we refrain from chatting about the small peccadilloes of a friend. I fear Mr. Nicholson is courting the reputation of a public crier.

BIG CROWDS HELP

Yet, as I say, I admire his candor, and his community spirit. If he sees the Mercer football games with an eye to the commercial advantage of Macon, he does no more than the booking agents of our largest colleges, who show a tendency nowadays to make up schedules that are distinctly designed to lift a little of the "nut," or overhead, on those big modern stadiums.

Only, of course, the booking agents are not so commercially minded as to speak of the matter in terms of trade. They make up schedules that may annihilate the boys physically before the season is over, but that are bound to produce large crowds, and fat gate receipts.

However I doubt that the schedule makers of the big colleges ever have the interests of the college heroes in mind when they are making up their schedules. The fact that New Haven, for example, must necessarily profit largely by a Yale schedule that brings in 50,000 visitors every week-end, would certainly never enter into the consideration of the Yale schedule makers.

But the fact that big crowds mean big returns toward standing off that ever increasing athletic overhead may get more than passing thought when the schedulers start on their list. I am not accusing Yale of commercial schedules. I am merely using it as an illustration. Perhaps I should have said Pennsylvania.

FINANCIAL AID O. K.

I suppose I have a crude attitude toward the matter, but football being what it is these times, I see no great harm in a college assisting a good athlete in his struggle for education, and tallies for his dear old alma mater.

If he is a chaste amateur on entering college, and not a tramp athlete, and is able to keep even on his studies while he is making end runs and field goals, why not give him a little boost? I know a number of chaps who hold degrees from very high toned colleges, but who wouldn't have reached first base educationally if it hadn't been for their football ability. They would have had to hustle up a job.

Don't tell me that the very suggestion is vulgar, because college alumni throughout the land not only canvass for football recruits for their A. Matters, but chip in toward the overhead on a particularly desirable footballer, if necessary.

I say there would be no material difference if a college publicly proclaimed a policy of bedding and boarding athletes who couldn't dig up the cash from their own.

I am sorry to say that I cannot agree with those who claim that football is over-emphasized, and over-commercialized. I hold that what they call over-emphasis has attracted more youngsters to colleges in the past 10 years, and made a college career more attractive to them, than any other influence ever produced.

If there is anything wrong with football, it is only the moshacks, and the nitwits who stand on the side lines and talk about over-commercialization and over-emphasis of the greatest, cleanest, and most exciting sport we have left.

SHUCCO AND ROBERTSON BATTLE

Complete Card at Revere Tonight

10 ROUNDS
Tony Shucco, North End, vs. Homer Robertson, South End.
EIGHT ROUNDS
George Delrose, Revere, vs. Emil Marquis, New Hampshire.
SIX ROUNDS
Orson Berard, Charlestown, vs. Phil Zeranko, South Boston
Johnny Bacon, Quincy, vs. George Perry, Revere
Young Janino, Revere, vs. Johnny Gallo, East Boston
First bout in ring at 8:15 p. m. Rain bout as near 10 o'clock as possible

By RINGSIDE

Tony Shucco, North End, eight heavyweight, will have Homer Robertson of the South End as an opponent in a 10-round bout at the Revere cycle track tonight.

Shucco, a youngster in the boxing game, will go to the post a favorite over his more experienced opponent. Tony ran up a long list of victories up to the time he dropped a close decision to Lou Scozza.

The North End boy boxed two rounds with Jack Sharkey as part of his training for his meeting with Robertson. Sharkey stated that he considers Shucco a promising prospect.

Robertson, a veteran campaigner, is has collided with every local middleweight and light heavyweight who would consent to meet him. He is of the opinion he will upset the dope tonight.

George Cotrow of Revere, national 112 pound amateur champion, will tackle Emil Marquis, flyweight champion of New Hampshire in the semi final of eight rounds.

In the six rounders, Carson Record, Charlestown, battles Paul Zeranky, South Boston, Johnny Bacon, Quincy, takes on George Perry, Revere, while Young Janino, Revere, will trade blows with Johnny Gallo, East Boston.

Appleton Captures E. Y. C. Singles Title

Julius Appleton of Boston ran through two sets easily when was forced to the limit in defeating Willard Post, Jr., 6—1, 6—2, 10—8, in the title match of the Eastern Yacht Club's men singles tennis tournament at Manchester yesterday.

Mrs. Herbert Jerna and her daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Welch, both of Boston, advanced into the final of the women's doubles tourney with a straight-set victory over Nancy Lavnes and Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Jr., of Boston, winning by 6—3, 6—4.

Miss Coffey in Final for N. H. Golf Crown

Dover, N. H., Aug. 22.—Helen Coffey of Nashua, medalist in the New Hampshire women's golf championship tournament, will be opposed in the final today by Ann Rollins of this city, the youngest member of the Women's Golf Association.

Miss Coffey eliminated her closest rival, Fayette Audette of Manchester, in today's semi-final by a score of 3 and 2, while Miss Rollins came through to the final with a 9 and 7 victory over Helen Childs of Manchester.

Pax Volo Second in Malone Race

Malone, N. Y., Aug 22—Joe Bing, from the Roaring Brook stables of Barton, Vt., won first money in the 2-11 pace, but the Boston horse, Pax Volo, from the Allan J. Wilson stables, took second money.

Carl Ortolan, a Canadian gelding, won first money in the 2 14 trot, but again a Boston horse, Bob Mayen, took second money. Both of Wilson's starters won their open ing heats but couldn't repeat.

PURITAN MALT
—it's different

To say that Puritan Malt is bigger and better is but stating a simple truth.

Better—because the famous "Controlled Temperature Process" and the finest barley and hops assure constant and uniform quality.

Bigger—because there is 10% more in every Puritan can than in most other brands.

N. E. Athletes in National Title Meet at Pittsburgh

WINNERS TO OPPOSE BRITISH

New England athletes, with the prospect of being selected for the international games with the British Empire team at Chicago next week hope to carry off victory in the national A. A. U. track and field athletic championships which begin today at Pittsburgh.

Black, the University of Maine hammer thrower, is regarded as the likely winner of that event

Donald Fleet is thought to be fast enough to win the quarter, although he must beat Reginald Bowen and other fliers

Jack Ryder, coach of the team selected after the New England title meet at Quincy last month, will direct the athletes in their quest for national crowns

He declared yesterday as the team boarded the train for Pittsburgh that it seemed the strongest that ever represented the provincial association

Eddie Tolan, Claude Bracey, George Simpson, Hector Dyer, Cy Leland and other world-renowned sprinters are entered in the 100 and 200-yard dashes.

George Lermond, who was graduated from West Point two months ago, will try to annex the mile crown won by his brother, Leo, last year.

Ray Conger and Gus Moore are in the mile race, but Leo will try to win the half-mile event

Chapman of Bates is one of the New England team and many regard him as the best half-miler in the world.

Ed Hamm, Sol Furth and other wonderful broad jumpers will make the competition in their specialty one long to be remembered. The broad jumpers at the I. C. 4 A. meet at the Harvard Stadium on May 21 were exceptional, but this promises even better and closer competition

California's great shot putters and discus throwers will exhibit their skill and stellar performances are expected in the pole vault, javelin and high jump.

Harris Meets Kraus in Vermont Finals

READY FOR 100 KILOMETER WHIRL

FRANZ DUELBERG, German rider, who will take part in 100-kilometer race at Revere tomorrow night.

GEORGE CHAPMAN, American hope in 100-kilometer race against a picked field.

100-KILOMETER RACE AT REVERE

Charley Ritter of Newark, former amateur sprint champion, will ride against Cecil Walker and Avenel Marconetti in a special sprint race at the Revere track tomorrow night

Walker is ending in the race for the first time held by Freddie Spencer, and abandoned by Freddie when he entered the motor paced tanks

In the 100 kilometer or 63½ mile race, six riders will start. Nat Butler had previously planned to use seven, but it will be a championship contest with the points counting for the title and he had to drop Debaets

The field that will lineup is now comprised of George Chapman, Frankie Keenan, Charley Jaeger, Franz Duelberg, Franco Georgetti and Al Letourneir

A tandem race with three teams and other races for both amateurs and pros will complete the card Al Crossley and Ralph Duffey, Leo Maggoli and Ralph Speers and Bob Cuthan and Frank Bartel are the teams in the tandem race

Guy Fletcher Trots to New Track Record

The former record was 2.07 Guy Fletcher set a world trotting record at Goshen, N. Y., recently, with a mark of 2.04½. He is owned by Congressman James S. Parker of Salem, N. Y. and was driven today by Lyman Brase

Martin Enters Final for Wianno Title

Osterville, Aug 22—In the most exciting match of the week for the Wianno Golf Club championship, Kenneth Martin, Jr., eliminated Donald MacKay on the 20th green in the semifinal round yesterday

The other finalist, Arthur Byxbee who played on the freshman team at the University of Pennsylvania last spring won easily from Hiram Barnard 7 and 6

Larry, or Harry as he is called in the underworld, one day had an eye replaced with a glass eye—perhaps to escape detection and identification. He then went up to a vegetable market and pretended to be looking over the vegetables. Suddenly he clapped hand to eye and exclaimed "Good gracious! I have lost my glass eye!"

"Oh, well," Harry (or Larry) finally exclaimed, "if you find it later I will give you $50 for it."

He then departed.

A few minutes later one of his confederates approached the vegetable dealer and said, "Give me a sack of vegetables."

As the tradesman turned to snatch a sack, the confederate exclaimed "Oh, oh! What's this?" I have just found a glass eye among the carrots, lettuce, etc."

The proprietor remembering that Larry or Harry had offered $50 reward for the glass eye pleaded and finally bargained and no word would lead to another until the poor vegetable man had given the confederate $25 for the glass eye thinking, of course, he would make $25 profit when Larry got the reward from Larry-Harry.

Judy Startled to See Tris Bowed in Deep Prayer at Notre Dame

CHAPTER 27

JUDY SAW Montreal with Kit Camp. As long as she lived the memory of the city was like a great jewel to be held in her hand. Turned to catch the light. A hundred facets gleaming, sometimes nacre, always bright.

She meant to go about by herself; to take the formidable pure books and make a schoolma'm tour gathering erudition and stiffening the pride which forbade her knuckling to Kit Camp's superiority.

But early in the morning she found herself rushing to the window as Peggy had done when they were leaving at Halifax. She pulled frocks out of the trunk, quivering over a white sports suit, choosing the almond green, putting it back for the white. She scrubbed at a spot on her white slipper, tangled her hair because her hands were so unsteady. Finally Peggy took the comb and arranged the dark waves over her ears.

Sparks Proud
To Take Judy Ashore

"It is the dark, mysterious suiton, hunh? Handsome chap—like the boy in the collar ads." "He's not going ashore."

"Really? Why, that's odd." Peggy saw the girl flush, distress flicker across her eyes. "Oh, it's just as well, perhaps—for you. A steady girl wears. Sparks, then? He'll be proud of you. Not a pretty girl aboard."

Peggy's eyes shone. The Judy Who stood before her, delicate and blushing and shy, was the daughter she always had wanted—softly feminine thing. Judy would forget her career now. Women should be wives. No mother but would wish this for her girl.

Yet, she must not interfere by so much as a word. She watched Judy pick up her little beaded handbag, returned her gay wave with a yearning tenderness. And then she made herself as lovely as she knew how, met Mr Tennent's radiant smile as he came to meet her.

"I really believe my spinster daughter has turned younger generation, Don. It took her a half hour to do her hair and then she wasn't satisfied."

The man's pinky face beamed. "Coming to her senses, is she? A charming girl, Miss Judy—and why not? Like mother like daughter. Now if you'll listen—"

"Oh, not yet . . . I can't be sure. You see, I've made up my mind that as long as she needs me . . . well, you must understand . . ."

He held her arm very tight as they went down the plank.

Judy, meanwhile, tripped along the companionway, graceful as a flower, face luminous with expectation. Different this was from Halifax, when she must watch everybody like away while she remained alone. Whatever held Tris—but she wouldn't think of that, wouldn't imagine things. Vacation romance—of course, that's all it was. She would go back to Lyell, walk down the hill mornings to the schoolhouse, and there would be left only a memory or two to dim and grow flat as time went on.

She gave her head a shake as if to toss away the regret she would feel on some gray day and smiled up at Kit Camp standing patiently by the rail.

"Didn't say I'd come, Saint Chris. You thought you had a date? But supposing I'm rushing away with someone else?"

"Not Spit-fire? Vixen?"

"You remembered? That's because you're fond of me, Judy, my dear. We quarrel with people we're fond of. Because we are fond of them."

"I'm to consider myself caressed if you happen to throw that fist against my chin? Oh, really?"

"Wait till I do."

They laughed and were gay. Ho selected the most resplendent taxi on the pier, settled Judy with care, told the driver to go here and there.

The city sensed a long procession of churches, beautiful homes, very green foliage, stately government buildings. Kit made the cab wait while a creaking old carriage drew them up Mt. Royal. From the gorgeous park at the summit they looked down upon Montreal stretched like a fairy city at their feet. Like St. Louis was a shimmering mirror toward the south and the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers, one yellow and the other blue, flowed side by side but did not mingle.

Seemed a Kid
Judy Thought of Kit

"There are people like that." Kit remarked solemnly. "Lives run side by side and never touch."

"You think of such things? I didn't know you so serious."

"You didn't credit me with deep thought, my dear?"

Red dyed her cheeks when ho tore her a rhinestone smile he wanted. He seemed such a kid—big, overgrown boy—yet he could be so tranquil. He seemed to rest even while he was moving; she never had known anyone so poised.

She wondered if it might be maddening sometimes, that settled quiet.

She wanted to see one of the great churches and he took her to Notre Dame. They entered the hush there, stood in the shadow, rapt before the beauty of the paintings, the high altar reared in the far dimness.

She felt the peace. A high and holy peace, which bore her up as on mounting wings above the little struggles and resentments and fears which tore at her spirit. Tears came springing to her eyes; light wavered in a shining mist. Then Kit's arm went around her firmly and he led her out of understanding. She felt the peace in him, the deep repose which she puzzled her "the is wonderful," she thought. "Wonderful."

Candles sent out little darting gleams before a shrine near by and Judy turned toward this. A man was kneeling at the end of the very last row of seats. His arms were crossed and his head was down on his arms. He did not move by so much as a breath, kneeling there as if lost in prayer, something heart-breakingly humble about his stooping shoulders.

Judy looked away. She felt stricken, as if all inadvertently she had stepped into the presence of a most sacred here. This man was Tris Millet. Tris with his head low, his body quietly upright, gone.

She caught Kit's arm, drew him away. Someone moved in the shadow. As the door swung back a ray of light fell across a face—piercing, close-set eyes, bird's beak of a long scar

What's in Fashion?

Good-Looking Suits for Men

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—Good time to be thinking about big business again. Labor Day may be a holiday—but the day after sees the majority of men back at their flat tops with notions only a memory.

What are you going to wear to impress those first fall customers? Something a little more formal, certainly, than the easy-going summer attire.

But not a bit less comfortable. Something that's going to make you look good—well set-up—ready for business.

You'll like the suits this fall. Especially the colors. Because the rich-looking medium and a liver grays are going to be popular. Oxford and dark grays, too. And most men can wear them all well. The new browns will be welcome to those who hanker for a change from summer's gray. They're not cinnamon or iron red . . . but good rich chocolate and tobacco shades. Blues, ranging from the always good navy to powder blues, and blue grays will put in a familiar appearance. All you have to do is pick the one that looks best on you.

Worsteds Returning

Fashionable fall materials are just warm enough without being heavy or uncomfortable. They're the kind that wear well, too.

Worsteds are returning to favor! Cheviots, Saxonies, some tweeds and the gorgeous ones all on the up.

You'll like the patterns, too. Stripes—which woven come in herringbone and two-tone designs—will prove a boon to men who can use the extra height and slenderness they give.

Plain and small weaves will be seen wherever well-dressed men gather. But plaids and checks will be in a small minority—limited mostly to men with large wardrobes.

Good Cut and Fit

And coat cuts are going to be pleased with the cut and fit of this fall's suits.

Good news to lots of men to know that the single-breasted suit will be a most profitable suit this autumn. With two buttons mostly. Three buttons on some. Slightly squared and padded shoulders . . . or natural shoulders . . . depending on which you like best—will both be good. As you expect, suits will be slightly fitted—a litter bit higher in the waist for the fall—to accentuate broad chests and chest and give you greater height.

Double-Breasted Suits

Sleeves taper to a neat, narrow cuff. Notch lapels will just nose out peak lapels.

The double-breasted suit coat will be more important this fall than it has been for a long time. Not quite as popular as the single-breasted coat, but very much in fashion just the same.

Six buttons, not high, fitted about the same as the single-breasted coat, with full lapels and a well-set collar—just about

Eighteen vests, single-breasted and cut moderately low at the neck, will be worn most. And trousers will have a full seat and knee, and room—but not too much—at the bottom. Most of them with cuffs and a few with pleats at the waist.

Yes, sir! You're going to like both fall suits. Because they're sensible and comfortable. And as good to look at as the contracts they'll help to land.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Daughters of Eve

FEMINISTS MAY come and feminists may go, girls may pose as hard-boiled and independent and all that, women may run motorcars and factories and governments.

But still, every woman wants to be somebody's "LITTLE GIRL!"

No matter whether she weighs 90 pounds or 190 pounds, she likes to feel that a man thinks of her tenderly and fondly as a "weak, helpless, little thing," or as the "dear little woman."

It always thrills a woman to be "protected," even when there is nothing but a mosquito or a sandfly to protect her from. It always delights her heart to be "taken care of," even when she could take care of herself in one hour of her strong, right arm!

The strongest, wisest, most capable woman I ever met ran a shop, a business office or a political campaign has her secret moments when she wants to "lean" on some man's broad shoulder and "cry it all out," and be "there, there, now"ed, and comforted and soothing baby-talk.

Life is awfully hard on a successful, efficient woman, who can earn her own living, check her own trunks, and do things for herself.

For as long as men suspect that a woman CAN take care of herself, they will let her DO it. Thus the woman with the big job, the big income, the strong hands and the brave smile never gets any petting or petting or waiting on. And she bitterly MISSES them!

What's the use of being the world's richest woman real estate operator, the world's most famous woman inventor or lawyer, the world's brightest woman writer, if you are NOBODY'S "Little Girl"? You may win all the laurels and get all the bouquets, but if you miss all the orange-blossoms, and all the cooings and the "there, there"s, you are missing all of life's sweetness.

Heart and Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

In Love With Same Boy

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My girl friend and I met two fellows about two months ago and we have been going with them ever since. They are very nice boys. My girl friend fell in love with the boy I'm not with. She says first I'm not with the same boy. We are not sure which boy is best. He is 19 and I am 17. My girl friend is 16. We would like advice about which one.

BRUNETTE AND BLONDE.
Dear Brunette and Blonde II,

seems to me there's a third party to the problem—the sterling silver single, as it were. What does the young man think, feel, or say? I certainly shouldn't calmly hand him over if he seems contented and satisfied. He was yours first, and you know "possession is 9 points of the law."

Has Flapper Mother

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a daughter of one of these flappe. no hats, it's girl my mother is almost 40 and looks over 20. She doesn't seem to understand that a girl 14 wants to be proud of her mother, but I'm not. I'm ashamed of her. She is for always with other men, receives gifts from them, drinks, etc. I told my mother about all this, and got a slap in the face. Can it be possible that a good lady in town is about what my mother? I never go out with my mother. She wouldn't let me. I have four other sisters besides myself and a small brother. Please give us some mother's advice.

DALPHINE E.

Dear Dalphine: Poor little d does. I met with I could gather a little real mothering. I can't write very sternly to the mother because I have sent room, but if you'll write again and send your full name and address, I'll send you a nice long letter. Or come in and see me any time. I'll be so glad to talk to you. Don't be too hard on your mother. Perhaps she didn't have a good time when she was 14, and she is trying to get it now.

Wait for Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Some of the most prominent people say that a girl of 16 is not ready for marriage. I am 16 and really love a young man with all my heart. Although I have many other friends I do not go out with them very often and do not go out at all as a sweetheart. I hope I may do except with that one fellow. Every male person I meet I find myself comparing them with the one I love. This young man has a very good position and is always sure of it. My parents approve of him highly but think I am far too young to be married. Personally I do not want to marry until I finish high school, anyway. I am willing to wait for me to be. Do you think I'm foolish to want to wait two years? I do hope you don't think I'm too young. If you do think I'm too young do not suspect to forget how I love him.

DESPERATE XYZ.

Dear Desperate: I don't agree with the "prominent authorities" that love at 16 is not true love. Love is probably truer at 16 than at 26. However, it certainly doesn't possess judgment or wisdom, without which love is a blind baby and gets his feelings wounded often and severely. Wait for your young man, by all means. Finish high school, learn as much as you can, and equip yourself for wifehood and motherhood.

(Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers' questions regarding love problems which may be troubling them. Write on one side of the paper only.)

Miracle of Love Changes Dullest Existence

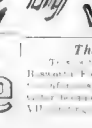
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HAS THE miracle happened in your life?

But perhaps even though you are young and happy, you haven't known that an actual miracle was waiting for you.

Perhaps you haven't realized the plain, solid fact that you are falling sincerely in love with a fine, just the right person, the dullest existence becomes tinged with the radiance of Paradise.

Until I prove this to you?



Beatrice Fairfax

It will only be necessary to quote from the delightful letter this young man of 30 has just written to me. He's not an especially romantic person, but even he should say that his feet are pressed firmly on the ground of fact. It is only that the precious miracle of love has just declared itself to him.

"I have never been a girl hater," he confides, "but I have known very few girls of the kind I admire most. Recently, it became necessary for me to have an assistant in my work. I did not want a girl assistant, but I got one anyway. She has turned out to be my ideal of what a real girl should be. Sweet, calm, not a gold-digger, does not smoke or drink, likes walking and music. In other words, a 100 per-center.

"She allowed me to take her out one evening, after I had met her parents (which I will say delighted me) and has given me another evening that was heavenly yet.

"I've always been able to handle, on jobs, anywhere from 10 to 1000 men—but here I'm somewhat stumped. I'm not shy, but fearful of being too much in a hurry to suit her. She isn't one that can be swept off her feet, if necessary, I'd wait three years for her, but I'd rather not. Shall I propose immediately or put on the brakes? I have a hunch I'd better wait.

"Remember this, I have never met a girl in my life such as she, and I'm willing to fight for her, if there already put one man out of my office for not holding his tongue).

"Another thing is that for the first time in my life I've met someone that I feel is better than myself, and I'm a little bewildered.

"Will you give me some assistance in fix the bewilderment?"

"I failed to meeting she has red hair?

Doesn't this tell a wonderful ...

A man who has been successful in his work to be believes himself more than a match for anybody he may encounters a sweet red-haired girl and all of a sudden becomes ... perplexed.

A life that he thought was full, complete, satisfactory, now seems to him the merest husk because it doesn't contain the one lovely creature who has magically inspired ...

And what I am especially calling to attention is to that love has ... happy. It ... being a different person. ... just ... ordinary ... mind my saying so, he was cocksure. Now he is modest, and, as he says, "bewildered."

Before he looked on all girls with a cool, indifferent eye. Now, at the ... sight of one ... he contemplates with rapture.

Before, he prided himself on ... Now ... that ... ordinary ... Before he ... that ... powerful ... Now ... that ... Before he ... that ... Now ... that ... Before he ... that ... Now ... that ... Before he ... that

Drouth Fears in South Found Exaggerated

Cotton Damaged Less Than Other Crops, Says Banker

—By M. S. Rukeyser—

New York, Aug 22—A bird view into economic conditions in the [illegible] is presented in this column by Oscar Newton, of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta.

"Crops in the sixth district," Mr. Newton pointed out, "have been adversely affected, to some extent, by the drouth. The damage from this has been much less in Georgia and Florida than in the other four States — Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

"However, the main cash crop of this section—cotton, is more of a hot and dry weather crop than crops and other crops, and the damage to cotton has not, therefore, been as serious as to other crops. The latest estimate by the Department of Agriculture of the cotton crops in these states show an average decline of 11 per cent, compared with last year's crop. The cotton crop in Florida, a comparatively unimportant State in cotton production, is estimated at the same as last year, and in Georgia the decrease is only two-tenths of 1 per cent. In Tennessee a decrease of 10 per cent is estimated, in Alabama a decrease of 16.5 per cent and in Mississippi and Louisiana decreases of 15 per cent and 22 per cent, respectively. Farts of Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana are in other Federal Reserve districts, and the figures above are for the whole States.

"Other crops have not withstood the drouth so well, but it is about three weeks late. On a larger acreage than last year, the estimated production of rice is about 16 per cent greater than a year ago. Corn acreage in Louisiana is 10 per cent greater than last year, but the crop is estimated at about one-third smaller. Corn in Mississippi, on an acreage practically the same as last year, is estimated at about 25 per cent less than last year's crop, and corn in Tennessee is estimated at about 16 per cent less than the 1929 crop.

"The chief money crop of this section, cotton, is now being picked in the southern part of the belt and will come to market between now and the middle or last of November. The tobacco crop in Georgia is now being marketed at average prices below those of last year. Weather conditions during the remainder of the cotton season will affect the price received by farmers.

"I believe that the operations of the Federal Farm Board in this district have been beneficial and should be continued."

F T Graham, secretary Standard Oil of Indiana writes in a column:

"The outlook for the oil industry for the second half of the year is uncertain, but not without encouraging features. If the betterment in general conditions, which financiers are predicting for the autumn months, materializes, there should be a continuing large consumption of petroleum products for motoring purposes and better industrial consumption. Stability of the industry will remain dependent on pro-rating of crude production and strict limitation of refinery operations to keep pace with the current demand of crude runs. These conditions should be possible of continuance.

"Measures already taken with respect to limitation of production and manufacturing are the essential requisites for wise conservation. Scientific discoveries already made and to be expected will also contribute to extension of the life of known supplies of crude petroleum. Nevertheless, there remains the danger of ultimate oil shortage. So far as our knowledge goes, now, oil resources are of exhaustible character. Estimates vary greatly as to how long they will last. Additional discoveries may later change the outlook, but it behooves the industry and the country meanwhile to use petroleum resources wisely and with caution."

$55,000,000 Taken in Insurance Plan

With completion of a canvas of employes, Associated Gas & Electric System announced that under its offer of group and straight life insurance on a basis whereby cost of insurance is contributed partly by the corporation and partly by employes insured, through a portion of monthly salaries, approximately $55,000,000 of such insurance has been subscribed.

Approximately 50 per cent of the insurance is under a group policy, the balance being "straight" life insurance. Pending final step in obtaining policies involved, the corporation has made temporary coverage at its own expense. Although this has been in effect less than a week, there already have been beneficiaries as result of accident.

NEW HOLIDAYS ARE GETTING NUMEROUS

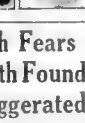
By FRANK H. MELOON

New holidays are getting numerous. Armistice Day is a comparatively recent comer in Massachusetts. Compilations at the Boston Chamber of Commerce show that a partial holiday is in order in some part of New England every day in the week except Friday. And perhaps that has been added in the last once we looked over. The New York and Boston Stock Exchanges add the Saturday before Labor Day.



Major Curley plans to have Benjamin A. Franklin, Sept. 17 a holiday in commemoration of the 175th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin. Two representatives will be sent from Massachusetts to the celebration in Philadelphia.

Florida than in the other four States — Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

"However, the main cash crop of this section—cotton, is more of a hot and dry weather crop than crops and other crops, and the damage to cotton has not, therefore, been as serious as to other crops. The latest estimate by the Department of Agriculture of the cotton crops in these states show an average decline of 11 per cent, compared with last year's crop. The cotton crop in Florida, a comparatively unimportant State in cotton production, is estimated at the same as last year, and in Georgia the decrease is only two-tenths of 1 per cent. In Tennessee a decrease of 10 per cent is estimated, in Alabama a decrease of 16.5 per cent and in Mississippi and Louisiana decreases of 15 per cent and 22 per cent, respectively. Farts of Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana are in other Federal Reserve districts, and the figures above are for the whole States.

"Other crops have not withstood the drouth so well, but it is about three weeks late. On a larger acreage than last year, the estimated production of rice is about 16 per cent greater than a year ago. Corn acreage in Louisiana is 10 per cent greater than last year, but the crop is estimated at about one-third smaller. Corn in Mississippi, on an acreage practically the same as last year, is estimated at about 25 per cent less than last year's crop, and corn in Tennessee is estimated at about 16 per cent less than the 1929 crop.

"The chief money crop of this section, cotton, is now being picked in the southern part of the belt and will come to market between now and the middle or last of November. The tobacco crop in Georgia is now being marketed at average prices below those of last year. Weather conditions during the remainder of the cotton season will affect the price received by farmers.

"I believe that the operations of the Federal Farm Board in this district have been beneficial and should be continued."

F T Graham, secretary Standard Oil of Indiana writes in a column:

"The outlook for the oil industry for the second half of the year is uncertain, but not without encouraging features. If the betterment in general conditions, which financiers are predicting for the autumn months, materializes, there should be a continuing large consumption of petroleum products for motoring purposes and better industrial consumption. Stability of the industry will remain dependent on pro-rating of crude production and strict limitation of refinery operations to keep pace with the current demand of crude runs. These conditions should be possible of continuance.

"Measures already taken with respect to limitation of production and manufacturing are the essential requisites for wise conservation. Scientific discoveries already made and to be expected will also contribute to extension of the life of known supplies of crude petroleum. Nevertheless, there remains the danger of ultimate oil shortage. So far as our knowledge goes, now, oil resources are of exhaustible character. Estimates vary greatly as to how long they will last. Additional discoveries may later change the outlook, but it behooves the industry and the country meanwhile to use petroleum resources wisely and with caution."

$55,000,000 Taken in Insurance Plan

With completion of a canvas of employes, Associated Gas & Electric System announced that under its offer of group and straight life insurance on a basis whereby cost of insurance is contributed partly by the corporation and partly by employes insured, through a portion of monthly salaries, approximately $55,000,000 of such insurance has been subscribed.

Approximately 50 per cent of the insurance is under a group policy, the balance being "straight" life insurance. Pending final step in obtaining policies involved, the corporation has made temporary coverage at its own expense. Although this has been in effect less than a week, there already have been beneficiaries as result of accident.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

At least two of those recently most active on the bear side recently have turned on the market but other active professionals hold to their short commitments.

They will renew heavier pressure in the near future but whatever reaction results is likely to reveal a better volume of demand under the market than met with on previous setbacks, according to belief widely held in Wall Street.

Bank Economist Tells of Upturn

Economist for an important banking institution before taking his summer vacation is understood to have prepared a confidential memorandum for the exclusive use of officers of the bank showing a mild upturn is under way in general business. He is reported as expressing the belief that the impairment may continue the remainder of 1930.

Aero Exhibit on Aircraft Is Active

B. & O. Dividend Cut Is Rumored

Rumor has it that Baltimore & Ohio common will go back on a $5 dividend basis before the end of this year or early in 1931, against $7 now paid.

Shell's Cut Blow to Royal Dutch

Omission of the Shell Union Oil dividend is likely to cut deeply into "other income" of Royal Dutch, which owns approximately 63 per cent of the outstanding common.

Standard Brands' Dividend Outlook

Continued heaviness in Standard Brands has revived doubt concerning maintenance of the $1.50 dividend rate. Officials are disinclined to forecast the outlook, particularly in view of the fact that first half-year income equalled only 37 cents a share, against 75 cent requirements. It is considered likely that dividend will be raised entirely by results of the second half of the year.

Nickel Support Still Evident

Recent firmness in International Nickel confirmed opinion that every effort is being made to encourage subscriptions by the stockholders to the new stock.

Foreign Power as Utility Pet

American & Foreign Power is the favorite stock of the Electric Bond & Share interests, a fact verified by the latter's enormous proportionate investment in Foreign Power.

Long-Pull Buying of Kroger Grocery

Maintained firmness in Kroger Grocery reflects persistent demand of a long-term character, attracted by prospects the new management will revive earning power.

Bethlehem Steel Dividend Yield

High yield on Bethlehem Steel naturally causes talk as to safety of the dividend. Directors of this company hesitated for several years to make any common distribution and inaugurated payments only when certain it could be maintained through any short-lived depression.

American Tobacco Is a Favorite

Refractories to Enjoy Activity

Difficulty is experienced in maintaining activity and strength in General Refractories, although more active sponsorship is evident. This company enjoys its largest business during periods of depression in the steel mills.

Strong Buying of Drug, Inc.

Recent demand for Drug, Inc., stock is attributed to some of the most active interests in the market, who were attracted by the stock's bright prospects for an enlarged dividend.

Drug, Inc., Doing Well

Drug, Inc., has done well this year. For the first half $3.01 a share was reported, compared with the $2 a share dividend paid in that period. Normally, the company does between 55 per cent and 60 per cent of its total business in the final six months of the year. With such an increase probable, there is continued talk that Drug is one of the leading candidates for a larger dividend payment.

Worthington Pump's Technical Position

Worthington Pump is believed to be in a strong technical position. There is a good-sized short interest in the stock. This, coupled with the floating supply, may be responsible for some shrewd buying in the issue. Evidence of accumulation against the short position could bring about quite an active covering movement with offerings less liberal during the buying.

New Group in United Aircraft

Intimations have been heard that a new group is in process of formation in United Aircraft and that members of the pool will include some of those interests who were active in Vanadium some time ago. There is no confirmation for these statements. Part of the buying which came into Aircraft recently is attributed to the belief that some favorable news may follow the opening of bids on mail routes by the government next Monday.

Fall Should Help Amusement Shares

Listed amusement shares have not been very attractive to outsiders for some time because of the many stories about reduced attendance in the theaters, etc. What activity came into the stocks was for the account of professionals who have always operated in the issues. There is some talk now that the market for these issues may be benefited in the next few weeks by prospects of larger attendance after the vacation season. This would be a normal development.

CURB MARKET TREND KEEPS CHANGING

New York, Aug. 22 (AP)—Trading on the curb was a desultory affair today, and the trend changed several times. A heavy undertone prevailed which affected nearly the entire list.

Half hearted reports were made by traders to stir the market from the lethargy with which securities and prices followed a narrow groove for the most part.

The market was very dull at the approach of the week end and the tape was idle about half the time. Utilities were little changes, with the exception of Electric Bond and Share. The stock several times changed its trend under alternate flurries of buying and selling. Efforts to send it lower were received in a cool fashion below the previous close, and firmed toward midday.

Brazilian Traction and Duke Power were easy. The rest of the utility group fluctuated narrowly.

Strength of Mead Johnson was a feature of the industrial group and it spurted about 2 points on the movement. Transux which is reported to have been taken in hand by a prominent trader who is managing a pool was active and firm. A. O. Smith dropped several points on thin sales.

Oil stocks were little traded. Gulf Oil worked lower. Standard Oil of Kentucky was active and held steady with the rest of the group.

R. C. Tripp on Cuba Railroad Boards

Roswell C. Tripp, of Potter & Co., was elected a director of the Consolidated Railroads of Cuba and the Cuba Railroad Co. to fill a vacancy on the boards created by the death of Guy W. Currier. Mr. Tripp was also appointed a member of the board of voting trustees of common stock of the Consolidated Railroads.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, payable October 1 to holders of record September 10.

Bond Market Rail Liens Are Mixed

New York, Aug. 22—The bond market displayed a firm undertone today. Buying was of a highly selective character. Realising on recent gains induced some irregularity, especially in the railroad group which has recently advanced rapidly. New bond offerings during the week totaled $28,539,500, compared with $300,787,000 last week and $56,515,000 in the like week last year.

Reading's Order for Westinghouse

Philadelphia, Aug. 22—Another step in the $200,000,000 electrification program of Reading is reflected in its order to Westinghouse Electric for supervisory control and switchboard equipment for seven power substations and 14 intermediate stations to supply current to the six-car electrified zone.

Reading system of power distribution is one of the most comprehensive under a single "supervisory control," yet designed

INSURANCE

Life Risk Sales Set a High Mark. Seen as a Blessing by Conservative. New Kind of Policy Is Advertised. Provides Payment of Monthly Income.

By FRANK P. LOOMIS

The big news of the year so far in the triumphant way in which life insurance is riding the crest despite the restless, disturbed business situation. The record of the increases is a veritable battle-cry of victory. No longer need life insurance salesmen fear the bad effect of doubtful years for 1929 is giving permanent evidence that life insurance can be sold, good and bad times alike.

Men of affairs have witnessed in the past few years a great change. They have seen fortunes come and go; have seen men climb high on the strength of speculative increases and have seen them wiped out. The public is in no mood for anything save the safest and most conservative of personal financial plans—and that means life insurance. Life insurance is the greatest blessing the conservative man has—and most of us are mighty conservative right now.

Life insurance companies are advertising and training their salesmen in presenting a life insurance program to the public where the policy will provide a monthly income for their families, in case of death, rather than the principal to be paid in a lump sum, and also provide that in case the insured is alive at age 65, he will personally receive a monthly income not only sufficient for his own needs but for those of his family if they survive him.

The following statistics, while not new, are very interesting: 15,000 persons over 65 years of age, interviewed by the industrial welfare department of the National Civic Federation showed that: 29.6 per cent owned no property, 8.6 per cent owned $1 to $499, 5.1 per cent owned $500 to $999, 9.2 per cent owned $1000 to $2999, 9.2 per cent owned $3000 to $4999, 10.6 per cent owned $5000 to $7499, 6.1 per cent owned $7500 to $9999, 12.6 per cent owned $10,000 or over. It was also found that 40.3 per cent had income under $1000 a year, 24 per cent of $1000 to $1999, 16.5 per cent of $2000 or over, 19.2 per cent had no annual income. The insurance carried by the men interviewed: One out of 100 had $10,000 or more, 21 out of 100 had $5000 or more, 45 out of 100 had no life insurance.

It is possible now to purchase a life insurance policy that in case of death, at any time, will pay the family $200 a month as long as the wife or beneficiary may live. At the same time, should the insured be alive at age 65, it will pay him $200 a month as long as he may live beyond that time and also provide to continue that income to his family for a certain period after his death. Such a contract provides absolutely for a monthly income in any event to his family, in case of death at any time, and most important, to the insured himself after reaching the age of 65.

There were 325,000 applications made for life insurance last year, totaling one billion three hundred and twenty million dollars, which were rejected by the companies as uninsurable risks, not being able to pass the required medical examinations, yet there was 64 million eight hundred thousand dollars paid by the life insurance companies in the United States on policies which had been in force for less than one year.

These figures show how important it is not to delay in applying for life insurance while you know your health will permit it.

And a word to young men: Buy insurance now—not too much, but what you can afford! You cannot afford to carry the risk on your property, and you cannot afford to risk leaving your dependents—perhaps a wife and children—unprovided for. There are few sights more pitiable than a loss woman with little children and no support.

AYRES LOOKS FOR UPSWING

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker and noted business prophet, believes the United States is about to experience an upswing in business.

"The depression of 1920-1930 was a mild depression and consequently lasted longer than the purely natural depressions of 1924 and 1927, he said.

Giving his reasons for predicting improvement in business he said:

"Farmers and merchants have been getting rid of their surpluses and families have been getting rid of their debts. Meanwhile we have not been producing on as large a scale. We are manufacturing shortages. In good times we manufacture surpluses and it is surpluses that bring depressions.

"In the first five months of this year we produced only about the same as we did in the first five months of 1925, yet the population has increased by seven millions and continuing standards have advanced.

"With production lowered to the rate of five years ago, and consumption higher, it will be seen that we cannot have much further to go to produce the shortage which will send us all back to work again."

BOSTON'S WOOL MARKET FIRM

Boston's wool market is having a fair volume of business with prices holding firm, says Bradstreet's weekly summary of local trade conditions. Western grown wools of the finer grade have been the most active. Worsted mills are still more or less optimistic as sales are regarded as profitable wherein for several years business has been generally unprofitable.

"Business among the dress goods and men's furnishings jobbers remains quiet," report said. "Men's clothing is also quiet. Retail and cloak jobbers and manufacturers report a slightly increased activity due to fall openings.

"The candy business continues of only fair volume. In addition to the usual hot weather dullness, New England candy manufacturers report the finer grades of chocolates have been feeling the effect of the five and ten-cent bar confections produced outside of New England and sold nationally. In spite of reduced volume, manufacturers report net profits are holding up due to reduction in price of raw material, while the price of the finished product is held at former levels, it said.

"Leather markets are quiet and some pressure has been brought to bear on prices by larger buyers. There has been but small price change and tanners are operating cautiously keeping stocks as liquid as possible.

"Shoe production for fall buying has been restricted in most centers and is considerably less than expected at this time. Shoe wholesalers and retailers report business as quiet. General optimism in the wholesale jewelry business for the year to date is 30 per cent less than last year at this time and the retail end of the busines is 25 per cent less."

Silk Consumption Over 1925-29 Average

The consumption of raw silk by American mills during the first half of 1930 is compared with the corresponding figures for the past nine years. Nearly all of it is imported from China and Japan. The figures represent bales, the average weight of which is 133 pounds. Source: Silk Association of America.

The consumption of raw silk by the silk goods industry of the United States during the first half of 1930 was slightly higher than the average consumption during the five years from 1925 through 1929. The drop of 11% this year is attributed almost wholly to the tremendous over-production of silk goods during 1929.

Westinghouse Gets Utility's Order

Montreal, Aug 22—Canadian Westinghouse has obtained order for seven high-voltage transformers for Beauharnois Power Corp's power house, to step up voltage for transmission to Montreal Power and Ontario Hyd Electric Unit total 250,000 horsepower capacity. Before the plant reaches 500,000 horsepower capacity the corporation will order eight more such transformers.

Within a week Beauharnois Corp has spent $1,800,000 for equipment with Canadian firms. During the next few months many companies will share in further orders. The corporation has also let purchase concrete and brick for the new plants. About 3,000,000 bricks will be used. Other orders include switching equipment, air compressors, exciters, pumps, pipes, conduits, castings, steel tiles, and steel sash, door and window frames.

New Financing to Show Small Volume

New financing in September is expected to show small volume. Corporate bonds and notes falling due in September aggregate $72,422,020, compared with $68,827,950 in August and $33,856,180 in September last year. Most of the issues falling due already have been provided for, so that little or no new financing is necessary.

Tobacco and Amusement Issues in Special Favor

By THE WALL STREET SPECTATOR

The recent action of this stock indicates a return of active market sponsorship, predicated on the belief that it is selling out of line with other tobacco companies. The cigarette industry is one of the few able to maintain a steady upward growth over the last quarter of a century, and as one of the leading factors in this field, Liggett & Myers has participated in the advance.

Interim earnings have not been published, but unofficial estimates place the full year's showing for this year at about $8.50 per share. This compares with the previous high mark in earnings in 1929 when net was equal to $7.82 per share. The annual dividend rate of $4 regularly in addition to an extra of $3.40 affords a return of slightly more than 5 per cent at prevailing levels.

Amusement Stocks

The better grade amusement stocks have been in the market limelight in recent sessions, with activity based on the expected seasonal improvement in theater attendance and earnings, usual in the fall. Should the present betterment in trading sentiment result in a return of more active public participation, this section of the list would probably respond most buoyantly.

The stocks of the leading interests such as Loew's and Paramount, are quoted at levels substantially below their highs for the year. Dividend yields on both are attractive and adequately covered by current earnings. In the more speculative class, Radio-Keith-Orpheum and Fox Film appear to hold out more than average possibilities for the patient holder.

National Dairy Products

As one of the outstanding buys in the current market, in the mind of a widely known prognosticator, more active demand has been evidenced in the stock of late. Net earnings for the first six months were equal to $2.16 per share as compared with $1.85 in the like period of last year. Based on $2 cash dividend and stock extras the issue affords an attractive return.

Quincy Mining Co., New Bedford, omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago a dividend of $1 was declared.

The consolidated statement of the New England Power Association and subsidiaries for July shows a balance for reserves and common dividends of $346,963. This is an increase of approximately two per cent over July 1929, in which the corresponding figure was $340,477. This gain of 1.9 per cent was realized in the face of a 9 per cent decrease in total kilowatt hour production and a drop of 2.8 in the kilowatt peak for the month.

The grand total production during the month was 127,751,303 as compared with 122,239 in July a year ago. This sharp reduction was brought about primarily by decreased industrial takings, due to business conditions.

The earnings statement for both the seven-month and twelve-month periods ending July 31 shows steady gains, but since the beginning of the summer there has been a substantial reduction in kilowatt hour production.

Vacuum Oil Acts to Acquire Oil

Milwaukee special says negotiations for purchase of Wadham Oil Corp. by Vacuum Oil Co. are in progress. Gross income of Wadham Oil year amounted to $12,000,000 and corporation has capitalization of 1,600,000 shares of common stock. Holton, secretary of Vacuum Oil Co., confirmed fact that negotiations were in process, but stated no formal announcement of details would be made at this time. Purchase of Wadham would fall in line with company's policy of extending its market facilities in territories where it is not already well represented and assuring outlets for sale of gasoline and lubricating oils.

Big Pipe Order Given Youngstown

Chicago, Aug. 22—Central Public Service Corp. placed an order for 35,000 tons of 16-inch electric welded pipe with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Corp. It involves over $2,500,000, and to carry the 200-mile natural gas pipe line from eastern Kentucky to central Indiana to serve industrial consumers.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

TOBACCO SHARES LEAD IN ADVANCE OF STOCKS

New York, Aug. 22—Tobacco shares led an upswing in prices on the New York Stock Exchange today after another drive by the bears had died against a stone wall of speculative apathy.

Bull forces resumed operations in the tobacco merchandising shares on the basis of favorable cigarette consumption statistics for July, and expectations of a seasonal gain in retail trade.

NEW LOWS ARE SET

During the morning, bears depressed some of the Coppers, Rails and Specialties to new low levels. Pivotal Industrials were generally firm.

The upturn in the tobaccos and merchandising shares rapidly spread to other sections of the list, and industrials and specialties generally made substantial progress in light trading.

Such issues as U. S. Steel, General Motors, United Aircraft, General Electric, American Telephone and American Can gained a point or more.

Shares soon selling up 2 in 5 included Vanadium, Byers, Foster Wheeler, Eastman Kodak, Autostrop, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, International Business Machines.

Several of the American Tobacco issues rose 3 to 5 and the new shares reaching new highs, Kenneott, Anaconda, Warner Bros., Baltimore & Ohio and Illinois Central sagged 1 to 2 in new lows in the morning, and Goodyear was heavy.

The closing tone was firm.

Filing of a petition for a receiver for Warner Bros. by a Boston man, charging mismanagement, tended to stifle speculative enthusiasm, although the stock broke only a couple of points, and then rallied.

It was learned from sources close to the company's bankers that the additional financing for the company will go through on schedule, and that its financial condition is sound. Bankers are planning to take up any of the 100,000 shares ascribed for by stockholders, but the market price has been held substantially above the offering price.

FILM STOCKS HOLD

Other motion picture stocks held up fairly well. Radio-Keith, in which vigorous speculation for the rise has appeared recently, held firm. None ton satisfactory earnings are expected for the third motion picture concerns for the quarter, but trade reports indicate that under weather has helped theater attendance already, and substantial seasonal improvement is expected in the autumn.

Consolidation of the corporation news was announcement of the halving of the 2 dividend rate by Goodyear in a brief statement by the management, however, indicated that the conservation of cash was for this purpose of continuing an aggressive merchandising policy, including liberal advertising expenditures.

Support for pivotal shares appeared to reflect the growing conviction in speculative quarters that the tide was actually turned or is about to turn in business. Expectations for the near future, however, remain conservative.

The more prominent banking interests are said to be willing to let the stock market drift, so long as it remains relatively stable. They fear that a further reduction of $7,000,000 in broker loans was reported for the latest week, a week of rising prices. Was interpreted as indicating that stocks generally remain in strong hands.

The monthly business review by Moody's, making its appearance today, said that owing to the drouth, the autumn business revival may not reach its full extent before October.

There was little change in credit, call loans renewing at 2 per cent.

BULLS DISAPPOINTED.

Dullness and uncertainty marked the course of the market today, as week-end profit-taking flowed into the market simultaneously with the execution of a number of unsettling factors.

The railroad stocks slump was in anticipation of an unfavorable decision in the July rate earnings, the list as a whole dipping close to the year's lowest levels.

The failure to "bolster the public in" has been somewhat discouraging to the big bulls, but this is as a rule one of the most inactive periods of the year.

Neisner Reports Factories Reopen

New York, Aug. 22—President A. H. Neisner of Neisner Bros, Inc. says:

"We find in cities where our stores are located many factories now working that were idle the first part of the year. Profits in the chain-store business in the first six months are a small part of the total for the year, due to the fact that a large increase in sales during the latter part of the year reduces our cost of doing business.

"During the first six months of 1930 we have taken additional mark-offs on merchandise of approximately $100,000, meeting each time new price that the market offered.

"Business is progressing favorably."

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, Aug. 22—Grains closed generally higher today. September wheat was under pressure late and finished ½c lower. Other wheat futures were ¼c up. Corn was up ¼ to ⅝c and oats ¼ to 1¼c. Rye finished 2 to 2¾c higher.

Wellesley Notes

Only Votes Count

If You're Against Prohibition, Vote for Pledged Candidates

For 10 years prohibition has been the most popular topic of conversation. Daily the recognition of its fallacies has widened. It has been made the butt of countless jokes, the subject of countless speeches, the hub around which home, club and street conversation revolves. But in the face of talk it has continued its machine-gun, palm-greasing way, enriching dishonest men, increasing crime, discontent, death rates—and drinking.

Mere words will not end its ugly paradox.

The names of competent candidates for public office, pledged in opposition to prohibition, will appear on the ballot at the state primaries next month. Fix their names on your mind and vote for them, both at the primary and at the election. Vote for those with courage and honesty enough to state their position on every issue.

You can talk until you're black in the face, but as long as you vote for prohibitionists and fence straddlers you'll still have prohibition. If you are an anti-prohibitionist be sure you are registered, then vote as you talk. That is the one way to end prohibition.

Anti-prohibitionists can learn a lesson from the prohibitionists. The latter not only talk dry, but they vote dry.

Which is something the anti-prohibitionists forget all about on primary days and election days—judging from the volume of talk and comparatively small total of votes.

The Same Old Racket

In the Same Old Way

Evidence brought out before Assistant Attorney-General Groat in New York on the price of milk, eggs and a few other things confirms what everybody knew before. That is, that the drouth had little or nothing to do with the rise in prices, but merely was an excuse for middlemen and racketeers to make a quick cleanup.

Profiteering in fruits and vegetables was promptly checked by the publicity given to the profiteers by newspapers acting in conjunction with the Department of Health and the Department of Markets. It is quite possible now to buy fruits and vegetables there at fair prices, and frequently at prices lower than a year ago.

The refusal of consumers to be plundered has been a sad blow to profiteers in these commodities.

The War in 19 Words

Marshal Joffre Attempts It

Marshal Joffre summed up the World War in nineteen words the other day, thus beating by several hundred the record of Calvin Coolidge for brevity as a historian.

The marshal said:

"A people once dreamed of establishing world hegemony. France ruined their project. And this was done at the Marne."

Compact and to the point. The marshal might have cut it still shorter, but as a statement of the French point of view, it covers the ground.

The rest of the Allies may not, however, agree with it completely. The project was ruined several times—first of all, perhaps, by the British fleet in the early days of August, 1914, later by Admiral von Tirpitz, who helped to get America into the war by his submarine campaign, and still later by the Marines and the M. P.'s. Marshal Joffre mentions none of these.

He can be pardoned for omitting the British and Tirpitz, but hardly for leaving out the Marines. As for the M. P.'s, if it had not been for them we might not have known that there was a war.

New York Bans Whistles

Too Many Horns

Police Commissioner Mulrooney of New York has hushed the traffic officer's whistle, and the noise-harassed city is correspondingly grateful. The Commissioner, it is true, says he was not thinking about the noise aspect of it when he gave his order—he merely believes that traffic can be handled better by gestures as is largely done in Greater Boston. But, whatever the reason, it is a great relief to the eardrums.

The cause of silence would be further advanced everywhere if motorists could be persuaded to leave their horns alone when they are caught in a temporary jam. We challenge anybody to show a single case in which traffic has been moved by honking. And even if such a case could be proved, we should still doubt it.

Where's Madagascar?

And Why?

Police in Philadelphia, forced to submit to an intelligence test, have protested against the catch questions contained in it. They had to name the States along the Mexican border, locate Madagascar or Mozambique, and describe the source of the River Nile.

One cop, who failed to pass, asks the examiners what the big idea is. He has been on traffic duty quite a while now, but no motorist or pedestrian ever came to him for directions to the Mexican border, or Madagascar, or Mozambique, or the Nile. And if they did, he says, he would know what to do with them.

Others will share the perplexity of this puzzled policeman. What on earth have these questions got to do with policing. And, if so, why?

It seems to us the aggrieved bluecoat shows considerably more intelligence in protesting against the test than his examiners did in putting it. We hope he meets them in traffic sometime, and they ask him the shortest way to Madagascar.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY -:- By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of names such as Mort Cobb, Delbert Clum, Lonnie Delk and Flint Sprader? The glad boys who thump you and cry "Cheerio!" How many remember George Fitch's Siwash stories? That bored serenity of white wolf hounds.

Frank W. Crowninshield, a Paris, France, boy, who made good in the city. Landscape contractors. Motor boat salons. Aeroplane ateliers. Samuel Untermyer who charges $12,000 a day for legal services. And gets it. Zebra striped shoes. Julian Street and his son.

Will H. Hays dashing into Ritz Tower. British shops with the pick of Piccadilly clerks, featuring pipes, tobacco, pewter, humidors, walking sticks and lighters. A priest stops to talk to a legless beggar. Those fat, derbied men around a Magistrate's court.

Boys with berets and Eton collars. And varnished hoops. Nursemaids who would give Ziegfeld a start. You have to go to Brooklyn to see a baby carriage. Neat grandpas who take grandchildren for a stroll. The shop that sells celluloid ties and collars to Park ave. butlers.

Girls who achieve that Katharine Cornell chalk-white. And sport mile-long cigarette holders. Overcoat Phillip, who wears overcoats the year around. And decorates them with pins. Rollin Kirby, the cartoonist. Nothing so cute as a chubby Jap baby.

Photographers who gather for society weddings and look bored. Joe Smith of Westport. The hotel district springing up on Lexington ave. A Paris divorcee who hasn't spoken to a man since her divorce four years ago. Or so it is reported. Wish I could run across some home-made jelly!

The first skyscraper in New York was the Latting Observatory, built in 1853 on the site of the Salmon Tower, West 42d. It rose 350 feet of old lumber braced with iron and had an elevator so shaky few would risk it. The cost was $180,000 and it was named for Warren Latting, who built it.

Twelve rich New Yorkers are "buffs," having private fire boxes in homes. Minor fires do not interest, but a 12-alarm brings 11 on the gallop and one in a wheel chair. They began as volunteers and never lost the thrill of a whooping blaze.

* * *

Always variety in midtown for those hospitable to life's various manifestations. Tenth avenue and 46th street. Dusk. A midget pops into the middle of the thoroughfare gravely to direct traffic. Soon all is in a snarl. A policeman tucks the squirming midget under his arm and makes for a station house.

The Lilliputian had a single drink in a speakeasy and got that way.

And Frank Tinney used to tell of the alcoholic who eluded the trailing blue alligator by walking around a post hurriedly three times and hopping on a street car. Then there was Tinney's yarn of the drunk stepping from a street car, turning a somersault and skidding on his ear into a gutter. Arising with dignity and dusting himself off, he would explain to first-aid samaritans:

An indifferently named speakeasy in East 52d is "The Wide Open." And why so many other wide open ones on that street?

* * *

"I am told," writes a lady from the Hotel Weylin, "you sent the wife of a novelist one of those whirring disguises that pop out of letters and scare the recipient to death. Of course, you jerk chairs from trembling old ladies. What else do you do to be amusing?"

Rock boats and start forest fires.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

THE SEGMENTED egg, while it is still little more than a mass of cells of different degrees of activity, becomes parceled out into a series of separate areas, each with its own peculiar chemistry.

H. G. Wells

Each of these areas has its own local differences in activity, and thus within each area new subzones come into being, each characterized by its own chemical peculiarities. The processes they set in train run their appointed course.

The chemical mosaic becomes a mosaic of visibly different structures. Ultimately this mosaic becomes a whole again. All its parts have become interconnected by blood and nerves and are falling into subjection to the government of the brain.

Hormones make widely separated parts grow or shrink in synchrony, the nervous system throws into simultaneous action the most widely diverse kinds of organs and tissues. The parts work for the good of the whole, and in so doing they achieve the perfection of their own structure and the body its full measure of co-ordination.

To achieve success in this elaborate shaping of a new individual, to prevent monstrosities from appearing, marvels of adjustment and timing are needed, certainly no less accurate than those in the engine and magneto of the car.

And the more delicate the adjustment the more need for it to be removed from outside interference in its plastic early stages.

The rarity of human monstrosities is in part due to ages of natural selection, by which heritable disharmonies and maladjustments have been weeded out, in part to the rich and uniform conditions and the perfect protection from outside interference provided for the developing embryo in the maternal body.

SECTION 4. TRANSFORMATION OF TADPOLES

Every spring tens of thousands of tadpoles become transformed into little frogs and leave the water for the land. This change, so trivial seeming, so familiar most of us do not even pause to think about it or its underlying machinery, is in reality pregnant with interest, and from its study far-reaching ideas have been born.

The tadpole's metamorphosis involves a radical change in the whole structure and working of the organism as it passes from one element to another.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Written in collaboration with Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Ladies, Learn About Style

You Are to Be LONG and "SLINKY," With Big Hats

ONE "SWELL" AND TWO WOMEN AT "ROYAL ASCOT"

Two events, in EUROPE, decide each year the Fall and Winter fashions for women in AMERICA.

Ours are high-spirited, free-born, sovereign American women, but, while they think they choose their own styles, you find when the dust settles that they are dressing as Paris tells them to dress.

The two events so important to fashion are the British races at Royal Ascot and the solemn announcement of Fall and Winter styles by leading Paris dressmakers.

Above you see a picture of a very swell person, MALE. You may be sure that what HE has on is correct. His hat is a gray "topper," NOT black. NEVER wear a black topper for racing. That one-button "cutaway" coat, showing the white waistcoat beneath, the pale gray tie, and especially that bottom button on the white waistcoat left UNFASTENED, all those things are carefully thought out, including the racing glasses over the right shoulder.

If he put them over the left shoulder, or changed that pearl gray hat for a black silk hat, it would destroy the whole picture and the man would be NOBODY.

You might as well omit the word "directly" or the word "inversely" from Newton's formula on gravitation as to take that little white tip of handkerchief from the outside pocket.

Now we reach the two ladies who show American women what they are to look like.

They are to wear big hats instead of little hats. Short dresses are a thing of the past for those that keep up-to-date. There is no law, however, preventing girls who have presentable knees from wearing the short ones.

The dresses are not to be "bouffant." Paris settles that. They are to cling to your legs, giving that "slinky" effect.

A "slinky" lady, with a big hat, looking casual and rolling her eyes haughtily and disdainfully, will be just about right this Fall and Winter. Next Spring? Qui sait?

However, there is one thing wrong with these two dresses, according to Paris, and Paris in the end rules.

The dresses should be a LITTLE higher in front, longer in back.

Evening dresses in the front will be twelve inches from the floor, to let the lady walk without falling over herself. In the rear she may possibly drag a foot or two of velvet, fur, or both, on the ground.

P. S.—Advertising agents and artists that make pictures for ready-made clothing ought to study the face of the gentleman in this picture, for that is how the fashionable man wants to look.

He wants to look SOLEMN, EARNEST, BORED, DEEP, with a heartache manfully controlled.

What Do You Know?

BOSTON'S ORIGINAL KNOWLEDGE TEST

Do you know:

1—Who is the American Ambassador in Berlin?
2—What girl has made a solo flight from London to Australia in an airplane?
